ery, K. G. E. Sir Knights and Most Respected Companions-The General Committee sends of the State as "McKinley Day" and the season's greeting and begs to submit this their first official circular, to of January special memorial exercises be read in open meeting in each lodge within the jurisdiction of the Grand Castle of Pennsylvania.

The Grand Castle will hold its annual session in our city, commencing Tuesday, May 13, to which session the general committee of arrangements desires to invite each and every member in the state. The committee is thoroughly organized and working in harmony to make this session the most notable in the history of our order. With the return of prosperity in all branches of industry throughout the country, the Knights of the Golden Eagle have been especially blessed with a large share of benefits, the consequences of which will be that the next annual session will see a larger attendance of both representatives and spectators than on any previous occasion.

A general public demonstration and parade will be held Tuesday afternoon, May 13th, in which every Castle, Temple and Commandery are invited to participate. Hundreds of dollars in prizes, to be announced later, will be distributed. Further information will be given in subsequent circulars.

Trusting that this may not be simply received and filed, but rather acted upon and pilgrimage clubs formed for the purpose of attending, we are, Respectfully yours in the bonds of

Then, a man admires a girl who is popular with her own sex, who has the right sort of women friends and who shines n her own circle. He admires a girl with brains, but he doesn't want them always glittering before him so as to dim his own. In other words, wants to be brilliant too. One of the greatest qualities he admires in a girl is sympathy, that mysterious power which brings out the best there is in every person. A proud spirit also appeals to him, but one which knows oc-

Chronic bronchitis, like all other catarrhal affections, is much less troublesome in summer than in winter and in those who live much in the open air than in the housebound. From this simple observation may be drawn the lesson that the best remedy for bronchitis is pure air. This is generally conceded in the case of consumption, but
