

New Jersey Druggists Stand Back of Reliable Kidney Medicine

We have handled Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root for thirty years and we have sufficient confidence in its merit to recommend it for any ailment of the kidney, liver or bladder. We believe it stands highest in rank of any preparation of its kind on the market, and it has been found to be specially valuable in cases of catarrh or inflammation of the bladder.

Very truly yours,
JENKINS & MEYER,
Druggists,
Washington, N. J.

I have sold Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root for the past fifteen years as proprietor and for eleven years as a clerk and I have heard very favorable reports from those who have used it. The sale for the preparation is very steady and if it did not possess great merit in the diseases for which it is recommended the demand would not continue.

Very truly yours,
R. H. VAN DERVEER,

Died of Premature Old Age!

(BY V. M. PIERCE, M. D.)
How many times we hear of comparatively young persons passing away when they should have lived to be 70 or 80 years of age. This fatal work is usually attributed to the kidneys, as, when the kidneys degenerate, it causes auto-intoxication. The more injurious the poisons passing through the kidneys, the quicker will those noble organs be degenerated, and the sooner they decay. To prevent premature old age and promote long life, lighten the work of the kidneys by drinking plenty of pure water all day long, and occasionally taking Auric (double strength) before meals. This can be obtained at drug stores. Auric will overcome such conditions as rheumatism, dropsical swellings, cold extremities, scalding and burning urine and sleeplessness due to constant arising.

West Virginia Folks Testify

Volga, W. Va.—"Golden Medical Discovery proved so beneficial in my past state of ill-health that I was glad to try Auric, the new discovery of Dr. Pierce. I was in a delicate condition and suffered from many discomforts. I ached all over, was constipated, had indigestion, was extremely nervous; another discomfort was shifting rheumatism, something I had had for years. At that time it was in my hips and lower limbs. I began taking the Auric Tablets according to directions, and can say, and speak in the bounds of truth, that I have not had rheumatism since. I have no indigestion and am not constipated. The relief given could not be more satisfactory."

Canada Offers 160 Acres Free to Farm Hands

Bonus of Western Canada Land to Men Assisting in Maintaining Needed Grain Production

The demand for farm labor in Canada is great. As an inducement to secure the necessary help at once, Canada will give and allow the time of the farm laborer, who has filed on the land, to apply as residence duties, the same as if he actually had lived on it. Another special concession is the reduction of one year in the time to complete duties. Two years instead of three as heretofore, but only to men working on the farms for at least six months in 1917. This appeal for farm help is in no way connected with enlistment for military service but solely to increase agricultural output. A wonderful opportunity to secure a farm and draw good wages at the same time. Canadian Government will pay all fare over one cent per mile from St. Paul or Duluth to Canadian destination. Information as to low railway rates may be had on application to

HAPPENINGS in the CITIES

Washington's False Teeth in a Baltimore College

BALTIMORE.—The Baltimore College of Dental Surgery owns the only set of false teeth in existence which belonged to George Washington. The only other set of artificial teeth Washington possessed was buried with him. These teeth are the work of Dr. John Greenwood of New York, who was the first American dentist. They were presented to the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery by Doctor Greenwood, and are the set worn by Washington at the time his portrait was painted by James Sharpless in 1796. The artificial teeth account for the "calm and benign" expression which he wears in the portrait.

The set is a complicated affair, and is ground and carved out of walrus tusks and of solid ivory. The teeth are carved in careful imitation of nature. There are full upper and lower sets. The plate of the upper set is made of gold, with the teeth carved of walrus tusks, while the entire lower set is made of walrus tusks, no effort being made to imitate the gums such as is found in the methods of today. Tiny platinum pins are now used to hold the teeth to the plate, but the set belonging to the Father of His Country contained rather crude wooden pins. The two sets are joined by a gold spring, closely wired.

Fake Art Being Ousted From Independence Hall

PHILADELPHIA.—Desperate efforts to forestall disclosures of the extent to which fake paintings have been foisted on the city of Philadelphia reached a climax when the city council passed an ordinance recently that led to the very revelations which the measure was designed to suppress.

The ordinance provides for the creation of a commission to take charge of Independence hall and all its paintings and relics. It is nothing more nor less than a "ripper bill" aimed at the art jury, which has been engaged in cleaning out the fakes from Independence Hall for the last three months.

