A number of our young people serenaded Mr. and Mrs. Ira Livengood

Estella Miller of Meyersdale spent a few days of last week at the home of Wilson A. Millers.
Edgar Hostetler left last Wednesday for Pittsburg where he will work in the Carnegie Steel Works.
He says that the United States "can more thoughtfully and calmly take up the tariff revision at a later time." Before Wilson's pre-election conversion to "Preparedness" he wanted to postpone the building of battleships until the European war had shown us what type was most desirable. Thanks for the suggestion, Mr. Editor, but we are going right ahead and enact a protective tariff law after March 4, 1917, when the Republican party comes into power. We have kept posted on the trade agreements which have been entered into by the Allies and by the Central Powers. We have it on pretty good authority that Germany alone has $1,500,000,000 worth of surplus products ready to dump in the best market when the war is over. They are not coming in here without the payment of protective duties. Forewarned is forearmed.

Editorial Comments

The Democrats continue to ignore Mr. Hughes' speeches to the extent that all they do is to sputter and gasp.

Let it be conceded there are really strong grounds for the opinion that President Wilson may carry Texas next November. If there had some enthusiasm will soon be going out to bet that the tide will sweep on until Mississippi and Alabama are also enrolled in the Democratic column.

Many big Democrats willing and ready to speak for Wilson are careful that their money shall not say anything on his side.

President Wilson says he is utterly indifferent as to his re-election. Perhaps that explains a good many things nobody has heretofore been able to understand.

"Help me, Cassius, or I sink!" For "Cassius" read "Congress."

The notion seems to be that the Democratic national chairman is claiming more than he will get, but not any more than he will need.

As further evidence that he is warm hearted and intensely human, Mr. Hughes likes apple pie.

No man is going to be elected—or re-elected—to high office by votes gained from states' rights declarations this late in the game. The states' rights question was settled some fifty years ago to the evident satisfaction of a considerable majority.—Kansas City Star.

"Adequate preparedness is not militarism. It is the essential assurance of security. It is a necessary safeguard of peace." Candidate Hughes has left nothing to be said on this subject. He has snuffed out counter argument at the very outset.

"Are we Americans a nation of bunglers?" asks the New York Sun. It would be very hard to answer this in the affirmative—and, anyway, we elect a Democratic president only every once in a while.

GOVERNOR BRUMBAUGH
AGRICULTURAL TOURS.
During his agricultural tours of Pennsylvania's Gov. Martin G. Brumbaugh is passing over portions of the William Penn highway four times. The governor is one of the strongest "boosters" for this market and post road; and in a letter to M. H. James, William Penn secretary, the state's chief executive coins alliterative phrase descriptive of the route from were arranged so as to take the executive and his 125 friends and fellow Philadelphia to Pittsburg. He refers to its matchless miles of scenic splendors.

The governor's letter relative to the William Penn highway is as follows—
"The William Penn highway connecting at least 12 county seats with the capital and metropolitan cities of the commonwealth, is to my mind one of the great highways of America.
It is almost a gravity road westward in the heart of the state. Its scenic beauty is unmatched. Its easy grades make it the great market road of the state.
It trends westward through such a wealth of historic scenes that in due time when suitably marked the traveler will be able to read on its sides the story of pioneer conquest over natural barriers and savage tribes.

There is not an uninteresting mile from Philadelphia to Pittsburg. The commonwealth at large is interested in the route. Its radial lines will tie it to the Lincoln highway on the south and with another great trunk line on the north.
I have seen many roads and have gone over most of the scenic routes of the country and to me the most entrancingly beautiful of all is the road through the theatre of our great eastern farm section: up the blue Juniata famous in song and story; over the crested Alleghenies, from the reaches of the Conemaugh, and on to the great city of the western part of the state.
I hope to see it made so attractive that thousands annually will come from without to share with us its many matchless miles of scenic splendor."
