HIS MAGIC FAILED.

The Result Was Physically Painful and a Blow to His Reputation.

"One of the funniest things that ever happened to me," said the old magician who was in a reminiscent mood, "occurred a number of years ago while I was making a tour of the country. At that favorite card was the box trick, where I allowed myself to be put in a sack, after which I was locked in a box, which was tied up and put in the cabinet, from which I emerged a moment later, bowing and smiling. It always brought down the house and was a subject for discussion long after I had left. "Well, I gave my performance one night at a small town, and after the show was over I went to the little hotel and retired for the night, the old man who kept the hotel showing me to my room with all the deference that he would give to a king. The bed in the room was folding one, and no sooner was I in than it closed up like a jackknife. Fortunately for me I realized what was hap-pening in time to roll to one side, so that when the bed closed it left my head out. But otherwise I was powerless, and there was nothing to do but yell for help, which I did to the best of my ability. Finally I succeeded in making the land-lord hear me, and he came to the door and wanted to know what the matter was. "This cussed bed has shut up and caught me in it?' I shouted. "'Wul, why don't ye git out?' he drawl-

ed. "'I can't!' I bawled.

'Humph, a feller what kin git out of a sack after he has been put in a box and locked up ought ter be able to git out the Vassar Boy, was neat, clean and excellently presented and warmly an of a bed.' he answered.

"It took 15 minutes' steady argument Billy Dillon and Neil Hickey met with on my part to convince the old man that my skill in getting out of difficult places did not include folding beds, and even then he seemed to think I had caused him the hearty approval of the audience and a lot of unnecessary trouble. "All he said when at last he released me was: "'Humph, ye ain't ez big a man ez I thought ye wuz!""-Detroit Free Press.

Depreciating the Mule.

"I shouldn' be surprised if I done sold dat mule aftuh all," remarked Uncle Rasberry.

"Is you got any offers?" "No. But I'ze gwinter git one purty soon. Deacon Thompson stops hyuh every yuthuh day an was'es half an hour tellin me 'bout whut a no 'count animal it is. An de deacon desn' put in his time wifout'n he's got an object."-Washington Star.

Pressure.

"The Americans," observed the grand izier, "are pressing their claims again." "Isn't it funny," exclaimed his majesty vizi the sultan, "that with all their being pressed so much these claims don't get
