A NEW KIND OF BRICK.

Quartz Sand and Lime Subjected to

High Pressure Steam. For thousands of years men have been making brick out of clay, and pretty good brick, too, says the New York Tribune. But recently a new kind has come into vogue. It is composed chiefly of quartz sand bound together with a small amount of lime. In the process of manufacture the compound is subjected to the influence of steam at high pressure. When properly made, this brick is said to be hard, waterproof and able to resist the action of acids. A lack of uniformity in the quality has been noticed, however. "Limestone brick," which are made in cold, wet weather, seem to give less other meteorological conditions. But there is now promise that this difficulty will soon be obviated. A consular report from Germany announces Zurich chemist, Wilhelm Schwartz, has found a way to get good results every time. The secret lies in controlling the amount of moisture admitted to the compound and in maintaining the temperature within certain limits for a time. The former part of the process is managed in a vacuum, so that no dampness can be imparted by the atmosphere. Herr Schwartz has invented a machine of his own to do the mixing. Much confidence is expressed in the substantial value of the innovation reported.

Identity Still a Mystery.

In the little town of Cambria where John Hughes made himself a hero by shooting a robber some time ago, the deepest mystery surrounds the identity of the dead man as well as his compar-tion of identity, but the deeper they go into the case the more perplexing it seems to get. Some of the most determined of those who have been attempting to solve the mystery have scoured the surrounding towns with the hopes to no avail. The most mysterious part of the dead stranger is the fact, that in appearance he looks more like a banker than a burglar. There was not a single make about the man's attire to disclose his identity. His underwear which was of silk, may, which should never mean more than however, lead to some clue. He had on one-fourth of a pound of sugar to one imported hose; his hat was a fashionable derby, while his shoes were of fine patent leather.
