GLENCOE

Forward! March! To the long celebrated Mt. Lebanon picnic on Aug. 12. The Committee is arranging a right glorious line up of real fun for the affair.

That was a rare trip the "A Ford" Leydig had to Greensburg on Sunday. "Henry" acted spunky considering the various diagnosis he received at the hospitals enroute.

John Weaver and family of Coan-ellville spent a few days with I. J. Tayman. Black berry picking was the main mission.

J. K. Kessler while working on his new barn on Monday fell thru the threshing floor to the ground thereby badly wrenching his back and cutting a gash in his head. Dr. Miller of Berlin was called and the patient is in a serious condition at present.

The body of George Martz of Bridgeport was brought here for burial on last Friday. The funeral was preached in the Evangelical Church by Rev. Howsare.

Alice Webreck, acting in the capacity of road supervisor, and Marion Leydig as recorder of road condition made a tour of the Hollow and Southampton Highways on Friday night by moonlight. Alfred Wilmoth played the part of chauffeur.

Mrs. W. H. Miller and Wilber spent a few days at J. H. Miller's.

Harry Cook made two people happy by taking himself and horse across the Savage Mt. on Sunday. First his lassie and lastly Mrs. Downey whose vehicle suffered a punctured wheel and hung her up on the elevation.

Alfred Broadwater was a Wilmington, Delaware, and Philadelphia visitor last week-end. He reports a delightful 200 mile auto drive through the section visited.

VIM

Mr. John Pyle of Coal Run visited his daughter Mrs. Eugene Wellen on Wednesday last week.

Mrs. Oscar Merrill of Meyersdale spent last Thursday at the home of Milant Resh.

Freemont Pike, and his employees painted the house of Jacob Geiger at Wittenberg the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Beck and two daughters, Helen and Viola of near Bakersville, spent Sunday at the home of Walter Herring.

Miss Elizabeth Troester, the efficient bookkeeper of the Shipley Hardware Store, Meyersdale was taking her well earned vacation in Cumberland, Md., with friends and relatives, last week.

Mrs. Waller Marten and family of Frostburg, Md. spent from Sunday to Wednesday at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Marten.

Mrs. Crosgrove and son of Frostburg Md. visiting at the home of Wm. Engle the fore part of the week.

SIPPLEVILLE

Mrs. A. E. Truxal and daughter Rebecca visited George Sipples Saturday last.

Misses Elizabeth Hauger and Clara Crissinger were welcome callers at W. A. Freasess Sunday.

Mrs. Adam Hersh and Children and Mr. Williams Merbach visited Henry Sipple's Sunday last.

Mrs. Cozen is visiting her daughter Mrs. Wm. Baer, at present.

Bertha and George Swearman of Summit Mills visited their cousin Minnie Swearman of Glade City, this week.

George Sipple and family visited and Mrs. Wm. Baer Sunday last.

Rev. A. S. Kresge was a welcome caller at Henry Sipple's Wednesday.

A hawk, caught in a trap last winter acts as a policeman in keeping chickens out of the garden of A. R. Rathmill, of Somersetfield. It has become so tame that it never attempts to use his talons on one of the family. Mrs. Rathmill has made a great pet of the hawk, and as long as it is furnished plenty of fresh meat it seems happy and contented in its confinement. It is prevented from flying away by a small chain attached to one of its legs and fastened to a post. Recently chickens invaded the garden and threatened to destroy her vegetables. Then a bright idea occurred to her. She staked the hawk in the garden. After that not a chicken, not even a brave old rooster, set foot in the place.

MOLASSES DAINTIES

Honeycomb Gingerbread—Mix together a heaping cup of flour, a half pound of brown sugar, a quarter pound of soft butter, one dessert spoon of allspice, and two dessert spoons of ground ginger. Add the grated peel of half a lemon and the whole of the juice. Mix the ingredients thoroughly, then pour in a cup of New Orleans molasses; beat all well, then spread thinly on shallow buttered pans. Bake in rather a slow oven and watch carefully. When done remove from the oven, and with a sharp knife, cut into four inch squares, rolling each piece around the fingers as it is raised from the pan.

