ACCIDENT AT READING MILL.

Bar of Iron run through the wrong "Pass" of the Roll.

While working at one of the rolls in the twelve inch mill at the Reading Iron works about 3:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, Arthur G. Hahn, of Walnut street, was cut on the right arm and badly burned about the neck, arm and

Mr. Hahn is employed as a "stran ner" and was in the act of taking a bar of iron from one side of the roll. The workman at the other end made a mistake and entered the iron at the wrong

When the red-hot bar emerged from the roll the mistake in passing caused it to twist and fly around so quickly that

Mr. Hahn could not dodge it. The iron cut to the bone through the muscle at the thickest part of his right Fetterman, Deutsch, Sechler, Amesbury arm, not quite half way from the shoulder to the elbow.

One of the largest branches of the main artery of the arm was severed, causing profuse hemorrhage. The flesh was also burned for about half an inch on each side of the cut.

In twisting around, the bar passed over the injured man's chest, neck and arm, burning the surface severely; but the physician states that these burns will rapidly heal without serious results.

Mr Hahn displayed remarkable nerve. He assisted in doing up his arm with a towel, to reduce the hemorrhage. and then he walked to Dr. T. B. Wintersteen's office, where the wound was Without taking an anaesthetic, the injured man lay, without flinching, for over an hour while the physician took about twenty-five stitches to draw the severed muscle together.

Dr. Wintersteen hopes that the injury will heal so that the full use of the arm will be recovered; but it will probably be two months or more before the injured man will be able to return to work.

BALL AND CHAIN FOR VAGRANTS.

Council Directs the enforcement of the Borough ordinance.

Hereafter tramps must give Danville wide berth or go to work in a chain gang. So decided the borough Council at the regular meeting Friday evening Acting on the suggestion a few days ago made in this paper, Councilman Deutsch introduce a resolution directing that the police authorities of the borough be directed to enforce the existing ordinance, which directs that vagrants shall be compelled to perform labor for the borough, while fastened with a ball and chain.

The resolution was strongly endorsed by every Councilman present, and was unanimously passed.

The members present were President Kemmer and Messrs. Jones, Vastine, and Goldsmith.

Mr. Goldsmith, for the finance committee, called attention to the fact that the payment of the bills now due will leave the treasury of the borough overdrawn. Particularly will there be a deficiency in the water fund, when the payment on the new boiler must be made in a few days. From the borough fund, $1,200 interest on bonds will fall due on January 1. It was the unanimous opinion that the expenses of the borough must be kept down. The Treasurer was empowered to borrow from the bank until the regular funds came in, sufficient money to meet any bills now due, and the interest coming due next month. On motion of Mr. Goldsmith, the resolution was reconsidered which was passed at the last meeting granting per- day in Bloomsburg. mission to J. E. Richard to construct a switch to the Minnetonka mill. It is

Will Danville Citizens Celebrate the Event?—here is a suggestion.

Are Danville citizens going to let the century end and the new one begin with out any fitting celebration to commemorate the event? But eighteen days remain of the Nineteenth century. Already extensive preparations are being made in many cities and towns of the state for celebrations to be held on New Year's eve, but nothing has been heard of any such movement in this city.

In several places these preparations are being made under the auspices of Mrs. Boyd, of Harrisburg, who was to certain societies. Is there no organization in Danville that is willing to take the initiatory steps in this line?

Such a celebration need not be an expensive one, and it seems as if the residents of the city should be willing to contribute sufficient money to help show the importance of the night that ends what, in many respects, has been the nost eventful 100 years in the world's

Mid-winter parades are not common but for this occasion, it ought to be possible to form one for the evening of December 31. It could be composed of the lifferent organizations of the city. Music and fire works would naturally be accompaniments for such a feature. Folowing the parade a public meeting or meetings could be held in one or more of the larger churches, with appropriate nusic and addresses by good speakers. The midnight hour could be marked by a general ringing of church bells and shooting of fire works. This is but a suggestion. Actual preparation would show just the best plan have been cared for at public expense at that institution. The average for the eleven years has been twenty-four. As high as thirty-two have been in the Poor House at one time. The number of inmates is always much less in the summer than in the winter, but during the summer there has never been less than thirteen to be cared for. Mr. Chesnut's felicitations were soon ended, however. Less than half an hour after he made the statement Sunday afternoon. Mary Kane and her little boy knocked at the gates of the institution, seeking for their regular winter support at the public expense.
