

A LIFE-SAVING EXHIBIT

One of the features in the Palace of Education at the Panama-Pacific Exposition which attracted widespread attention was the Exhibit of the Pennsylvania State Department of Health.

Physicians, public health workers, sanitarians and hundreds of thousands of people studied with keen interest the display which showed the ten years of work in this Commonwealth to protect and improve health conditions. For months before the exhibition opened, artists, model makers, draftsmen, plaster modelers were busily engaged in constructing the interesting models which showed in marvelous detail all of the buildings of the Tuberculosis Sanatoria at Mont Alto, Cresson and Hamburg. These were constructed on a scale of one-sixteenth of an inch to the foot.

The accurate and artistic reproduction of these buildings in themselves made up a feature of the exhibit which offered opportunities for study to hospitals and health authorities from all over the United States.

There were models showing how epidemics of typhoid fever have been caused, models of schoolhouses showing proper ventilation and arrangement of buildings and ground, models of children showing correct and incorrect posture and many others equally interesting and fascinating.

This exhibit, which was planned and constructed under the supervision of Commissioner of Health Samuel G. Dixon, was shipped at the close of the Exposition to Philadelphia and will be erected at the Academy of Natural Sciences on Logan Square, where it will be open to the public for some time to come.

Following its display in Philadelphia it will probably be taken to other large centers of population in the State.

NEARBY COUNTIES.

Mrs. John Huges, of Westmont, a suburb of Johnstown has had a steel needle removed from one of her knees that had been there for eighteen years and only recently began to give her pain.

The Court has just approved the County Commissioners' proposition to issue $500,000 of bonds for the construction of roads in Westmoreland County during the year. Of the amount $417,000 will go towards the completion of work already begun and paying off indebtedness previously contracted, while the remaining $83,000 will be used for rebuilding other roads that are in need of attention, during the summer.

Wehrum mine No. 3 of the Lackawanna Coal & Coke Company at Johnstown has begun shipping coal after an illness of twelve years because of an underground reservoir that flooded the entire workings. The mine has been drained, by putting in a new entry 1,100 feet deep. A drill hole 40 feet deep was always kept ahead of the workmen to prevent a surprise by flood.

The Oshell girls who were arrested some months ago and lodged in the Cambria county jail under circumstances of extreme brutality have instituted a civil suit against Sheriff Mulholland and Constable Miller asking for $5,000 for false arrest and imprisonment. They seem to have a very good case. Levy Oshell, father of the girls, charged with felonious assault, was acquitted by a Clearfield jury last week.

The Washington police have been asked to search for Mrs. Kathryn Myers, aged 22 years, of Cumberland, a bride of five days, who strangely disappeared from the concourse of Union Station Saturday while her husband was purchasing postal cards nearby. The couple were at the station preparing to return to their home in Cumberland when the bride vanished. They had been spending their honeymoon in that city. Although the police of the capital have worked hard they were unable to locate the young wife. She is a daughter of Abijah Dolly, a former West Virginia representative.

Are you paying to sit in the dark?

PAYING to ruin your eyes, paying to smell burning wick and the odor of poor kerosene? Are you doing these things?

Unless your home is equipped with Rayo Lamps—you probably are. And what's more, you are paying the identical price that would buy you the flood of brilliant, eye-soothing, steady light that beams from a Rayo Lamp filled with slow-burning

ATLANTIC Rayolight OIL

Rayo Lamps are beautiful—an ornament to any room. And they burn brightly, without flicker or smell. Your dealer can show you a special design for any room, ranging in price from $1.50 up. No matter what sort of light you've got, the addition of a few Rayo Lamps will make your home brighter and the folks happier.

But Rayo Lamps are at their best when burning Atlantic Rayolight Oil. It is the one kerosene that burns without smoke or smell—that is always the same. It gives the brightest light and the greatest heat for the least money.

The use of Atlantic Rayolight Oil doesn't stop with burning and heating; thousands of housewives have written us that it's the very finest thing to brighten faded carpets, keeps the moths away from closets, shelves and drawers, cuts grease better than anything else, and that for washing windows it's without equal.

Be certain to ask for Atlantic Rayolight Oil by name—it costs no more than the unknown, unreliable kerosene.
