CONDENSED NEWS.

And it was cold the next day. Pay your election bets early. The passing of winter meets the ap proval of the majority.

Housewives are beginning to look forward to housecleaning time. A big summer excursion season is predicted by passenger agents. The skaters certainly have no cause for complaint that their joyous and invigorating pastime has not been prodigally catered to this winter.

During the winter months there are hundreds of working men in this city who never see their homes by day light, except on Sunday. They leave for their employment before day the dawns, taking their dinners with them and do not get home until after sundown. The workingman is always glad when winter ends.

Danville Milliners are already receiving handsome spring goods.

Easter flowers are to be plenty says one who knows; which means that they will not be exorbitantly priced. Since the days are lengthening there is a noticeable increase in the attend-morning.

W. T. Pease has accepted a position as special cigar and wine salesman with the Acker, Merrill and Condit wholesale house of New York.

Beer tablets have lately come into use. A lover of the beverage can carry a little brewery in his vest pocket. One of the tablets dropped into a glass of water instantly converts it into a glass of foaming beer. The farmers are getting out their farming implements to be in readiness for the spring work. Montour Council, No. 167 Sr. O. U lodge room on Friday evening at 8:30.

It is understood that the passenger conductors on the Philadelphia & Reading Railway will wear chevrons on their coat sleeves, indicating the number of years they have been in the service of the company. The records of the men are now being prepared in the offices at Philadelphia. Each chevron will repre sent five years. They will be worn for the first time when the men receive their new summer uniforms. A number of railroad companies have been observing this rule for some years.

The spring election is now settled but it wont be long until the fight for next fall's nominations will be in full swing. The politicians are never idle.

The hottest fight was waged in the First Ward and lay principally between the candidates for Council and those for Justice-of-the-Peace. In the Second Ward the contest was confined to the candidates for School Director. M. D. L. Sechler and Reuben Boyer, who were named for Council, are warm personal friends and long before the election they agreed to take no hand in the matter, but allow their friends to fight it out at the polls. Neither of the two candidates were seen about the voting booths yesterday except during the brief interval required for him to cast his vote. In the Third and the Fourth Wards the contest was not especially warm, although neither the candidates nor their friends were by any means idle during the day.

In Gearhart township, which includes South Danville, the principal contest lay between J. F. Crossley, candidate on the Independent Democratic ticket, and Heber L. DeWitt on the Independent Citizens' ticket, who was endorsed by the

He advocated organization among working men. He cited the instance of David and Jonathan to illustrate the advantage of a union between men of different distinctions. In carrying out Friday afternoon about 3 o'clock. The the idea he suggested that instead of an organization among servants only, it it seems, went to the heart. The end might be; well to have a union of masters and servants. A union among men he said, is good, but a union with God is better. A union with Him would instantly settle all the vexed questions between labor and capital, fer a union o men with God means a union of men citizen, a man of sound judgment, whose
