Poor Richard's Bread Box.

Benjamin Franklin was a hearty eater in the good old days before the vending of lightning rods became a profession. When history caught one of her first glimpses of him, he was eating a roll in the street. After he laid the cornerstone of the Pennsylvania hospital in the happy reign of George II, he was a frequent visitor in halls of that institution. His labors there being arduous, it chanced that he frequently fell hungry at work.

He appeared at the hospital gate one day with a big tin box under his arm. Disregarding the gaze of the curious, he marched through the cor ridors to the dispensary, brushed aside a few cobwebbed beakers from a shelf and in their place planted the tin box. "What might this be?" queried his friend Dr. Rush. "This," said Ben Franklin, "is Poor Richard's bread box. Help yourself." The box was filled with penny cakes. When the supply ran out, Ben Franklin bought more cakes. That was 150 years ago.

Since Franklin's time, new hospital buildings have crowded the old out of existence and the hospital has grown to be one of the most noted in the world. Yet an old tin box, much battered and dented, stands on a shelf Buffon, Montfaucon, Tillotson, Feneand ginger snaps. Whenever the resident physicians or nurses visit the room they go to the box, take out a cake and eat. When the cakes are gone, the hospital steward charges the box afresh.-Philadelphia Press.

A Curious Coincidence.

The letters "O N" might be supposed to possess a mysterious charm, as they form the termination of many of the most distinguished names in history. No other letters of the alphabet will furnish so remarkable a coincidence as may be found in the following list made up from ancient and modern names: Aaron, Solomon, Agamemnon, Solon, Bion, Phocion, Bacon, Newton, Johnson, Addison, Crichton, Porson, lon, Massillon, Warburton, Leighton Lytton, Walton, Anacreon, Ben Jon son, Milton, Byron, Thomson, Tenny son, Anson, Washington, Napoleon, Wellington, etc. A Greek scholar has called attention to a very curious coincidence about the name of Napoleon. If you take away the first letter of his name, you have "apoleon;" take away the first letter of that word, and you have "poleon;" do this successively down to the last syllable, and you have "leon," "eon" and "on." Put these several words togeth-Irving Bacheller's novel, "Eben Holer in this order, Napoleon on eleon leon Greek phrase the literal translation of which is "Napoleon, being the lion of peoples, went about destroying cities.

Tennyson and Sightseers. Tennyson's well known aversion to sightseers and their ways gave rise to many an odd experience. Once, it is said, he complained to Queen Victoria, saving that he could no longer stay in the Isle of Wight owing to the tourist who came to stare at him.

The queen, with a kindly irony, sai that she herself did not suffer much from that grievance. But Tennyson taking her literally, replied in the same

During a high wind one summer day I young oriole was thrown from its hest to the ground. It was picked up by kind hands and kept in the house sengers were all made to get out and till the storm was over and then placed on the roof of the piazza. Finally he seemed to understand or to get his nerve under control, and, slipping his own wing under, together they made a sort of cradle for the birdling, and, each flapping its free wing. they flew to the tree, bearing it to a place of safety among the branches where it was lost sight of.-Boston Christian Register.

Treatment For Sprains. The prevalence of sprains and strains owing to the indulgence in athletic exercises of all kinds moves an authority on the treatment of these pain ful accidents to say: A little common sense treatment is often all that is needed when the strain is at ankle or wrist and without complications. It will swell very alarmingly at first and gradually develop a frightful looking bruise, but from the first it should have complete rest and a treatment of hot and cold douches. the hot being used at first, when the swelling is painful, and the cold later on, as a sert of tonic to the relaxed muscles. The hot must be very hot and the cold very cold, as the tepid water does harm rather than good. For the first day of a strain, when all the wrenched cartilages and muscles are aching, great relief is found in a poultice of egg and salt. To make it beat the white of an egg till light, but not stiff. Stir in gradually a cup and a half of salt, or more if needed, to make a thick, pastelike icing. Spread this on a cloth and bandage in place Cover all with oil silk or a thick bath towel to protect the sheets, since the egg leaks out continually. After this has relieved the soreness begin with hot water fomentations and wear a

A Fine Distinction. A young-down town drug clerk who had heard the story of the colored woman who had asked for flesh colored court plaster and was given black by the observant dealer stored the incident away in his mental dust box and decided to use it at the first opportunity. He had not long to wait, for a few nights ago a comely colored girl stepped into the store where he employed. "Ah wants some cou't plaster." she said.

"What color?" inquired the clerk with affected nonchalance.

"Flesh cullah, sah." Trembling in his shoes and keeping vithin easy reach of a heavy pestle, the clerk handed the woman a box of black court plaster, and he was surforded so little humor. The woman opened the box with a deliberation that was ominous, but she was unruffled when she noted the color of the con-

Which is it?

Is it the carpet, furniture or walls which give the key note most effectively in a room? Without doubt, it is the walls. There are four remember, besides the ceiling, Other things are important, but you must have your walls ta-teful and appro priate, if you wish to get a good style. Our papers are the best.
