AN ELEVATOR'S
LONG DROP

Elevator Falls Forty Feet, Bearing with it
William Linker and John Foster.

William Linker, shipper and John Foster, assistant, who fell with a load of elevator from the third story of the warehouse, had an experience at the Stove Works Friday that few men would covet. That they were not killed is a wonder in itself; that they escaped serious injury is still more remarkable. It was about half past 3 o'clock. The two men mounting the elevator went up to the third story and loaded six Prize Beaver ranges. All was ready to descend. The shippers climbed onto the elevator along with the stoves. The load was heavy, the aggregate weight of the ranges alone being 1800 pounds, which allowing 250 pounds for the men ran the weight up to considerably over a ton to say nothing of the heavy elevator itself, which added some four or five hundred pounds.

Just as they were about to start the heavy cable snapped under and the elevator men and stoves took a drop. A heavy crash rang through the big warehouse and the employees ran to the spot only to find the platform lying at the bottom of the elevator shaft, with the stoves shattered to pieces. Mr. Linker lying insensible and Mr. Foster badly dazed and unconscious of what had taken place. Mr. Linker quickly revived, but neither man had any recollection of anything after climbing onto the elevator. The fall was one of forty feet and the heavy elevator shot down the shaft like an arrow.

There were two circumstances that combined to save the lives of the shippers. One of these was that the men were in a standing position and the other that at the lower floor the elevator was checked by the belt or socket built to receive it, but which under the force of the fall was torn loose and carried down under the platform some four feet farther and embedded in the soft earth at the bottom of the shaft.

DEATH OF ANGUS WRIGHT

A Well-Known Citizen Passes Away
Tuesday Morning.

In the death of Angus Wright, which took place Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, Danville loses another well known and representative citizen, who will be widely mourned. The deceased who was afflicted with asthma and heart trouble, had not been a well man for years. He worked, however, up to six weeks of his death. For a number of years past he was engineer at the water works. He was a competent and reliable workman, faithful to the duties of his position, well read, intelligent and of a tolerant and generous disposition. A man in short who held the full confidence and esteem of his fellows in every walk of life. He was 62 years of age and is survived by his wife and one daughter, Miss Sallie.

He was born in Scotland, but came to Danville when quite young. He served as a member of the borough council. During the Civil war he saw service with Company A, 132d regiment. He was a member of Goodrich Post No. 22, G. A. R., as well as of Calumet Lodge, I. O. O. F. The funeral, which will take place Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock will be in charge of Goodrich Post and of the Order of Odd Fellows.

A Patriotic Sermon.
Notwithstanding the bad walking, which kept attendance down at most of the churches the congregation at St. Peter's M. E. church, Riverside, Sunday was one of the largest that ever crowded within its walls. Rev. R. J. Allen preached to the O. U. A. M. and the P. O. S. of A., taking in the two lodges of the latter order in South Danville and this city. Rev. Allen is becoming widely known for his sparkling and practical discourses. The people expected a treat and they were not disappointed, judging from the favorable comment that one heard on every side in South Danville and Riverside Sunday afternoon.

The two lodges turned out in full force, there being something over a hundred members present at the sermon.

Rev. Allen founded his remarks on Second Kings, second chapter, 10th and 15th verses. He referred to the birthday of Washington, dwelling upon his career as a soldier, as a statesman, as a Christian. Then addressing the members of the two orders he described the character of Washington's patriotism and the kind required today to meet the problems that face Americans. Among these are the rum problem, the problem of labor and capital or rule of money, marriage and divorce law, the necessity of education, dwelling more particularly upon the character of the education needed by the American boy, emphasizing the necessity of a Christian education, appealing for an open Bible in the schools, and for men and women as teachers whose faith is in the Man of Galilee.

Flood Danger Continues.
Many Danville people were making preparations for the flood Tuesday, and though the fair weather of Monday abated to some extent the danger of river floods the indications are for a continuance of the high temperature and rain. This would mean the breaking up of the ice on the river and tributary streams.

If the weather continues fair for several days or if the temperature drops to a point below freezing the danger of floods will practically be over. As it is, the days grace given will lessen the damage of the floods should they come, to a slight degree, as much of the snow has been carried off.

The ice on the river is in condition to break up rapidly in case of warm weather continuing with rain and if the weather indications are fulfilled trouble may be expected in the low lying parts of the town.

Signals are up giving warning of another storm which may break at any moment, and which threatens squalls along the North Atlantic coast region. The forecast says that the storm will meet shifting southerly winds off the Central Atlantic coast. Thus the first news that comes with the restoration of the service of the Weather Bureau is not assuring.

TIED UP
BY THE SNOW

Many Buildings Fall Under The Enormous
Weight of Snow.

The great snow storm of Friday which created wholesale havoc throughout the state, blocking thoroughfares of travel, leveling telephone and telegraph wires, and thus cutting off communication between cities and towns did not wholly give Danville the go-by, although, as usual, it escaped the worst features of the storm.

After the snow here attained some depth it turned to rain, while elsewhere it continued to snow. Thus while the greatest depth in Danville was from 14 to 16 inches in other localities as near as Washingtonville the snow lay 26 inches upon the level, rendering the roads practically impassable and isolating farms and villages.

