WHEAT PLANTING TIME

The season for planting wheat is at hand, and the chief feature in avoiding destruction by the fall brood of the Hessian fly lies in not planting too early.

Over the greater part of Pennsylvania wheat should not be planted before the last week of September, and to be sure of avoiding the Hessian fly, it is best to delay the planting in all parts of the State until the latter part of this month. The Hessian fly has been very destructive throughout Pennsylvania, and farmers have learned the importance of taking precautionary measures toward preventing an increase. Volunteer grain should be plowed down by the end of this month. Those who are wise enough to have a trap strip across the field in order to catch the eggs of the Hessian fly can turn this down by the last of September and drill it to wheat for their regular crop.

Seeding before the middle of September is almost sure to be infested with the fly, and carry this pest over the winter for its spring brood, which is the one that causes the wheat straws to break and fall before harvest time. There is no means of preventing the destruction by the spring brood of the Hessian fly. No agricultural practice, no fertilizing and no insecticide has yet been able to check it or reduce it. The best recommendation that can be given for preventing the ravages of this pest, which has destroyed hundreds of thousands of dollars in Pennsylvania, is the one point of late fall seeding. This, of course, does not mean that the seed bed should be prepared late. The seed bed should be prepared by early plowing and abundant harrowing, so that it is in a good state of cultivation to receive and retain moisture and keep the plants growing vigorously.

COUNTRY HOME WATER SYSTEM

"Water systems for country homes may be put in at a very reasonable cost," says Charles G. McLain, water supply engineer of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. "It depends somewhat upon the facilities for water as to the kind of system to be put in. If the well is the only source, the method may be either a storage tank or a pressure tank. If the storage tank is used it may be either in the attic or else some elevation conveniently close to the buildings to be supplied. If the pressure tank system is used the tank can be placed either in the cellar or else in a place prepared for it outside of the building.

"In either case it is necessary to have a pump of some kind to force the water from the well to the place of storage. If the elevated storage tank is used, the water returns from it by gravity to be distributed through the building as desired. The pressure tank distributes the water by air pressure as the water is forced into the tank that is full of air, thus producing the air pressure.

"If these is a high tension or any electric line running near by putting in an automatic switch one can be rid of a lot of trouble starting and stopping a gas engine, because the different pressures will automatically start and stop the pump, by turning on and turning off the electric current.

"The cost of most any system can be regulated to suit the circumstances of the party putting it in."

WHY not give your lad the same training?

"When I was a growing lad, and came upon many words in my reading that I did not understand, my mother, instead of giving me the definition when I applied to her, uniformly sent me to the dictionary to learn it, and in this way I gradually learned many things besides the meaning of the individual word in question—among other things, how to use a dictionary, and the great pleasure and advantage there might be in the use of the dictionary. Afterwards, when I went to the village school, my chief diversion, after lessons were learned and before they were recited, was in turning over the pages of the 'Unabridged' of those days. Now the most modern Unabridged—the NEW INTERNATIONAL—gives me a pleasure of the same sort. So far as my knowledge extends, it is at present the best of the one-volume dictionaries, and quite sufficient for all ordinary uses. Even those who possess the splendid dictionaries in several volumes will yet find it a great convenience to have this, which is so compact, so full, and so trustworthy as to leave, in most cases, little to be desired."—Albert S. Cook, Ph.D., LL.D., Professor of the English Language and Literature, Yale Univ., April 28, 1911.

Horses and Kerosene

You wouldn't expect your horse to work without good substantial feed, would you? He couldn't pull a load uphill or take a rig skimming over the road without the right kind of hay and grain

It's the same with your lamp and oil stove. You can't expect a good, brilliant light and steady heat from inferior kerosene. Give them

A Perfection Oil Heater can be safely carried to any room in the house. It will give you just the right heat, exactly where you want it, at any time of day or night. No smoke, soot, ashes or unpleasant odors. Ask your dealer to show you Perfection Oil Heaters. They are very reasonably priced at $3.50 to $5.00.

ATLANTIC Rayolight OIL

Don't blame that hazy, flickering light on the lamp. Don't condemn your heater, it's doing its best to keep you warm with ordinary kerosene. Use Atlantic Rayolight Oil. It's so highly refined, so perfectly pure that it gives a clear, mellow light or an even, comforting heat without smelling, smoking or charring the wicks.

Atlantic Rayolight Oil costs no more than the ordinary kinds. Always ask for it by name.

It's mighty handy to have a barrel of Atlantic Rayolight Oil on hand when the snow begins to fly. Insist on seeing the brand name on the barrel. It's your guarantee of the highest grade kerosene possible to produce.
