STORES IN BURMA.

You Can Make Purchases in Them If You Try Hard Enough.

You may walk through the muddy old markets of Rangoon for hours at a time or through the bazaar at Mandalay without any of the salespeople taking the slightest notice of you as a possible purchaser of their wares. The dear little ladies sit crosslegged upon long tables in front of the high cupboards containing their goods. They are placidly smoking or chatting or painting their faces or braiding their hair. They are not attending to business in the least.

It requires a great effort to get a Burmese shopwoman (they are nearly all women) to show you her silks, and when at last she has spread her merchandise broadcast upon the table and you are reveling in the illusion that you are living in the middle of a rainbow, with a chance of holding fast to some of its colors, she will ask her price, which is seldom more than a rupee too much, and will stick to it like glue.

She is an indolent lady in many ways, who loves a quiet life, and she has determined that her most comfortable course is not to haggle in the market place. So you may make up your mind that bargaining and persuasion are useless arts to practice in Burma, however valuable they may be elsewhere.—London Spectator.

AGREE ON BETTER HUNTING LAWS

a great extension of the water area in which fish will be produced.

No Trout Size Limit.

The fish code makes clear and simple classifications of fish, size and catch limits. After a hot fight the size limit on trout was stricken out, the catch limit placed at 25 and the season made from April 15 to July 31. Greater powers are given the commissioner in the classification of waters. Practically all night fishing is prohibited, no racks are permitted and the gig and spear are outlawed. For bass or trout, fishing is permitted up to 10 o'clock at night and after 5 o'clock in the morning. Separate bills for the protection of frogs and turtles are prepared.

In the code of the seine is prohibited for catching bait fish, but traps, dip and scoop nets not more than four feet square and scoop nets not over 18 inches in diameter are permitted. The fish commission will make an effort to supply and distribute more bait fish for stocking streams.

The prohibition of Sunday fishing is made a separated section of the code. There was strong sentiment for striking it out altogether and making it a separate act. If Gov. Brumbaugh will approve a code minus the Sunday provision, the conference committee has instructions to cut it out.
