FLIES AVOID BLUE

A French scientist is authority for the statement that flies have a distinct objection to blue. This was first discovered by a farmer who keeps a large number of cows in several sheds. One of these sheds happened to be painted blue on the inside and in this cows were little troubled by flies. He blueed the walls and thus protected all his cows. French farmers in the vicinity are now adding a blue coloring to their white-wash. Their formula is as follows: To 20 gallons of water add ten pounds of slacked lime and one pound of ultramarine. The walls are tinted twice during the summer.
