

SALISBURY.

Star Lodge, No. 409 K. of P. of Salisbury, held their annual memorial services at 2 o'clock p. m. in their hall in the McKinley building on Sunday. An appropriate address was made by Rev. E. E. Oney of the Lutheran church. The music was furnished by the Salisbury Orchestra and the Boynton band. After the services in the hall, the members of the order and the band marched to the I. O. O. F. cemetery where services were held also.

The lawn fete held on Saturday evening on the Chalfant lawn for the benefit of the Woman Suffrage Association was well patronized. However, many men and women remained away for the same and simple reason that they are not in favor of the Woman Suffrage movement and for that reason will not contribute to its promotion.

Wm. B. Frye, the champion ground hog catcher scored a record for this season that will be hard to beat. Last Friday "Windy Bill" and Jap Tressler captured 15 woodchucks and "Windy" avers that it was not a good day at that. He captured 44 in three days and the total would have been a good deal higher, he says, but all hogs that were too old, not fat enough or too large to be roasted in a common wash boiler were turned loose for some one else to while away the time over.

GRANTSVILLE.

The Old Pike through Grantsville has been completed and the contractors, Fogle & Son, of Altoona, are to be congratulated upon the splendid road they have built. Maryland is building a system of good roads that she may well be proud of but it is still far from what it should be and it is to be hoped she will continue in the good work she has started until every part of the State is connected by roads kept up to par. Since the rebuilding of the historic Old National Road it has become the main thoroughfare between the East and the West and automobiles of every description may be seen on the Pike at all hours of the day and the greater part of the night.

Miss Angela Getty, who graduated from the Frostburg State Normal School last week is home for her vacation. Miss Ruth Keller also finished her course at Western Maryland College and will spend her vacation with her parents. Both girls are to be congratulated upon their good work at school and on their training for the profession of teaching for which they are now well prepared.

Mrs. Howard Ringer has been ill the past week. Her sister, Miss Bessie Griffith is with her. The many friends of Mrs. Dr. Keller are glad to hear she is improving nicely at the Johns Hopkins Hospital where she underwent a very serious operation some time ago.

Misses Ruth Keller, Wilda Getty, Ethel Stanton and Urban Blocher, Lloyd Loechel, Floyd Stanton motored to Addison on Sunday evening and took supper at that place.

GARRETT.

Everybody is looking forward to the celebration to be held here on July 5th.

Posters have been displayed announcing the program for the event which consists among other things, of music, races, etc. Various prizes will be given and the music will be furnished by the Garrett band. The event promises to be an unusual one.

Many of our people attended the Lincoln Chautauqua at Meyersdale and report excellent talent in the course.

James N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shoemaker, of Garrett, died on Thursday evening from diphtheria. He suffered for about 7 weeks from the onset of the disease until the angel of death saw fit to relieve him. He was the pride and the joy of his parents as well as of the many people who knew him. He was always kind and affectionate to his playmates and friendly to all with whom he came in contact. The little one was aged three years and nine months.

Funeral services were held in the Lutheran church on Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock by Rev. W. H. B. Carney. There survive him, his parents and one sister. Interment was made in the cemetery at Fritz's church. Tressler & Walker, of Meyersdale were the undertakers.

Mr. Husband, Help Your Wife in the Kitchen!

No, not peeling the potatoes, washing the dishes and the other familiar kitchen duties, but help her by buying a cook stove that will make her work easier and more comfortable. You're not the one that stands over a red-hot stove preparing meals and you're not always around when coal is needed or there's wood to be split or ashes to be taken up.

What's more to the point, you don't have to be if you buy a

NEW PERFECTION OIL COOK STOVE

And your wife won't have to stew herself to a frazzle in a hot kitchen getting breakfast, dinner and supper ready. Now, be fair to your wife and relieve her of a lot of the drudgery of the kitchen with a New Perfection. Think how easy it is for her to simply scratch a match and have a stove ready for instant use—no poking and raking and waiting for it to "burn up." Save money? Why, of course! There's no fuel being consumed when the stove is not in use. And think of the time and labor saved, too. With the separate oven and fireless cooker the New Perfection has the utility of other stoves. Your wife can bake, roast, fry, broil and boil. Can heat water for wash day and irons for ironing day.

Don't put it off any longer. Go now to your dealer and examine the New Perfection Oil Cook Stove with the perfected oil reservoir, the regulated flame control, the combination chimneys that prevent smoke and smell and the improved wick that outlasts the ordinary kind. Give your wife a square deal and investigate today this safe, sane, saving and satisfying cook stove.

