GAMBLING IN HAVANA.

Cubans Make Government an Unwill-The passion for gambling in the lotteries which exists among all Latins prevails among the Cubans. Under the old Spanish regime every one, rich and poor alike, patronized the lottery. which had the government's sanction. When the Americans came, of course the lotteries were knocked out by military order, and for a time there was much sorrow among those whose principal pleasure in life was dreaming of winning a capital prize. Then a new trude Sechler; Treasurer, Mrs. John form of gambling was devised, says the New York Sun. Ever since Colonel Bliss took hold of the Havana custom house he has made it a practice to print daily the receipts from imports. It was one of his ways of showing the Cubans how to check corruption, He took the public into his confidence so that they might know exactly how much money the principal port on the island was raising for the government's expenses.

The newspapers got into the habit of printing the figures daily, and a great many people read them as an index to the commercial growth of the island. By and by it was noticed that the receipts were being printed in quite large type by the little afternoon sheets, which never have any news in them and very rarely an idea. It was also than a contortionist and had a stinger noticed that a lot of persons bought these papers, turned to the page on which were printed the customs receipts and then with ejaculations of sorrow or joy cast the paper aside.

An investigation showed that the recelpts were being used for lottery purposes. It was found that tickets were being sold all over the city and that MacCartney, State Zoologist, stating the newspapers were adding largely to their circulation by catering to the craze. Colonel Bliss' reputation for honesty in Havana is such that every one is sure that there can be no tampering with the daily totals. And so, after all, the Havanese have a lottery with government drawings daily.

The government has been very anx lous to find out who is back of genious scheme which makes it an accomplice in the crime in spite of itself, but it has as yet been unable to do so Some of the more reputable papers of the city have printed long stories about the scheme, explaining its workings and demanding that steps be taken to stop the evil, but so far nothing has been accomplished. The daily totals from the custom house are still being printed, and the little sheets called by courtesy newspapers are still selling for 5 cents a copy, and the gamblers behind the scheme are still coining money, while the poor of Havana are losing their pesetas with great regularity.

A Rapid Automobile.

A new automobile has just been finished in the United States, and the maker claims much for the machine. The automobile, according to the New York Tribune, is of the gasoline sort, of 25 horsepower, and the manufacturer says that he will be able to drive it over smooth or macadamized roads at the rate of about 45 miles an hour. The machine will be given a practical test in a few days, and if a suitable stretch of road can be found he is confident that the trial will be more than successful. The automobile is built upon the lines of most of the speed 'autos" already brought to the United States from France and Germany. The machine will seat three passengers besides the driver.

Joseffy a Recluse.

Rafael Joseffy, the world renowned planist, has of late years become a confirmed recluse, seldom leaving his home, above Tarrytown, for any length of time. "If Joseffy would make ; concert tour each year to the larger cities of the country, he would clear at least $30,000," said a member of a well known piano firm the other day, "but it is almost impossible to get Joseffy to play in public. The reason for this is last issue, passed peacefully away Frithat for days and sometimes weeks before a concert he is seized with such fits of nervousness that rather than go through this period of anxiety he altogether refrains from playing in public. -New York Times.

Our Presidents. The president of the United States is the highest position to which an American can attain. Twenty-four men have reached this exalted office, and during more than half of the life of the country college facilities were very difficult indeed. Yet 15 of these chief executives have been college men and only three quite without what we call academic training, while all, save two, of the nongraduates were members of a learned profession. The college education does not appear to have interfered with men seeking the highest political distinction, but to have helped in a way that is self evident.
