MEMORY'S PRANKS.

Why Do We Remember Certain Things and Forget Others?

The vagaries of memory are some of the most interesting of those connected with the human mind and body. Why of the famous poem so effectively reudo we forget certain things and relered awoke a new and lively interes member others? Myriads of these irn the subject of historical literature. regularities are as yet unaccounted Dr. Welsh spoke on the "Hints and for. Perhaps not even the cleverest metaphysician will ever account for Helps to Teachers." The "hints" were them.

Professor James reminds us how how many annov ng evils of the schoo something which we have tried in vain oom such as tardiness, lack of intereto recall will afterward, when we have and poor attendance, might be over given up the attempt, "saunter into ome by a little tact on the part of the the mind," as Emerson says, as innoteacher. cently as if it had never been sum-Dr. Fess presented an outline on the lackboard for teaching the history of Again, bygone experiences will revive after years of oblivion, often as the the Revolutionary War, illustrating hi result of some cerebral disease or accidea of taking up the facts in their relaion of cause and effect. He showed dent.

Such a case is the one quoted by Coleridge of a young woman in Germany who could neither read nor write, but who was said to be possessed of a devil because, in a fever, she was heard raving in Latin, Greek and in an obscure rabbinical dialect of Hebrew. Whole pages of her talk were written down and were found to consist of sentences intelligible in themselves, but not having the slightest connection with one another. To say that she was possessed of a devil was the easiest way of accounting for the matter.

At last the mystery was cleared up by a physician, who traced back the girl's history until he learned that at the age of nine she was taken to live at the house of an old pastor, a great Hebrew scholar, and that she remained there until the pastor's death. It had been for years the old man's custom to walk up and down a passage near the kitchen and read to himself in a loud voice.

His books were examined, and among them many of the passages taken down at the young woman's bedside were identified. The theory of demoniacal possession was abandoned. --- Youth's Companion.

Mix stove blacking with a little ammonia to prevent it burning off. A teakettle should never be allowed to stand on the side of the fire with a small quantity of water in it. A rose potpourri is made by packing fresh rose petals in salt, a layer of the petals, then a layer of salt, and keeping them covered for six months. A convenient substitute for a corkscrew when the latter is not at hand may be found in the use of a common screw with an attached string to pull the cork. For ink stains on furniture add six drops of niter to a teaspoonful of water and apply it to the stain with a feather. If the stain does not yield to the first application, make it stronger and repeat the process. Stains on silverware require prompt attention, otherwise it will take a long time to remove them. Sulphuric acid will remove the stain left by medicine Dip the spoon in the acid, repeating the process until the stain has disap peared; then wash in very hot water.

Diluting Tes.

Few housekeepers remember, as they should, that when it is necessary to dilute strong tea it should be done with water at the boiling point. The poor flavor of tea, made strong at first and then reduced, such as is too often served at receptions and "at homes," is usually caused by the addition of hot. not boiling, water to the first infusion. A lesson in this matter may be had from the Russians, who serve the most delicious tea in the world, and who prepare it first very strong, making it almost an essence of tea. This is diluted to the strength wished, with water kept boiling in the samovar. This water is not allowed to boil and reboil, but is renewed as needed. Freshly boiled water is insisted upon by all connoisseurs in teamaking.

Cellings and Ventilation.

Rooms with low ceilings or with ceilings even with the window tops are susceptible of more perfect ventilation than those with high ceilings. In such rooms the leakage at the windows which is constantly going on, keeps the air in motion throughout the room, whereas if the ceiling is higher only the lower part of the air is moved, and an inverted lake of foul and hot air is left foating in the space above the window tops. This lake, under the law of diffusion of gases, keeps actively at work, fouling the fresh currents circulating beneath it.

Longevity of Irish Peasants.

It is curious to notice the great number of centenarians whose deaths are recorded in the official returns of Irish rural districts. As an instance of the longevity of the Irish peasant it may be pointed out that the death of persons upward of sixty years of age registered in Connaught last year amounted to over 50 per cent of the entire deaths of the province.

cago to operate an automobile. The city cago to operate an automobile. The city electrician said that he was one of the most thoroughly posted applicants for a license he had ever examined. The a license he had ever examined. The young man has run a little electric light plant for years and knows a great deal about boilers and engines. He is health and vigorous, with steady nerves and good eyes, and there was no good reason for refusing the license.

The Ground Squirrel. The ground squirrels of California are interesting animals to watch. Our potatoes were disappearing, and I tried to find out where they went to. Soon I found out the ground squirrels had taken them. What do you think they did with them? They bit them up in small pieces and dried them in the sun. Don't you think they knew it was a good way to preserve them for storage -Herman Klen in American Boy

My Thoughts. My Thoughts. In daytime, as I go about. I hear my thoughts speak plainly out; They bid me laugh and run and shout And have all sorts of fun. And when the lessons have been said They straightway put it in my head To play again it, itime for bed, Which comes when day is done. At nightfime, quite the other way, I never once have head them say That they'd like me to go and play; They are so still, you see. For if they speak it is so low I cannot hear, and so I know How noiselessly they come and go While reaking dreams for me. While making dreams for me.

The Close Sympathetic Connection Between the Nervous And Digestive System Ac-Counts for Much Debility.

The great influence the nerves hav over digestion is noted in case of sudden shock or fright No matter how keen the appetite it disappears. Nerve Force practically controls digestion in the pro-duction of gastric juice. When Nerve Mrs. M. Fields of No. 128 Pine st Silver Cornet Band 35 pieces.
