It is a miracle that they were not killed.

NOTES FROM HIGH SCHOOL

The Value of Singing.

If a visitor should appear in the high school during chapel or recreation, he surely would think that the students were preserving their voices or that their vocal organs were very weak. Every student here has the power to sing, so why not exercise it? A good tonic for people possessed with the blues is to sing and to sing with spirit. Practice this and the result will be smiles that won't come off.

Basket Ball.

The captain and the manager of the 1917 team held a conference last Thursday evening and have prepared a schedule for the coming season. Games are being desired with the following teams, that of Windber, three of them, Johnstown, Tyrone, Uniontown, Greensburg, Altoona, Altoona, Piedmont; Keyser Prep.; Lonaconing, Charleroi, Beall in Allegheny County. Games have already been promised with the last named school and that of Windber. The prospects are bright for a banner, because four of the 1916 team are still available with promising material to select from the subs of last year.

Hither and Yon.

Amelia Clotworthy, a graduate of the class of 1912 istaking the Commercial course this winter.

Mr. Weaver says he does not know what some pupils are chewing and he does not like to ask but expressed a wish to be "treated accordingly." He likes candy, apples, pears, and oh! lots of things in an out of season.

Gertrude Lintz of the class of '15 is back with us practicing typewriting. She formally took the classical course.

Harvey Meyers is kind enough to ask other boys to go with him; he goes up town to see the "latest" or "ladies" we don't quite understand which he said.

The latest step in time saving is dismissing the girls separately. There is less inclination to loitering.

The Gress twins are with us again after spending some time, "Working room," in the meanwhile some people seem to have forgotten which is which for Mr. Weaver had such one in the others seat.

Sam Greer has the mistaken idea that when Lady Macbeth told her guests to "stand not upon the order of your going but go at once," she meant, "Stay awhile yet." Where did Sam get the "Stay awhile."

Margaret Damico does not care how soon the rubber factory stops. They haven't an auto and she cannot hear the teachers coming.

Mr. Hoyle who has spent 31 years in Japan and China stopped to see us during Synod week, and told us many interesting things about China.

Miss Beck informed the Junior English Class that there would not be any home if there had not been any grease. (Greece.)

Mr. Arnold had better beware of Gregg Darrow. She is liable to throw the desk at him.

Of course Harvey is bright in every thing but especially in German as that comes naturally to him.

Miss Beck—What kind of humor is used in Scene 1? Helen Wagner—Either aqueous or vitreous.

The Commercial Juniors seem to derive "some" amusement from stenography. What seems to be the fun?

"Dick" Bowman tried to give the Junior class a nickname the other day, when he accidentally stepped on a thumb tack.

Has anyone seen the horn on Lydia Glessner's head? We knew she was naughty but never dreamed she was that bad.

Herbert Leckemby is again with the Sophomores. He says there are not enough people in Akron.

Estella Rowe would make a fine farmer. She says when she becomes a farmer she's going to plant lots of potato seeds.

Marcella Reich had better buy herself a watch. James Swank needs his for himself.

According to Mr. Weaver our new method of measuring is by "bushels of acres."

It is asked that a bed be brought for the private use of Verda Lindeman.

The Freshmen ask George Collins to don dresses if he wishes to march out with the girls, according to the new laws of M. H. S.

In Physical Geography Class John Boose was asked to recite but reasked the question. He must have been thinking of those sweet chestnuts he was talking about.

Mr. Arnold has the Freshman, Classical and Com. confused. He asked them to translate Latin into German.

SALISBURY

When the Moon is shining.

Just as the moon was rising above the tops of the trees, the Truth Seekers Bible Class came in by twos and threes. Each was given a welcome into the seats around the fire and each was given one letter of "five words pertaining to the class." These when formed composed the class name. Acorns were then "served" to the waiting crowd. Those contained directions for a short speech, song or some stunt to perform. Miss Sallie Lichty having drawn the two blanks, was of necessity called upon to perform what the others could not possibly do, and great was her consternation when an "impossible" was directed to turn a handspring. She also sang a solo very prettily. The moonlit grove resounded with "some sounds of sweetest-harmony" when the crowd lifted up their voices with one accord and sang, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." Then as perfect stillness reigned, Rev. B. F. Waltz thanked the Father for the blessings and privileges which we have and asked that the class might grow not only in numbers but in the Christian graces.

A delicious chicken supper was then served from an improvised table between a tree and a stump. Only one fault could be found with the feast, those chickens had neither livers or gizzards, and some one even dared to blame it upon some member of the committee, but no that would never do. Great rosy apples and juicy pears were there galore!

After being thus refreshed some of the guests settled down for a conversation and then soon to depart for home. The young folks circled around a blazing bonfire for games and told tales and stories. Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Livengood head of the committee on arrangements regaled the company with interesting bits of history and experiences.

The spell of the night was upon them and they stayed unable to break the charm until a new day was being ushered, then departed to rather the visitors present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Miller of Confluence, Mr. and Mrs. John Miller of McKees Rocks. The class, Truth Seekers' Bible Class of the Church of the Brethren, entertained a number of visitors of town and nearby also. They appreciate the kindness of Emmanuel Yoder in letting them use his grove for this meeting.

Shower for Bride-to-Be
A miscellaneous shower was given last Thursday evening for Miss Helen Reitz at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Reitz. The rooms were tastefully decorated with autumn leaves and flowers and lighted with jack o' lanterns. The gifts were concealed about the rooms and Miss Helen was given a ball of twine which she was told to wind up and to keep everything she should find attached to it. For in this case findin' keepsin' sure enough; among the many beautiful gifts was a most beautiful runner for library table made by her aunt Miss Elizabeth Reitz.

A peanut lunch followed which lived up everybody and prepared them for the contest to follow. The guests were given black and white tissue paper and clothes-pins which they were to dress as men. Miss Dorothy Gletley won the prize for having her clothes pin most closely resembled a man.

After a delicious luncheon and a most enjoyable evening the guests departed for their homes wishing that the girl, who shortly became a bride and her chosen, should "live happily ever after."

Death of Infant

On Monday afternoon the soul of little Agnes Alexander went to the God who gave it and left her parents Mr. and Mrs. Russell Alexander sorrowing for the void there would be in their home. Little Agnes not quite one year old, was a very healthy and friendly child, and suffered only a few days from the cerebro meningitis which proved fatal. Interment was made on Wednesday afternoon in the Catholic cemetery at West Salisbury.
