

NEWS IN GENERAL.

A parade in which nearly 10,000 firemen participated, brought to a close Thursday the thirty-sixth annual convention of the State Firemen's association in Philadelphia.

President Wilson has announced his engagement to Mrs. Norman Galt, a beautiful widow of Washington. Their wedding will take place the first week in December. Mrs. Wilson died fourteen months ago.

War between Bulgaria and the Entente powers was declared last week. Austro-German troops to the number of 400,000 invaded Serbia with Field Marshall Von Mackensen at their head and captured Belgrade.

A slide in the Gaillard cut of the Panama canal will take probably ten months to dredge. One hundred vessels, waiting passage through the canal, will be obliged to go to their destination some other way.

Reports of five of the largest banks carrying the payrolls of big corporations in the Pittsburgh district show that the October pay will approximate $32,000,000, exceeding that of any month for several years by at least 15 per cent. The largest preceding payroll month of recent years was October, 1911, when the aggregate for the same banks was $26,000,000.

J. C. Wanamaker, of Toledo, Ohio, received full value for his money at a restaurant in that city, recently, for he found a pearl worth more than $100 in a 25 cent dish of raw oysters. One of the waiters in the restaurant contended the pearl belonged to him, but the Toledo man refused to give it to the waiter. Mr. Wanamaker returned to Toledo with the pearl in his possession.

Both Berlin and Paris claim gains for their troops in the vicinity of Tabbure, in the Champagne region of France. The French assert that to the southeast of that town they captured a German trench, while Berlin says the Germans regained a strip of territory over a front of two and one-half miles and, in addition, took several trenches to the east of Souchez.

On the remainder of the front, from Belgium to the Vosges there has been heavy fighting.

Enthusiasm for the "old faith" and a return to the teachings of the Ten Commandments, rather than a new creed, was urged Saturday, at the Pittsburgh conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, meeting in Christ Church, Pittsburgh, by Rev. Dr. Franklin Hamilton, chancellor of the American university in Washington.

Religion, he said, has had enough of "political cure-alls and quackery," and while the Methodist Church stood as a protagonist for a united Protestantism, Dr. Hamilton declared the greatest need of the day was a return to the zeal of the "old-time personal religion."

Senator Penrose and the liquor gang were scored at a mass meeting held recently at York by the state W. C. T. U. by M. Clyde Kelly, of Pittsburgh, who said that Penrose would not have been re-elected to the senate had the church members voted the way they pray. He said that there are 600,000 church members in this state, and last fall one-half of these went to the polls and threw their votes to Penrose and his liquor ticket.

Eighteen thousand liquor dealers of the United States, the speaker declared, control 8,000,000 citizens. These liquor dealers, the speaker said, are saffits compared to the church members who do not vote as they pray.

Not less than $100,000 and probably more—possibly as much as $1,000,000—is given as the amount of loot secured by bandits who held up Baltimore & Ohio train No. 1 at Central Station, W. Va., Friday. This was the opinion expressed by postal officials in Cincinnati, after they had received the official reports from Clerk-in-Charge Haines Huff and the other two mail clerks who were held at bay while the bandits made their escape with 93 registered packages containing money shipped from the United States treasury at Washington.

There is no clue to the bandits. The money is in unsigned U. S. currency but the signatures can easily be forged and the bills used.

Song and Story....

Profit and Loss.

Working and hoarding as years go past, Searching for riches that will not last Laying up treasure our time we spend.

What will it profit us in the end? Striving to save just a little more, Only to add to our earthly store, Working from morn till the shadows fall,

What will it profit us after all? Nothing is carried beyond the grave, Nothing of all that we toiled to save, Slave for the world and we pay the cost—

Profits for us in the end are lost. Riches are held to the owner's loss Netting him nought in return but dross.

Happy the man, ay, wise is he, Whose profits wait in eternity! B. W. Lutke, St. Louis.

A Rhyming Housewife.

They have a woman in Toledo, It is said who cannot speak without rhyming. In all of her conversation about the house, even in her orders to her servants, she uses poetry as a vehicle. The rhyming mania seized her after a severe fit of illness, and now she cannot get rid of it. The effect of this when she is attending to the ordinary duties of the household must often be remarkable. It is, we suppose somewhat like this:

"It would give, Matilda, enormous relief, If you'd cook those potatoes and beans with the beef."

Or this— "Mary Jane, go right up stairs and sweep and make my bed, And do it quickly, too, d'you hear, Or else I'll punch your head."

Another— "You, Johnny, if you tear your pants, I'll flog you till I make you dance!"

Or this— "Alphonso you are eating now your fifteenth buckwheat cake, The next thing you'll be howling with a frightful stomach ache."

Or this— "Louisa put your bonnet on and get your woolen shawl, And come with me to Ferguson's to make a little call. It makes no difference, my child, What bonnet you may wear, But, for gracious sakes, Louisa, Take a comb and frizz your hair."

Poor Sinner.

A New York politician in writing a letter of condolence to the widow of a late member of the legislature says: "I cannot tell you how pained I was to hear that your husband had gone to heaven. We were bosom friends, but now we shall never meet again."

Not Just What She Meant.

Pupil—Teacher, may I be absent this afternoon? My aunt's cousin is dead? Teacher—Well—yes—I suppose so; but really I wish it were some nearer relation.

A family which had only recently come into great wealth bought a huge country estate. One day at a reception the wife was telling of the new purchase. "It's all so interesting," she gushed. "We're are to have our own cattle and horses and pigs and hens—"

"Oh, hens?" interrupted another guest. "And they'll lay fresh eggs for you!"

"I don't know," was the rather rigid response. "Of course our hens can work if they want to, but situated as we are, it really won't be necessary."

Smelled the Beans.

A young lady took down the receiver of the telephone one day and discovered that the line was in use.

"I just put on a pan of beans for dinner," she heard one woman inform another.

She hung up the receiver and waited for the conversation to end. Returning to the telephone she heard prices paid for steers shows what can be done by the farmers in this county in raising high class stock.

YOUNG MAN ACCIDENTALLY ELECTROCUTED.

Wm. Howard Gibbs, telephone line man of the Pittsburgh Telephone Co., was electrocuted on an electric power wire in Braddock on Wednesday. The body of Mr. Gibbs was brought to the home of the bride's parents in Lincoln township, this county on Friday last and the remains were buried at Edle at 10 o'clock the following day.

Mr. Gibbs was 36 years of age, an exemplary young man and his premature death is much regretted by a large circle of friends. His widow before her marriage was Miss Lillian Baker, daughter of Simon D. Baker of Lincoln township. Five children also survive.

CROUP AND WHOOPINGCOUGH.

Mrs. T. Neurener, Eau Claire, Wis., says, "Foley's Honey and Tar Compound cured my boy of a very severe attack of croup after other remedies had failed. Our milkman cured his children of whoopingcough." Foley's has a forty years record of similar cases. Contains no opiates. Always insist on Foley's. Sold everywhere.

Hundreds of health articles appear in newspapers and magazines, and in practically every one of them the importance of keeping the bowels regular is emphasized. A constipated condition invites disease. A dependable physic that acts without inconvenience or griping is Foley Cathartic.
