WHO WENT TO FRANCE

"Love will find a way," even against stern army regulations, against wives of enlisted men accompanying their husbands to the front. Mrs. Hazel Carter, wedded to a corporal in Pershing's army, found the way by cutting her pretty hair and garbing herself in regulation uniform. All went well for a time until she was discovered aboard the transport. She was sent back from France, but says she'll try again.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE WAR

The Russians have attacked the Germans near Krevo and Vilna, north of the Pinsk marshes, and penetrated the Teuton lines for a distance of two miles, according to an official announcement made in Petrograd.

The Russians captured more than 1,000 Germans, but the developments of success, the statement adds, are being jeopardized by the moral weakness and instability of certain Russian detachments.

Between the river Sereth, Stripa and Ziota Lipa, the statement says, the Austro-Hungarians continued their offensive, occupying villages, and the chief of the Russian divisional staff was killed while re-establishing order among the units on the east Galician front.

Another daylight raid, carried out over the east coast of England, resulted in the capture of about twenty German airplanes after they had dropped a number of bombs over Felixstowe and Harwich, killing eight persons and injuring twenty-five.

An alarm was sounded in London, but before the Germans could reach any point near the city they were attacked heavily by defending squadrons of aircraft, which speedily caused them to change their minds and beat a hasty retreat.

The Fifth division of the famous German guard in its furious attack on the eastern end of Chemin-des-Dames, on the Aisne front, during Thursday night and Friday morning, gained nothing but a death trap in the shape of a trench 500 or 600 yards long on the northern side of the crest between Casemates and California plateau, above Craonne. The objective of the Germans, to obtain possession of observation points, was defeated totally. Hundreds of German bodies were left lying on the ground, and the Germans who supposedly are holding the trench cannot advance a yard.

British armored motor detachments are taking part in the Russian offensive in Galicia, according to semi-official information received from Petrograd by the Russian embassy at Washington. This is the first mention of the presence of British forces in Russia and says the armored cars are cooperating effectively with Belgian detachments sent there soon after the war began.

No mention is made as to the number or date of arrival of the British detachments.

POLLEN PESSIMISTIC

Says England Must Quit Soon If U-Boats Are Not Checked.

If Germany's submarines continue to sink tonnage at the present rate the allies cannot continue the war after February, 1919, Arthur Pollen, leading naval expert of England, declared in New York.

Pollen said the London report published in a New York paper that submarines are sinking 1,600,000 tons a month was unquestionably incorrect. He estimated the loss at something more than 500,000 tons but he admitted that the situation is a critical one.

"Have Too Many Ships."

Captain Bragg of the American barkentine Hildegaard, which was sunk in the English channel July 10 by a German U-boat, reported upon his arrival here the submarine commander, when about to sink the vessel, remarked that "America and Britain have too many ships."

To the boy or girl presenting the neatest and nearest perfect drawing for the consideration of the judges (to be announced later) a suitable prize will be given on the second day of the Redpath Chautauqua. Drawings should be left at the ticket booth on the Chautauqua's first day.

WHERE ARMY OFFICERS LEARN HORSESHOEING.

Making horseshoes is part of a cavalry officer's training at the Fort Riley army school. A complete horseshoeing plant is part of the equipment, where the officers are taught the important work of making shoes for cavalry, artillery and packhorses. Field artillery officers are also taught this work. The picture shows future generals at their anvils.

Punkutawney coal operators were thrown into a panic when it was announced that no more cars would be placed on Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh sidings where coal is loaded from wagons. Unless the order is rescinded immediately, operators say, at least seventy-five mines in that vicinity will have to close. There are 150 mines nearby.

Told that he had been drafted for service in the army when he signed a paper presented by several boys, Edward Hopkins, aged twenty-three, brooded over the prospect of war and hanged himself in his bedroom in his home in Creekside, near L'Annapolis, Hopkins was a miner and liver alone. His body was found by a newsboy while delivering papers.

Digging his own grave under a stump on his farm near Erie and burying himself in it was the method of suicide taken by James L. Corey, aged ninety-three. Boys, urged on by a reward of $100 offered by the younger Corey, who is aged sixty-six, led to discovery of the body after two days of searching by scores of neighbors.
