Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

NATION'S PAYROLL $65,000,000 MORE

Seven hundred thousand workmen, a large proportion of whom live in or near Philadelphia, have had their wages advanced during this month, according to a review of the financial and mercantile situation which was issued recently by the First National bank of Philadelphia. The nation's payroll, says the review, has expanded $65,000,000 in the last two weeks.
"As a general thing," the statement continues, "those who are profiting by the country's unprecedented prosperity are acting conservatively, using their profits to strengthen their credit rather than to pay excessive dividends."
This means, the bank says, that when war orders cease to expand trade business will still be in a flourishing condition.
