The trade in real estate some time ago of Andrew Horchner and Harry F. Habel, whereby the former obtains the town property of the latter on High street and Mr. Habel has become the owner of the farm of Mr. Horchner just beyond the tunnel near Sand Patch, became a reality to each of the persons concerned this week by two movings. Mr. Habel is a telegraph operator for the B. & O. near where his farm is located. Mr. Horchner deems it time that he slows up from the activities of a considerable number of years (he is not old yet) to enjoy some of the simple life. Sorry to lose a good resident in Mr. Habel! Welcome to his genial successor!

Last spring a turkey hen owned by Scott Hoy, in West Providence township Bedford County laid a nestful of eggs and decided she would hatch out a lot of young "turks," but Mr. Hoy's old gobbler thought other wise and after chasing the turkey hen off the nest set on the eggs himself. The Hoy family took a hand in the affair at this time and made another nest for Mr. Gobbler and filled it with hen eggs. This arrangement seemed satisfactory to the turkeys until the eggs were hatched. When the gobbler found he had hatched a lot of chickens he refused to own them and took the young turkeys from the hen and left her raise the chickens while he "mothered" the young turkeys. Both raised large broods.

A Plain American's Thanksgiving

Having lived more than a half century in America, a descendant of the early settlers, and having given to my children the message of hope received from my parents, I am qualified to express publicly a word of thanksgiving, says a correspondent of the New York Evening Post. Inseparable in my mind are our Father, my country, my home, my neighbor, thus apply:

"The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want.

"He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me beside the still waters.

"He restoreth my soul; he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

"Yea, though I walk in the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

"Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

And America, like the good wife in Proverbs, "shall do me good and not evil all the days of my life."

My country, 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing.

Here more than elsewhere on earth is practiced that sum of knowledge, "Love one another."

America, I thank, I love, I serve thee.
Thy honor is mine. My best, my all, are thine.

America's best is yet to be.
