Don't forget the Freshmen Class day. The program will begin at 1:30. Everyone invited to come.

The High School pupils were thoroughly aroused last Tuesday, when it was learned that some one had shot at the Freshman President. The culprit is not known, it may have been a Sophomore in disguise. Never can tell!

Olive is so happy. Wonder why? On Monday in English class, "Mike" Hady, when heading "the coats of onions," said, "the cost of onions." Mike must have been thinking of the high cost of living even for two.

Elizabeth Keeble was a visitor at High School on Monday. She expressed her high regard for the M. H. S. students, especially the juniors. "Harvey, do not fret because you are the only 'recruit.' Some more will soon follow, besides Catherine House said she wanted to be a Red Cross Nurse!"

Miss Pierson: "I am afraid this class has too many 'Doubting Thomases' in it."

Class: "Who is it?"
Miss Pierson: "You read about him in the Bible, and he would not believe until he could see for himself."

Carl Dougherty: "That guy must have been from Missouri!"
Lepha Suter was seen playing with a little chicken in study hall. We wonder if the Easter Rabbit brought it for her? Or if she intends to start in the chicken business."

John Bode has added a word to his vocabulary. He pronounces it philosopher.

The schools were dismissed early on the afternoon of the sixth and the short Easter vacation seemed to have been enjoyed by all the pupils by the smiles and flowers exhibited on Monday.

George Griffith, Marie Hay, Helen Baer and Grace Wike had a tug of war on Monday, when they tried to pull two Margdeburg hemispheres apart. Then George exhibited the strength of a Sampson, when he pulled them apart unaided.

Maurice Clark entertained the H. S. students Friday afternoon with two solos which were greatly appreciated by all. He was accompanied by Mrs. H. M. Cook.

Miss Anne Steinhilber of Somerset, a student at the Baldwin School, Byron Mawr, Pa., was a visitor in H. S. Thursday afternoon.

We are glad to hear that Prof. Weaver is improving rapidly and will soon be with us again. During his absence Mr. S. Philson of Berlin is hearing his classes.

Romeo and Juliet had a great effect upon Clara Rowe and Redolphus Bowman as they were seen on Thursday morning acting the closing scene; Dick using red ink for poison and Clara a pocketknife for a stiletto.

What happened to judgment? Claude Deal cannot even find it in the dictionary.

Howard Gress received a visit from a little fairy named Elizabeth. Despite the fact that girls are not allowed to sit with boys, Miss Lauver said the fairy was under the age limit. We are sure the good fairy granted him three wishes as they always do in stories.

One of the Junior girls was heard saying: "Mr. Philson makes my heart beat." How wonderful!

Anna Forquer received another proposition from Harvey Meyers. No, it was not a proposition in Geometry, of quite a different nature.

The Senior rings appeared this week and gladdened the hearts of the almost despairing class.
M. Opel: "I wish Lloyd Shumac was here to carry my traveling bag." Did Edna Zinn ask, why Loyd? or my Loyd?

Margaret Wilson entertained the members of the Senior class at her home on Large street, Tuesday evening, April 3rd. Several culprits stole the ice cream, but were afraid to eat it and returned it untouched.

In the meantime the boys of the Class had bought more ice cream and this enabled the crowd to have another party the following day, after school.

Carl Dougherty has been inquiring about Mother's Day, and has ordered one dozen of Sun Flowers. He must be going to Grantsville.

The men who go to war are sure of not starving, for John Meyers has enlisted as "Bean Hauler."

Miss Pierson: "Two crackers contain 100 calories."
George Collins: "What kind of crackers."
Miss Pierson: "Oh, U-Need-A-Biscuit."

We saw in the paper last week that Mr. Bittner is contemplating building a home for Martens. Grace Fike wonders whether she is included.

Did Harvey really send Christina an Easter bouquet?
Mr. Arnold: "What is an optimist?"
Clara Gautz: "A person who fixes eyes."

Mr. Beck: "What kind of figures do we have in that stanza?"
Cora Landis: "Figures of Speech."

The Sophomores have a great liking for the Freshman Class Song, that they cannot resist the temptation to stay away from Room 10 while the Freshmen are practicing their class song.

While discussing Loch Lomond in "Lady of the Lake," Cora Landis wanted to know whether Ellen fell in the lake.

