GLENCOE

Mrs. W. H. Hensel of Friedens spent the week-end with friends and relatives.

Threshing has all the farmers by the throat and the boys sure have the dust in their eyes. The gang is comprised of men with the exception of "Cookie Alice."

Mrs. Lewis Little and daughters, Mr. Cupp and wife of Friedens arrived here Sunday by jitney to spend the day with Mrs. W. H. Miller.

Don't let sympathy go to waste. Pass it on to Karl Raupach to soothe his loneliness since the departure of Virgie for New York.

On Sunday evening Harry Cook, dressed himself up in his horse and buggy and hid away to Mountain Valley.

Mrs. J. H. Spicer of Cumberland came home Tuesday to spend a fortnight with her parents.

Peal your "glims" for the dressed up rig that hitches on the main boulevard nightly it has three yellow and one wheel and belongs to the "Rowdy boss."

Nyna Lowery of Ellerslie is visiting her sister Mrs. Russell Kennell.

Representative Gillett, of Massachusetts, has settled the postmaster general with his speech made on the floor of the House, in which he pointed out the raid made through a proposition to motorize the routes, hundreds of old carriers, under civil service, have been thrown out of jobs and their places filled by democrats and that this branch of the postal service had been demoralized, its efficiency greatly impaired, by this return to the spoils system.

In a time of stringent blockade by the Allies, Germany sent a submarine freighter to this country with a cargo of dyes. She sold them in a ready market at fabulous prices. What will she not do when the blockade has been removed by the peace agreement and with no protective tariff to preserve our markets for "Americans first."

THEATRICAL

The new Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature, "The Suspect," was produced under the capable direction of S. Rankin Drew, who is one of, if not the youngest director in the motion picture profession.

Mr. Drew is especially in the "fight scenes" in his pictures and more than justifies his reputation in "The Suspect." There are a number of instances where the picture would have fallen flat had the fight scenes been unreal.

There is not one of these scenes in the picture which does not show real vim and strength on the part of the actors. Mr. Drew plays in these scenes himself and his attitude would frighten the others into a real fight if they started off in a haphazard manner. In one scene where Mr. Dred and Mr. Cooper came to blows over some argument Mr. Drew's wrist was wrenched by Cooper who twisted it entirely around when he discovered that Drew was getting him near the floor.

Another scene shows the Nihilists, who play a prominent part in the action of the production being captured by the Russian police and dragged from their secret meeting place. As the different officers drag the captives down the high stone steps of the building there is no "faking," for when the scene was over the unfortunate captives had to wish to so much as witness the production when it was completed.

This masterpiece will be shown at the Bijou Theatre Friday September, 22nd.

President Wilson was at least frank on one issue he made it perfectly plain that he is everlastingly opposed to the principle of a protective tariff, though of course he may change his mind before election.

A deacon who did not favor church bazars was going along a dark street when a footpad suddenly appeared and, pointing his pistol, began to relieve his victim of his money.

The thief, however, apparently suffered some pangs of remorse. "It's pretty rough to be gone through like this ain't it, sir?" he inquired.

"Oh, that's all right, my man," the "held-up" one answered, cheerfully. "I was on my way to a church bazar. You're first, and there's an end to it."

Representative Fess, of Ohio, one of the great orators of the House, in speaking of the Republican policy said to a group of colleagues: "The Republican idea is to build up and maintain the home market. That means to bring the agriculturist, the manufacturer, the miner, and the exchange man all into close cooperation. It proceeds upon the theory that what will add the one will not hurt the other. It means to make possible the producer by making possible the consumer. It invests capital in order to employ labor, in this way what helps the consumer will not hurt the producer."