Farmers' Fruit Cake—Take one cup of dried apples, chop them and soak them overnight. In the morning let them simmer for two hours in a cup of New Orleans molasses, then set aside to get slightly cool. Take one cup of sugar, a third of a cup of butter, a half cup of sour milk in which a teaspoon of baking soda has been dissolved, two teaspoons of ground cinnamon and one of cloves, two beaten eggs, and two cups of finely sifted flour. Mix all well and add the apple and molasses. Bake in well buttered square pans.

Soft Molasses Cookies—Put one cup of molasses into a mixing bowl, then sift in one tablespoon of ground ginger, two tablespoons of warm milk, one third of a cup of warm soft butter, one teaspoon of baking soda, and enough flour to make a soft dough, just firm enough to roll out half an inch thick. Cut with a round or fancy cutter and bake in a brisk oven.

Mexican Cake—Turn one cup of molasses into a mixing bowl with two tablespoons of melted butter, one cup of boiling water, one teaspoon of baking soda dissolved in a little boiling water, one heaping tablespoon of ground ginger, and three cups of sifted flour. Turn into buttered layer cake pans and bake. Have ready when the cakes are done, a lemon filling, made after this recipe: two cups of sugar, the grated rind of two lemons and the strained juice; two tablespoons of flour mixed with cold water, one tablespoon of melted butter, one cup of boiling water. After thoroughly mixing add the beaten whites of two eggs and cook together in a double boiler until thickened. Let cool slightly before laying up the cake, then frost the top with a soft frosting flavored with lemon, and decorate the top of the cake with candied kumquats, cut in halves or slices.

Spice Cakes—Beat the yolks of three eggs with one cup of molasses, add a half cup of butter, a half cup of milk, three cups of flour, a pinch of salt, two teaspoons of baking powder, a dessert spoon of vanilla and a teaspoon each of cinnamon, cloves and allspice, with a generous grating of nutmeg. Bake in fancy patty pans and frost with chocolate, marshmallow or pistachio icing. If desired a teaspoon of ground ginger may be added to the cakes, though this is a matter of taste.

Maple Ginger Cake—Mix a half cup of butter with a cup of sugar, add a half cup of milk, two beaten eggs, one cup of New Orleans molasses, one tablespoon of ground ginger, a teaspoon of allspice, one and a half teaspoons of baking powder, and two cups of flour. Mix thoroughly and bake in square, shallow pans. When done, lay the cakes up with a well made maple icing between the layers. If the cake layer is too thick, it may be easily split after it is slightly cool. Half candied cherries may be set into the icing on top by way of decoration.

Needlework

What to do with an old spread has found an answer in a couch cover. When the spread shows signs of wear and promises not to come out of the laundry, more than a few times, dye it any color you wish and cut and finish it to fit a couch that needs a cover. Ribbon is used on everything, beginning with dressing saques and ending with evening gowns.

French knots are often used to ornament a tray cloth. When the knots are of a pretty shade of pink, blue, or yellow the monogram shows up very well beneath the glass covering of the serving tray.

Knitting and needlework are woman's constant companions now, and the reticule has therefore assumed a really practical aspect. One that is worn with an embroidered velvet bracelet round the left arm is very long and in shape something like a bellows. It is composed of cleverly plaited silk, with a stole of embroidered velvet in the center ending with a tassel. When there is much to put into the bag the silk obligingly expands; when little the narrowness of the bag is elegant indeed. As beading and applique work are liked again now these forms of decoration may be used instead of the ordinary silk embroidery.

Cream of Peanut Soup. Put one quart of milk into a double boiler and add to it the juice of one onion, a bay leaf, a half cup of chopped celery, pepper, salt and half a pint of peanut butter. Cook until all is smooth, then thicken with a tablespoon of corn starch mixed in a little cold water. Serve hot with toasted croutons.