Indiana Normal, A School For Ambition

A Pittsburg'er's Impression of the Famous School at Indiana, Pa.

The other day I went up to Indiana, Pa. It's about 60 miles from Pittsburg. Say—I didn't know we had the biggest Normal School in America right here in this town. You ought to see that school—fifteen hundred eager, busy students—full of life and work—around splendid buildings in a setting of fine old elms and oaks on the wide-spreading campus.

There are two great things about this school you remember them above all the rest. First, those fifteen hundred students, brimful of ambition and youth; second, the fact that Indiana has a definite, well-defined purpose. That purpose is the reason for the school's tremendous success—the one essential and basic reason. I think of course, it is good to have a property worth a million dollars and to have the best kind of equipment, and the best professors you can employ, and all that. Indiana has all these and more.

But in spite of all its richness and its beauty the most impressive thing to me in thinking over my visit is that steady, clear purpose. It is in the air—everywhere. Everybody at Indiana Normal knows what he or she is doing, why he or she is doing it—and they're all glad and eager in the doing. There's no laissez faire, culture for show-off's sake falteries at this school. There's plenty of music—but you have to work at it and get it—and there's Latin and Greek, and German and French. I don't believe there's a school anywhere which gives a wider range of studies.

They certainly do get the young people work; but they don't neglect athletics when their track team comes around collecting cups. I know about Indiana in athletics all right; we all do. We know Frank Mt. Pleasant, William J. Whit, running water, elevators, and coaches, and R. A. Carroll among the runners.

A Practical School This school seemed to me to have a broader, freer scope than others; it stands upon a hill, intellectually as well as physically. It may be said to specialize on Ambition. It inspires ambition and then trains that Ambition.

I believe there's more practical, sensible Ambition at Indiana than at any other place I've ever visited. This school provides a thorough training; it aims to equip young women and young men to find, to win and to deserve true happiness—the happiness that comes from doing efficient work in the world and from appreciating the good and beautiful things of life.

While I looked over the happy, busy throngs at Indiana I kept thinking what a wonderful thing it is to be fitting fifteen hundred girls and boys to become truly valuable workers for a definite, well-defined purpose. Most of the students will become teachers. Think of the thousands of Indiana graduates now spreading that philosophy of cheerful service and of joy in good work. Honestly, I believe there is no greater work for the good of the world being done anywhere than this that Indiana does so well. The state is proud and has good reason to be proud of this big school.

Many Comforts—Small Expense One of the many wonderful things at the school is the quality and number of things they provide for a very small amount of money. The school is very like a college in appearance. In furnishing and equipment it is very like the homes of well-to-do men of excellent taste. The rooms are perfect for comfort; there is steam heat, electric light, running water, elevators. The school has its own power plant, which cost $155,000; its own ice plant, cold storage room, or laundry, and laundry, and laundry and tuition for $200 a year, if you are preparing to teach. No—not $200 a term—$200 for a school year. A few days after visiting the school I paid $3 for the opportunity of trying to sleep in a stuffy hotel room not equal to any respect to one of the school's rooms—$3 for one night. One thing I know—Indiana is giving a demonstration of economics and good living about as remarkable in its way as its demonstration of thorough, practical training. A year at that school would be a bargain, in my opinion, at $750 in health and comfort, allowing nothing for the inspiration, knowledge and training.

Hard Work and Healthful Play If you get the impression from what I've written about serious work that the students' life at Indiana is a "grind" you are quite mistaken. When they work they work with a will, and when they play they put the same joyous life and spirit into the play. Baseball, tennis, basketball, all sorts of track events—after classes the wide grounds are alive with healthy young people enjoying themselves. There's a splendid big room for dancing. The girls have a kitchen of their own where they put into practice their cooking and serving lessons. There are sports clubs, societies, a debating club, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., a well-stocked library and a reading room. If there's anything boys and girls want and should have which is not given them at Indiana, I can't think of it.

The principal of Indiana Normal is Dr. James E. Ament, A. M. Ph. D. LL. D., who came to the school in 1906 when it had about three hundred students.

If you want to see a place far more interesting than any factory or mill or breakfast foods, go to Indiana, where they are training young women and men to live useful and happy lives. If you can't go, the next best thing is to read the Indiana Catalogue, a beautifully illustrated book. As nearly as pictures and text can, it conveys justice to the greatness of the school. It describes it in a remarkable book about a wonderful school—and it is sent free on request. Anyone interested in schools—and everybody ought to be—should have this book. It makes you proud of our state and the people who have made such a school.
