Road Problem Is Yet Troublesome

There Must Be Coöperation of Authorities in Charge of Roads.

(Prepared by the United States Department Before much definite progress can he made in getting the farmer out of the mud and in getting the city man out of the city on week ends, there must be co-ordination and co-operation of authorities in charge of local roads and highways in areas adjacent to large cities, according to the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture.

There are approximately 2,750,000 miles of local rural roads in the United States, say bureau engineers, and approximately 1,000,000 miles are administered by town or township authorities. There are, they say, 3,066 counties or equivalent subdivisions, of which 67 in the New England states have no relation to improvement or maintenance of roads. Authorities of roads classified as county roads.

Many Alfalfa Failures

Caused by Barren Seed One of the chief causes contributing to the many failures of alfalfa is the use of an unsuitable variety. Different varieties are not distinguishable by the seed and to the average person they are not distinguishable by the appearance of the growing plant. Most people when buying alfalfa seed simply call for alfalfa seed, naming no variety and often they choose the low-est priced seed which is practically always an inferior variety, or seed of low vitality, says a writer in the Farmer's Guide. During the summer I observed many fields of alfalfa in all stages of bloom and so far as I can recall I never once saw a field with a variegation in the color of the flower. This fact alone convinces that a wrong variety is used
