NOTES FROM HIGH SCHOOL

EDITOR Lenore Collins '17

ASSISTANT EDITOR Ruth Bowmaster '19

REPORTERS Harry Aurandt '20, Irene Austin '20, Ruth Bowmaster '19, Clara Rowe '18, Edna Zinn '17, Margaret Damico '17.

Cora Landis was seen on her knees in Algebra class. We presume she forgot to say her prayer this morning.

William Keegan—"Is it right to put x's at the end of a letter?"

Miss Beck—"Is that the way you end yours, William?"

The Commercial Seniors are preparing to make contracts. Anybody wishing to contract for spring work such as House cleaning will please consult them.

The High School enjoyed a few minutes vacation from their finals, last week when Rev. Matteson gave a very interesting talk. He was extended an invitation to come again but he thought the pupils wished him to come again so they might miss a few lessons. But not the M. H. S. pupils they wouldn't think of such a thing. No Siree!

Although the Sophomores didn't have the aid of the Juniors for their class day, their program was mainly about the Juniors, thus showing that the Juniors cannot be forgotten.

Question—Who is the greatest dramatist?

Amelia—"Since Frohman is dead, I suppose it is Shakespeare."

Great debates recently occur at the noon hour among the out-of-town pupils, Harvey always being a staunch upholder of "der Kaiser."

Guy Floto when asked to define love, said he knew four kinds. Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior. What was Guy thinking about?

Ever since Monday Irvin has talked about curls. You need not tell your thoughts, actions show them sometimes.

Conversation heard after Friday afternoon's entertainment:

Oscar Austin—"Jim certainly can play that piano, can't he?"

Catherine Housel—"Well, I guess, he just makes it talk."

On Friday afternoon James Swank of the class of '18, entertained the High School with two well rendered selections on the piano, both of which received a wonderful applause. We hope that this is only the first part and that it will be followed by more of its kind.

The Freshmen are beginning work on their Class Day Program and the strains of their Class song floating thru the halls during practise gives promise of an interesting program.

Miss Mary Beck, a student in the Department of Expression, Juniata College and a sister of Miss Maude Beck, teacher in M. H. S. was a visitor in H. S. on Monday. In the afternoon she rendered two readings "The Sioux Chief's Daughter," and "So Was I" which was greatly appreciated by all.

Poor Sophs, its a shame you didn't have a class like the Junior Class, that could help you out. There is nothing like a good assistant, and you certainly need one. But many thanks for your information.

We wonder what Herbert Ringler means when he says "Make Peace." Everything seemed peaceful Sunday night.

We wonder whose dog Hazel Austin was thinking about, when she pronounced die Koffer (the trunk) yeh Rover in German.

Lenora Will is continually looking towards the rear of Room 10. We wonder who attracts her attention back there.

A number of the pupils have been anxiously awaiting their reports. Is anticipations worse than realization?

The Seniors wish to thank Mr. C. P. Baer for the static machine which he so kindly loaned them for their work in physics. They are enjoying the work in electricity as the machine makes it doubly interesting. They also wish to express their thanks for the electrical apparatus donated by Dr. C. P. Large.

The H. S. pupils wish to express their appreciation to Mr. H. M. Cook, for the eight books which he donated to the library.