On Monday morning while in Algebra class Miss Brodhead moved Catherine Siehl to one of the front seats. We suppose Catherine realizes that this is spring, for spring is generally regarded as moving season.

Mrs. Lydia B. McKinley.

Respected Lady Succumbs After Eight Week's Illness.

Miss Lydia, the fourth daughter of Daniel and Eliza Beachley, was born in Meyersdale, or what was then Meyers Mill.

Her death occurred last Sunday, aged 73 years, 11 months and six days.

Miss Beachley was a very successful teacher, and among the ones who follow the remains to their last resting place are many who were her pupils and are her warmest friends.

She was one of the first corps of teachers who taught in the "brick school house," now the municipal building.

On November 17, 1872 she was united in marriage with Dr. H. C. McKinley, and they took up their residence in Meyersdale, and five years later moved into the house where they continued to reside until her death. Here she reared to manhood and womanhood her two children, Arthur, now a successful business man in New Orleans, and Miss Gussie, who resides at home.

Mrs. McKinley was a rare combination of elements of character, a genuine Christian woman, an indulgent parent, a loving wife, yet with all these she was a devoted worker in the cause of temperance, and probably no other person in the interior counties had met so many women workers in the cause as she had and who also enjoyed the confidence of all of them.

Her sweet, engaging manner endeared her to those who knew her and gained her the confidence of those she met. She enjoyed the esteem of and entertained at her home Mrs. Anna Shaw and Mrs. Willard, and discussed with them the effective means of promoting sobriety, and the prohibition of the liquor traffic, which bore fruit during the past few years in almost one-half of the states of the Union.

Mrs. McKinley had four sisters and three brothers; one brother dying in infancy, William M. and U. M. were residents of Meyersdale, the latter a prominent physician and surgeon, both of whom have preceded her to the spirit land. Two sisters, Mrs. Mary Saylor of Waterloo, Iowa, and Mrs. Sallie Listieo of Lincoln, Nebraska, survive her. Mrs. Eliza Mills and Miss Barbara Beachley are deceased.

She was a consistent member of the Brethren church and the funeral was conducted at her late home today by her first pastor, Rev. A. D. Nagy, now of Ashland, Ohio, and will be followed by interment in the Union cemetery.

Mrs. McKinley was a patient sufferer during her long illness extending over eight weeks, where she had the advantage of the best medical skill in the town, as well as that of Dr. Lichty, a personal friend, of Cleveland, Ohio, but her disease was too deep-rooted to yield to treatment.

Yesterday afternoon the ladies of the W. C. T. U. of the town held services which were very impressive and many of the ladies yielded to their emotions, showing the strong bond of friendship they had for her.

The verdict of all who knew her is, "A good, true woman has gone to her reward."

Younkin Coal Tract Sold.

Dr. C. J. Hemminger and J. R. Barron, of Rockwood, have purchased the coal under the W. S. Younkin farm in Black township, for a consideration of $10,000. The tract contains about 143 acres that is underlain with coal, and the new owners will begin operating at once.—Somerset County Leader.

This tract of valuable coal land lies along the Western Maryland R. R. and a switch is now being placed for the convenience of the people in getting this coal to market, and a tiple is being erected which will be ready for use in a few days.

P. L. Livengood of Huntingdon spent the week-end with his family in town.

Miss Margaret Gletfely of Berlin spent Easter at her home on Grant street.

"Acres of Diamonds"
On Monday evening, April 9th, the Reformed Church was crowded to the utmost when Salisbury folks and friends from neighboring towns assembled to hear Dr. Russell H. Conwell. Those who were present will probably never forget this man nor his message. He says it is not "Where We Are, But What We Are," that makes our fortune or worth.

Brief Mention
Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Rhodamer and grandson of Springs have moved to the Horchler residence, which they have purchased. The citizens of Salisbury rejoice to have these good people added to our town.

Misses Mary Reitz, Effie Lichtler, and Romaine Ditez, spent Wednesday afternoon in Meyersdale shopping.

Mrs. N. B. Hanna and Mrs. Bud Newman spent Thursday afternoon shopping in Meyersdale.

Prof. J. C. Beahm of S. Connells-ville spent the week-end at his home. A number of Salisbury folks are attending the convention in Garrett this week in the Church of the Brethren.
