Made It Fit the Name.
"Red Rock, N. Y.," said a man who world doesn't know. The present name is not the one it has always borne, and what its other name was I don't know. Whatever it was the people did not like it and concluded they would change it. There was no particular reason why they should call it Red Rock, but that was determined upon, and so Red Rock it became. "Then in the course of time strangers of an inquiring turn of mind began to ask why the place had such a name, and as no reason could be given newcomers to the neighborhood began to want a name that meant something. This insistence grew so strong that the old residents began to look around for a reason for the name of their place, and at last they found a huge bowlder near by which they said was what had suggested the name. But the bowlder was gray instead of red, and the progressists insisted that that would not do. At last the old timers hit upon a new plan, and, procuring a barrel of red paint, they painted the big rock red. Red Rock indeed it was now, and not only was all opposition to the name overcome, but the painting of the rock

Cock Shooting In Tall Corn. Cock shooting in tall corn is as easy to the expert as it is puzzling to the novice. You will, of course, work with the rows, not across them, and if you are wise you will shoot at every glimpse of a bird and very frequently after an instant's sight of him, when you can only guess where he is. Sharp work, say ye, my masters. Yes, in a measure, but not so wonderful after all. You certainly must be ever ready and swift and smooth in action, but actual sight of the bird at the instant of pulling trigger is not necessary.

Green corn won't stop even fine shot, and your charge will give a pattern as big as a bushel basket; hence the shaking of a leaf, the flick of a vanishing wing, are enough for the master of the art. In an instant his gun is on the spot where a species of lightning calculation tells him the bird should be. and the trigger is pressed without the slightest delay. The difficulty with the novice is to get him to shoot at once instead of waiting in vain for a clear view. Experts kill bird after bird in this way. The novice must dismiss all thoughts of empty shells. No good he will learn from failures how to hold dence really counts. So let the nov ice crack away, although he may only get one bird in ten. We all know what he'll get if he doesn't shoot at all .-

Extravagance of the Poor. in his principles of economics Professor Marshall says that perhaps $500,000,000 annually is spent by the working classes and $2,000,000,000 by the rest of the population of England in ways that do little or nothing toward making life nobler or truly happier. The presidential address before the economic section of the British asw.c.ation at its recent Bradford meetg by Henry Higgins was devoted to proving the above statement by pointing out the many ways in which, largethrough ignorance, the working classes absolutely throw money away. Danville. The simple item of food waste alone is almost enough, according to Mr. Higgins, to justify the above figures. The women do not know how to buy economically, and owing to the large number who are now practically "brought up" in factories very few of them are passable cooks or even good housekeepers. Housekeeping of even the hum-bler sort is an art. To know what is the cheapest food from the point of view of contained nutriment, how to cook it to the best advantage and how not to have any waste does not come to a woman by intuition. As Mr. Higgins says, if more knowledge and time were devoted to the teaching of cooking in our schools the meals of most families would be more varied, more appetizing and nutritious and much more economical. Mr. Atkinson has estimated that the waste of food in the United States from bad cooking alone is over $1,000,000,000 a year. In speak- parents on Mill street. ing of expensive habits, such as liquor drinking and smoking, Mr. Higgins refers to the latter as the most economical of recreations. "How else, for inhimself an agreeable sensation a thousand times a year at so low a cost as $2? But nobody," he continues, "would wish to see a freeman using his tobacco as the Russian peasants described to me by Prince Krapotkin, who first chewed it, then dried and smoked it and finally used the ashes as snuff." Higgins suggests, when in large industrial towns the entire preparation of meals will be in the hands of specialists, just as the originally domestic operations of baking and brewing now the night. Christmas day is still the greatest holiday in Sweden. The Swedes of to day are more temperate than those of olden times, but no miser is so mean that he does not prepare well for Christmas, and no home is so poor that it is not then better provided than usual with the essentials of good liv ing. Especially in the rural home the housewife is for many days busily engaged in preparations for the great holiday. Bread of different kinds must be baked, Christmas beer brewed, the ration: Christmas pig killed and sausage made, the dried lingfish must be soaked in lye, and everything must be scrubbed and cleaned. On Christmas eve as much animal food is cooked as the house can afford, and in certain homes where old customs are retained the dinner is eaten in the kitchen, and everywatchdog and places a sheaf of un-

After dinner the Christmas tree, a young spruce, is dressed with fruit, covered candy, bright colored glass balls and ornaments and paper flags of all nations. On each branch is hung a small candle or a taper. These are lighted in the evening, and the delighted children are allowed to make a merry ring dance around the tree. Thereafter the members of the family collect around the table, and the Christmas presents are distributed. Masked persons in picturesque cos-tumes are seen on the streets carrying bundles of presents for friends or relatives. They greet nearly everybody they meet with the words, "Merry Christmas," and are answered, "Same

REAL ESTATE.

Friday, January 4th. 1901.

at one o'clock P. M., of said day, the follow-ing described real estate: All those two cer-tain tracts of land bounded and described as Tract No. 1.—Situate in Anthony Township was told at the Lambs' club, says the New York Telegraph. It was perpetrated by Lawrence d'Orsay, the English actor. Several members of the club spun yarns of dubious merit, when Mr. d'Orsay in his peculiar way began:

"Now, gentlemen, I'll relate a story."
One man present pulled out his watch, and they all thought it was going to be a serial. One or two started to go, but the actor stopped them by his assurance that the story wouldn't be very long.

"There was a friend of mine in London," he said, "who was an incessant cigarette smoker. Finally he lost his memory. Then he forgot to smoke clgarettes, and he got well again."

Mr. d'Orsay effected his escape through the assistance of a friend who knew him when he didn't tell such stories.
