HEALTH HINTS DR. DIXON

Preliminary to the opening of schools and places of public entertainment to children after the period of quarantine, Commissioner of Health Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, offers the following advice to teachers and parents:

"The rules and regulations of the Department of Health made to carry out the organic laws of the State relating to infantile Paralysis permit children under sixteen years of age to attend school and go to places of amusement, etc., on the 29th day of September, 1916. The curtailing of the liberties of children, attending school, etc., from August 24th to the 29th of September was for the purpose of protecting children from infantile Paralysis, which not only claimed a high death toll but leaves many of the survivors cripples for years, and often their entire lives.

It is to be hoped that the public and those particularly in charge of schools and other entertainments that bring children together, will remember that the danger has not entirely disappeared. Everything should be done to promote the general health of the children, and the parents should continue discipline that will keep them from unnecessary traveling in trolleys and railroad trains or congregating in buildings poorly ventilated.

The collecting of children together just for their pleasure or the pleasure of adults, or the making of a little money might still be the cause of spreading infantile Paralysis. It is to be hoped, therefore, that those in the care of children will remember and enforce the precautions they have been taught during the threatened epidemic in Pennsylvania.

Remember the fearful slaughter of little children in New York and New Jersey from this disease, every exertion must be made from now until next spring to bring about the improvement of sanitary conditions tatty and prevent any repetition of what we are yet passing through."

Was at Irwin seven years, paying off church debt, organized congregation and built a church at Larimer. Had charge of four congregations, building three new churches, dedicating them free or debt.

SURPRISE FOR REV. C. E. MILLER

A very pleasant reception was given Rev. C. E. Miller, pastor of the Evangelical Congregation of Meyersdale on last Monday evening at the home of Mr and Mrs. J. C. Mankamy of this place. At the Annual Conference session of a few weeks ago, Rev. Miller was again assigned to the pastorate of Meyersdale; and after a visit with home folks, returned to this place a few days ago.

The surprise was a complete one. Surely innovations do sometimes follow our plans very completely. Rev. Miller had prepared to make a call, but had stopped long enough to explain an arithmetic lesson to Miss Thelma. When this was done, Mr. Mankamy had some business accounts to be examined, then some lumber to figure out. Before all this was completed, however, a phone call was to be answered, when every advance was cut off by the visiting party, then the meaning of the affairs began to dawn upon the minister's mind. The guests were nicely entertained by some fine selections on the piano by Miss Myrtle Mankamy; by vocal selections by Mr. William Butler, Mrs. Butler and son Willie. After the refreshments had been served, Mr. Berkley presented to the returned pastor a laundry bag which contained $11. In cash besides other gifts from the persons present. All wish the recipient a very successful year.

DEDICATED CHURCH AT SPRINGS

Consisting beyond the capacity of the building people in general as well as the Mennonite members assembled on Sunday forenoon at the reopening and dedication of the church in that place. Improvements to the amount of $1500 were made and there was a deficit of a few hundred dollars when the services began but before they were ended about all of that amount had been raised without much ado. Rev. Shetler, of Johnstown made the principal address. He emphasized the idea that persons need to be dedicated even more than a building.

A number of people from this section was present and all were impressed with the cordiality and the hospitality of the citizens of that section.

VALUABLE HOME BURNS AT OAKLAND

The home of Mr. G. P. Hammond, a prominent resident of Oakland Md., was destroyed by fire on Saturday morning. The property was of brick and one of the most artistic in that town.

It cost about $15,000 and was in part insured.

When the fire occurred, Mrs. Hammond was visiting her sister Mrs. Calvin Hartley in this place and the news that her beautiful home had been burned was distressing to make known to her.

It was only a few months ago, that Mr. and Mrs. Hammond buried their only son and child a young attorney.

GARRETT MINES RESUME WORK

After a lapse of four months of idleness the South Side mines of Garrett owned and operated by Wm. G. Hocking and sons, of Meyersdale, on Monday started up. By the end of the week it is expected that one hundred men will be at work. The difference between employers and the employed in this particular case was indeed small and it is hard to really decide what the difference was. All the miners were loyal to Mr. Hocking.

It is expected that Mr. Merrill mines of Garrett will also be in operation in a few days. Financially for the past few months Garrett has been dead.

That men willfully would almost prefer to go hungry than to listen to reason and go to work is hard to be understood at least by industrious people.
