Driving It Home!

Let us drive home to you the fact that no washwoman can wash clothes in as sanitary a manner as that in which the work is done at our laundry. We use much more water, change the water many more times, use purer and more costly soap, and keep all the clothes in constant motion during the entire process.

It is simply a matter of having proper facilities.

Buddy

I'm the handiest thing to have around, A mighty good person to lean on hard; With me in your jeans you can't run around, You'll find me, old man, a dandy pard.

You can look 'em all in their starin' eye, If I'm packed in your pocket tight; And you know, too, boss, you'll move right spry With me for your buddy bright.

If I've squeezed you a bit to make me yours, Just think o' the lads across the pond, And know I'm one of the Kultur cures— I'm a winner of war—A Liberty Bond!

—AMOS PARRISH, Jr.

HOW YOUR BOND MONEY COMES BACK TO YOU

The money you loaned to the U. S. Government when you bought your last Liberty Bond is helping to keep your income going now.

War industries, industries directly or indirectly connected with the work of this and the Allied governments, are the center of production in this country at the present time. Stop those industries and you would stop a tremendous part of the national payroll. The money which you loaned the government by your bond purchases has been paid to workmen and producers of raw materials used in those industries. The money paid to them has seeped out through the channels of circulation into the whole country's pocketbook.

Your income in the past few months has been partly made up from that money.

MENTAL LABOR.

No, Socialism will not discourage mental labor. Capitalism discourages mental labor. Capitalism prevents the vast majority of children from getting a good education.

Capitalism also prevents the vast majority of adults from cultivating their minds.

For a number of years a certain branch of the Y. M. C. A. has discovered by actual investigation that more than twenty-five per cent of the men who apply for aid are men who have been educated in university, college, academy or high school.

The startling enormity of these figures will be realized when we consider that less than two per cent of the youth of the United States graduate from high school, and less than one-half of one per cent graduate from college.

It is impossible for one to go through a higher institution of learning without taking on some measure of refinement and culture, which makes it disgusting for him to have to work all the petty grafts and stoop to the brutalities that are necessary in order to get ahead under capitalism. Of course, many swallow their qualms, chloroform their consciences, and go in to win. When they do this, their superior intelligence enables them to outstrip many of their competitors. So, they are well represented among "successful" politicians and "successful" business men.

But when such a man holds on to his aversion to being a grafter, he too often finds himself crowded out. Not being skilled in any trade, he also finds it difficult to make a living by manual labor. Hence, the disproportionately large percentage of these men among the unemployed and the tramps.

Capitalism puts a premium on mere superficial business education. It discourages broad and liberal education.

Socialism will give everyone an opportunity to secure a broad and liberal education.

Socialism does not propose to abolish mental labor and give the entire product of society to manual labor.

When we speak of the working class, we do not mean merely those who work with their hands, but those who work with their brains as well. The fact is that every worker works with both brain and hands. In some cases, the one preponderates; in other cases the other preponderates.

Those who take delight in building up a straw man, naming him Socialism, and then knocking him down, frequently say that the Socialists intend to get along without brains, that they despise men who have a genius for managing industries, that they think such men are socially useless, and that they propose to attempt to get along without them.

This, of course, is nonsense.

The man who has a genius for managing industries will be sure of a good job in the Socialistic commonwealth.

He will be in demand.

We honor him for his ability now.

He is usually a hired man.

The real capitalist does not manage the industries. He sits in his office and figures out ways and means of investing his money to the best advantage. He owns stocks and bonds in dozens of corporations and takes practically no part in the management of any of them. At the most he attends a meeting of the board of directors now and then and has his say regarding the general policy of the business.

But the actual managing is done by the managers, the superintendents, the foremen, etc. Sometimes they are stockholders, sometimes not. In so far as they draw an income from investments, they are capitalists also. But, in so far as they do the actual work of managing industry, they do necessary and useful social labor and are entitled to compensation therefor.

A capitalist is only a capitalist in so far as he rakes into his own coffers the earnings of others by owning the means of production and distribution, directly or indirectly. He may get this income through dividends, or rent, or interest, or profits, or unearned salary. He may draw a big salary without doing anything. Or, he may draw a salary altogether out of proportion to his actual labor, so that most of it, or a part of it, is unearned. But, when he does take a hand in production or distribution himself, by doing some of the actual useful work of managing industry, to that extent he is not a capitalist, but a useful worker. Socialism fully recognizes this. And Socialism proposes only to abolish his function as a capitalist. It does not propose to abolish his function as a brain worker.

Socialism proposes to pay the brain worker for his brain work, not for investments.

Sells the Champion Cream Saver

THE NEW DE LAVAL

NINE separator users out of ten turn the handles of their machines too slowly, and when this is done, not only will the machine not skim as clean as it should, but the thickness of the cream will vary.

While it is possible to adapt the capacity of the machine to the speed, it is not desirable to do this, because even if fairly clean skimming is accomplished at varying speeds, the cream will not be uniform in thickness.

There is only one satisfactory solution, and that is to make it practically impossible for the operator to run his machine at any but the proper speed.

Every NEW De Laval is equipped with a bell speed-indicator the "warning signal" that rings when the separator handle is being turned too slowly, preventing loss of butter-fat caused by too slow operation and insuring the delivery of a cream of uniform thickness.

This simple device is patented by the De Laval Company and is found only on De Laval machines. It is only one of the many important improvements in the NEW De Laval. If you are considering the purchase of a separator, come in and let us show you a machine that has more good features than any separator you have ever seen.

The "warning signal" that insures operation at the proper speed.