More than a third of the 342 paintings in the collection at Independence hall have been passed upon by the art jury. The percentage of rejections has not been announced, but it is large. Paintings ascribed to early American artists of note like Gilbert Stuart and Charles Wilson Peale, and denounced as fakes heretofore, are to be eliminated.

But the big task which the art jury has set itself is to clean out the "French" gallery at the hall, the paintings by Albert Rosenthal, Philadelphia artist, of which no originals exist. Nearly all these paintings were sold to the city by Rosenthal as copies of originals in the Museum of Versailles. Andre Perate, assistant curator of that museum, says that in at least nine instances the originals are not at Versailles, and to the best of his knowledge do not exist.

Vouchers on file at the city hall, and reached after considerable difficulty, show that Rosenthal was paid from $250 to $1,000 each for these paintings. In a little more than 12 years Rosenthal has sold 129 paintings to the city for the Independence Hall commission. Thus nearly half the entire collection is the work of Rosenthal.

Remarkable Enterprise of the Junkmen of Gotham

NEW YORK.—"There are tricks in every trade," remarked Honest Bill Quigley, the Battery boatman, as he moored his faithful Whitehall in the barge-office basin, "but the stunt I just saw pulled by a South Brooklyn junkman was the best I have seen lately."

"He had a fine lot of old havers and ropes piled in his boat. This is the day of prosperity with the junkman, and even old havers sell for five cents a pound. But this fellow didn't seem to think his ropes weighed enough. Leastwise, he performed a remarkable operation on them."

"To begin with, he untwisted all the strands on a rope and then inserted bits of wood between them. He did this until he got a bunch fixed up and then he dropped the lot over the side and let the rope soak while he untwisted a fresh lot."

"After all the rope had been well soaked he pulled it out of the water and pulled out the sticks that held the strands apart. Then he let the outside of the havers dry off and went on his merry way to sell them. Of course they weighed a good many pounds more than before the wetting process."

The junkmen, said Quigley, now have to paint their license numbers on their boats "with white paint a foot high." Always regarded by the harbor police more or less as pirates, the junkmen are compelled to carry these numbers conspicuously on the sides of their boats, which these days are usually motorlaunches painted a dark gray or green. Notwithstanding the vigilance of the marine bluecoats, the river pirates are always turning new tricks. Recently one of them was caught boring holes through the floor of the Spanish Line pier. Profitable streams of cocoa poured into the junkman's boat until he was caught at it and the practice stopped.

Ferocious Rabbit Is Terror of the New York Zoo

NEW YORK.—Bunch was exiled the other day from the comfort and warmth of the hayhouse in the Central park zoo to solitary confinement in the small house back of the zebu corral.

Bill Snyder, animal lover and head keeper, gave a sort of farewell party to Bunch in the afternoon, when his friends gathered for their weekly talk-fest in the hayhouse. As he held up Bunch by his long ears he explained that he was, so far as he knew, the only fighting rabbit in existence and that his banishment had been finally and reluctantly decided upon only after Bunch had nearly killed a champion and valuable gamecock.

When the rabbit started first upon his prize-winning career, Bill was very proud of his pet, but Bunch became such a ferocious bully of small animals and fowls that the keeper concluded that a beast so dangerous should be confined where he could do no more harm.

As Bill held the rabbit up for the inspection of his friends—Bill's, not Bunch's—the small fighter much resented his attentions. One of Bunch's ears is torn, and there is a scar across the entire top of his head, souvenirs of an encounter with Spot, Bill's fox terrier. One of the rabbit's hind legs is out of alignment also, from injuries received in a three-round bout with Judy, a fighting orang-outang now some time gone to rest. Bunch tried desperately to wriggle from the keeper's grasp, and it was plain to be seen that but for the man's superior strength the dauntless rabbit would have attacked Bill with great fury.

Mending Neatly.
Always mend your stockings on the wrong side, and do not begin too close to the hole. Use small stitches and at the end of each line leave a loop which will allow for shrinking. Make each line of stitches a little longer than the preceding line until you reach the center of the hole, when the number of stitches should be decreased. In this manner you will have a diamond-shaped darn. Pass your needle under and through the frayed loops of the stocking and bring them to the wrong side. If done correctly nothing should show on the right side of the stocking but the woven stitches of the darn.

A Unique Pillow Top.
An original and unique pillow top can be made of golden-brown satia with leaves of various shades and colors. These leaves are cut from the tops of discarded kid gloves and are applied and veined with floss in gold and brown. The effect is decidedly good.

"Well," queried the teacher, "what is your word?"