Casseroles Roast. Two pounds round steak cut into small pieces, one can peas, one half can tomatoes, one carrot, sliced, one onion, sliced, four cloves, one quarter cup tapoca, one quarter cup soft bread crumbs, salt and pepper to taste. Cover with water and cook four or five hours in oven, covered closely.

BUYING OUT OF TOWN.

Editor Commercial:
 Dear Sir:—
 In a recent issue of your excellent paper, one of the articles claims that $209,000 were spent last year outside of this town by individual consumers of merchandise.

That is a large sum; but, possibly it may be increased next year unless the merchants act differently. I would not say that there is any friction between the merchant and the customer, but I will say that some articles are cheaper in other towns than in this one, and it is only reasonable to think that people are going to buy where they can get the most satisfaction and the most for their money.

I am one of those guilty of sending away to other places for the various necessities and I think that I would be very foolish to trade here when I know the prices are a shame that are offered me here compared to the prices elsewhere. Now, I don't want the business men or any one else to imagine that there is any ill feeling but I say "Be reasonable in all things; don't force too high prices on the people and then blame it on the law. This is a free country and if it hurts you to see so much money going out of the town, don't try to make such big profits. Put up your prices besides those offered elsewhere and as you say you can meet them and give us as good an article, and even better, why don't we see your prices advertised more? You complain of us buying elsewhere, but seldom let us know what your prices are. Another thing that rises up is Does the merchant, who wants us to buy here, buy everything he uses in his store from the other town merchants? Does the wife of the dry goods man buy all her groceries here? Not much. Does the grocer's family get his dry goods in town? If they can do so much better elsewhere why should we pay them any price they choose to charge? Do as you would like to be done to and that will remedy this practice. We, consumers, are your friends, but want you to be reasonable and fair; and do not only recognize us only when in your store but be brotherly in other places as well. Let us stand for what is right and fight life's struggles together. We certainly wish success to the new organization and that it may remedy this condition of things.

A Customer.

One of the great drawbacks in this world is that men never know it is too late until it is too late.

Women will never be paid as much for lecturing as men, because they do too much of it for nothing.

A girl who parades the streets in short skirts thinks other people think she has shapely ankles.

They once tried to shut a woman up in a lunatic asylum—but they say she kept on talking.

Some men can make a dollar go a long way, but not as far as a reserved seat in heaven.

The stronger the language a man uses the more confidence a woman has in his bravery.

Silence makes a bluff that's hard to call.

The unfairness of the fair sex is proverbial.

Social duties. If you have time—and you have—you should sit down in your uneasy chair and contemplate your social duties. Catalog them first, grouping them under two heads that will occur to you, and then exercise your sense of humor.

After you have done this, you may resolve to reform—if you wish. But the sense of humor will be your real salvation. If it doesn't save you, you're a goner.

Of all social duties you will find that your greatest and most loved is the composite one of keeping "hep" with somebody who is geared faster, socially and financially, than you are. This is the duty that, properly respected, makes you fuss so ridiculously at the grocer and the landlord about the high cost of living.

Another well recognized duty is that of becoming prominently solicitous about the welfare of the heathen at home and abroad. This is a costly duty that demands much sacrifice and domestic activity; but it is worthy for the heathen, who set one or two per cent of the affluence displayed, needs the money.

There are many other social duties that are not worth mentioning, but it might do you good to think them over.—From Judge.

Some people act as though they were afraid they might forget their troubles if they didn't talk about them all the time.

No doubt the wise old hen chuckles to herself every time she sees a man trying to beat her little game with an incubator.

Young man don't forget to ask her if she can support you in the style and luxury to which you have been accustomed.

If we should use an axe on our own faults we shouldn't have so much time to use a hammer on other people's.

It is a fortunate thing that society is so shallow; otherwise half the people who are in it would be drowned.
