Peculiar Reasons That at Times Influence the Fair Sex In Matters of the Heart-The Woman Who Won and Wedded a Woman Hater.

If there is one question more than another to which it is difficult to get or give a satisfactory answer it is surely this: "Why did you fall in love with your husband?" In 19 cases out of 20 woman would probably confess candidly that she did not know or else she would declare conclusively that she did because she did, and that ought to end the matter.

In the rare cases where the lady condescends to declare her reason the answers are both interesting and instructive.

"Whatever made you marry the prisoner?" a London magistrate asked a woman whose face bore "striking" evidence of her husband's affection. "Because he punched all the other fellows' heads," she answered, "and nobody else dared make love to me."

Another good lady confessed that she fell in love with her husband because but Soon Loses Luster. To meet the growing demand for artificial jewelry the process of making "precious stones" has been greatly improved within the last few years, and its further development has enlisted the services of some of the most skillful chemists.

The material chiefly used is glass, but it is not the ordinary glass of commerce. It is prepared with the greatest care by highly skilled artisans, for upon its clearness and perfect homoge neity depends the quality of the imitation gems, which are far superior to the cheap grade of counterfeits that rely on silver backings for their luster.

The glass can only be made from abfrom rock crystal, as quartz frequently contains minute veins of iron which would impair the clearness and color of the glass. The bicarbonate of potash and the oxide of lead which are mixed with it must also be chemically pure. Other ingredients of less importance are borax, which promotes the flux, and a small quantity of arsenic.

Origin of "a Horn."

A western man at a fashionable bar in New York called for a horn and it was whisky he wanted before he got his order filled.

"Curious," commented the westerner, "how people in the east can't understand plain English. Anybody down in Kentucky knows what 'a horn' is and how it got its name." "How did it get its name?" inquired a bystander. "Well, along about 100 years ago the first distillery ever established in Tennessee was set up in Davidson county. It was called the Red Heifer, and the customers who assembled at the still, especially on Saturday afternoon, to drink and gamble, got in the habit of speaking of a dram as 'a horn of the heifer.' A Bright Jury.

In a larceny case in Maine it was agreed to go on with only 11 men on the jury. The trial lasted several hours, and then the jury retired to deliberate upon the evidence and find a verdict. After being out four hours the jury reported that it could not agree, and accordingly it was discharged from further duty in the case, and the prisoner was remanded to the fail.
