

Young American Fascists Sail for Visit in Italy

Here are some of the 167 American boys of Italian extraction, giving the Fascist salute just before they sailed from New York on the S. S. Augustus to sojourn at summer camps in Italy as guests of the Fascist League of North America. The boys hail from the principal cities in the East.

WASHINGTON DIFFERENT IN JOHN ADAMS' DAY

Washington, the beautiful capital of the nation, was a different sort of place in the days of John Adams, who was the first President to come to the present seat of government. It was then a struggling village with few desirable buildings, but plenty of mud. There is an interesting story of this period in the current issue of the National Republic under the caption "Washington of Other Days," and it was written by Peter Roman Sterling. Mrs. Adams described the appearance of Washington in words which were not entirely flattering. In fact, she found the White House in a condition quite different than it was to be a century and a quarter later when Mrs. Hoover arrived. To her daughter she wrote: "In the city there are buildings enough, if they were compact and finished, to accommodate Congress and those attached to it; but as they are and scattered as they are, I see no great comfort for them. The river, which runs up to Alexandria, is in full view from my window, and I see the vessels pass and re-pass. The house is on a grand and superb scale, requiring about thirty servants to attend and keep the apartments in proper order and perform the ordinary business of the house and stables; and establishment very well proportioned to the President's salary. The lighting of the apartments from the kitchen to parlors and chambers is a tax indeed, and the fires we are obliged to keep to secure us from daily agues is another very cheering comfort. Bells are wholly wanting, not one being hung through the whole house, and promises are all you can obtain. Yesterday I returned fifteen visits." In a subsequent letter she said: "Woods are all you see from Baltimore, until you reach the city, which is so only in name. No woodcutters or carters to be had at any rate. We are now indebted to a Pennsylvania wagon to bring us, through the first clerk in the Treasury Office, one cord and a half of wood, which is all we have for this house, where twelve fires are constantly required; and we are told the roads will soon be so bad it cannot be drawn. Brierley procured two hundred bushels of coal, or we must have suffered. This is the situation of almost every person. The public officers have sent to Philadelphia for woodcutters and wagons. "The vessel which has my clothes and other matters has not arrived. The ladies are impatient for a drawing-room. I have no looking-glasses but dwarfs for this house; not a twentieth part lamp enough to light it; my tea china is more than half missing. "You can scarcely believe that here, in this wilderness city, I should find my time so occupied as it is. My visitors—some of them—come three or four miles. The return of them is the work of one day. Most of the ladies reside in Georgetown, or in scattered parts of the city at two and three miles distance. Mrs. Otis, my nearest neighbor, is at lodgings half a mile from me; Mrs. Senator Otis, two miles. "We have not the least fence, yard or other convenience without, and the great unfinished audience room I make a drying-room, of to hang the clothes in. Six chambers are made comfortable; two are occupied by the President and Mr. Shaw; two lower rooms—one for a common parlor and for a levee room. Upstairs there is the oval room, which is designed for the drawing room, and has the crimson furniture in it." Over in Russia the proletariat walks and when a man has a couple of horses he is placed in the hated bourgeois class. To show you how far we are behind the communist state, here in America the proletariat drive fours and sixes and a man has to have an eight cylinder car and a rumble seat roadster before he can break into the middle class.

REVIEW: SIGNIFICANCE OF THE EXILE AND THE RESTORATION

GOLDEN TEXT—The mercy of the Lord is from everlasting to everlasting upon them that fear him, and his righteousness unto children's children. PRIMARY TOPIC—Stories Retold. JUNIOR TOPIC—Stories Retold. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Some Great Men of the Bible. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's Providence in the Exile and the Restoration.

The grade of the class, the aptitude of the scholars and the genius of the teacher are factors which determine the method of review. For adult classes the following suggestions are made:

I. Study the lessons of the quarter as illustrating the philosophy of history in God's dealings with His people in their captivity and restoration. Assignment of topics should be made at least one week in advance. Only adult scholars should be expected to use this method. The following subjects might be assigned:

Why God Permitted Israel to Go into Exile.

What Changed Views of Life Resulted from the Exile.

The Bearing of the Exile Upon Prophecy.

The Relationship of Divine Chastening to Divine Love.

II. Character Study.

Assign the outstanding heroes of the quarter's lessons to members of the class to have them report. This assignment should be made at least a week in advance. Some of the outstanding characters for consideration are: Ezekiel, Daniel, Nehemiah, Ezra, Zerubbabel and Malachi.

III. Summary of Contents.

This method is usable at all times and can be adapted to most of the grades. The following suggestions are made for carrying out this method:

Lesson for July 7—Before Ezekiel was commissioned as a prophet he was given a vision of the Almighty. After this vision he was given an experimental knowledge of God's Word.

Lesson for July 14—Ezekiel sets forth personal responsibility as bearing on the prophet and upon the people to whom he ministered. Ezekiel's responsibility was to hear God's Word and sound the warning. The people's responsibility was to hear and obey.

Lesson for July 21—Ezekiel is the prophet of hope. He ministered to Israel in captivity. God sent him to show to Israel the fullness of His plan for the world through them.

Lesson for July 28—Because Daniel made the Lord the arbiter of his life, he was able to make known the king's dream, with its interpretation.

Lesson for Aug. 4—While Belshazzar and his lords were engaged in drunken revelry, a mysterious hand recorded divine judgment.

Lesson for Aug. 11—Because of jealousy certain wicked men plotted Daniel's downfall. They trumped up a charge against him on the ground of his foreign religion. Though the foolish decree of the king was executed, Daniel was delivered and his accusers were cast to the lions and destroyed.

Lesson for Aug. 18—Though Israel went into captivity as a chastisement of the Lord, later He restored them.

Lesson for Aug. 25—In the restoration of the people to their own land, the first thing necessary was the provision of a place for the worship of God. As soon as this work was done, violent opposition was in evidence. That which God sets out to do shall be completed.

Lesson for Sept. 1—Through Zerubbabel the people were brought back and established in their own land, but they had gone far away from God. There was now need of a religious leader. Ezra was moved by the Spirit to lead them back to fellowship.

Lesson for Sept. 8—When Nehemiah heard of the distress of his brethren in Jerusalem he took the matter to the Lord in prayer. The Lord gave him favor with the king, who permitted him to go back and build the walls.

Lesson for Sept. 15—The method used in bringing back the people to God was God's Word. Because the Word was made plain, the people repented of their sins.

Lesson for Sept. 22—Malachi as an aid to Nehemiah in effecting reforms pointed out the sins of the people, namely, base ingratitude, a corrupt priesthood, mixed marriages, and robbing God by withholding tithes. He pointed to a Day of Judgment when righteous retribution would be meted out to the wicked and rewards would be given to the faithful.

Jesus Prophesied His Death

And Jesus went before them. And he took again the 12, and began to tell them what things should happen unto him, saying, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem; and the Son of man shall be delivered unto the chief priests, and the scribes; and they shall condemn him to death, and shall deliver him unto the Gentiles; and they shall mock him, and shall scourge him, and shall spit upon him, and shall kill him; and the third day he shall rise again.—Mark 10, 32 to 34.