The snow here was had enough and served to remind one of the great blizzard of '88. Nearly the consistency of slush it dressed the trees in a foliage of white; it lay in the streets in immense mounds and was piled high upon the roofs while the buildings ground under the snow.

The snow was a heavy tax upon the awnings on Mill street and these at two points gave way—at Charles Haney's barber shop and at Nelson Woods' shoe store. The old car shop belonging to Grove's furnace at this end of the "bar pavement" fell in a pile of ruins, taking with it the large bill boards belonging there. A portion of the sheds of A. C. Amshury's coal yard as well as the sheds of Shepperson's coal yard gave way beneath the strain and fell. During Saturday night the chimney on the east side of Trinity M. E. church gave way before the heavy pressure of snow sliding down the roof and a mass of brick and mortar fell to the sidewalk below. Many other roofs about town were on the verge of succumbing but were saved by shoveling off the snow.

Throughout the county where the snow varied from two feet to 28 inches, in depth the loss is heavy. The large barn on the Frazier farm this side of Washingtonville now owned by George Bogert was completely demolished. Just before daylight Saturday morning with a loud crash the roof fell in, while the four walls unable to resist the pressure fell outward, the whole barn in a few seconds of time being reduced to a pile of ruins. Mr. Bogert loses a quantity of grain, a buggy and a heavy wagon which were housed in the barn.

Among other structures demolished by the snow were the building belonging to Mowrer & Son at Strawberry Ridge, used for housing Champion binders and farming implements in general; a hay shed on the farm of David Watts a mile north of Washingtonville; a barn in Washingtonville belonging to the William Bollock and a straw shed on one of John B. Beaman's farms near by. There was in a manner no travel throughout the northern part of the county yesterday and the roads were practically unbroken.

A sled load of young people from this city who were entertained by Edward Hoffman near Alex. Billmeyer's farm, Friday night, were snow bound and did not get home until Saturday night. They started for Danville about two o'clock Saturday morning. The two horses were unable to drag the sled through the deep snow which, heavy and wet, formed big balls before the runners and made it difficult for the horses to walk. They got as far as the Frazier farm when the horses gave out. The party called up Mr. Bogert who kindly furnished two horses which were hitched to the sled and the party was able to get to Washingtonville, where the party took lodging at Fanny Heddens' hotel.

The sled and team belonged to Livyman Welliver of this city, who in response to a telephone message about 9 o'clock Saturday morning started for Washingtonville with extra horses to assist in bringing the party home. It required three hours for him to make the trip over the unbroken roads and he came very near not getting to Washingtonville at all. It was 5 p. m. before he got back to Danville with the sled.

Funeral of James R. Davis.
The funeral of James R. Davis took place from his late residence, on East Market street, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Erskine Wright, of Christ Episcopal church, officiating. Several members of Christ church choir rendered the hymns, "In the Hour of Trial" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul." The pall bearers were: Benjamin Cook, Thomas Price, John Jenkins, Evan Jones, Thomas Bedea and Daniel Jones. Interment was made in the Episcopal cemetery.

CAPS AND GOWNS
DISCARDED

Rev. Cleaver Will be Invited to Preach the Baccalaureate Sermon.

The school board held a meeting Monday night, the following members responding to roll call: Fischer, Orth, Green, Burger, Barber, Werkheiser, Keefe, Byerly and Black.

Dr. Barber stated that he visited the high school last week and that he found everything working very satisfactorily. Along with another member of the high school committee he consulted the graduating class on the subject of caps and gowns for commencement. Of the class he said six—including two girls—favored caps and gowns, while eight opposed them. Under the circumstances he said, the committee would report in favor of dispensing with caps and gowns for commencement. On motion the committee's report was accepted, and the order issued that the girls wear the regulation white at graduation.

On motion of Mr. Keefe it was ordered that the baccalaureate sermon this year be preached in Trinity M. E. church. On motion of Mr. Green it was ordered that the graduating class be requested to invite Rev. N. E. Cleaver, the pastor, to preach the baccalaureate sermon.

On motion Borough Superintendent Gordy was granted a leave of absence to enable him to attend the convention of school Superintendents held at Johnstown on March 27th, 6th and 7th.

The attention of the board was called to the recent visit of the factory inspector to this city, who it appears, expressed doubt as to whether we are living up to the law relating to the employment of children. At one establishment he saw 30 or 60 boys and girls at work whose ages his judgment convinced him were below the limit that would permit them to leave school.

Under the act of 1901 it is provided that any person employing a child or children shall furnish on or before the 3rd Monday of the school term and quarterly thereafter to the Superintendent of the schools, to the Secretary of the school board or school directors or controllers of the district in which such child or children reside, the name, the age, place of residence and name of parent or guardian of every person under the age of 16 years in his employ at the time of said report.

Neglecting the duty imposed by this section constitutes a misdemeanor and the person guilty shall forfeit a fine not exceeding $2 for the first conviction and a fine not exceeding $5 for every subsequent conviction.

Borough Superintendent Gordy explained that he has received but one report from the factories thus far during the season and that was at the beginning of the term.

J. K. James representing the Kuhn Formaldehyde Generator Co. appeared before the board. He had the apparatus with him and showed how to operate it. It generates formaldehyde gas directly from wood alcohol and seems to be a cheap and efficacious method of fumigation. The board was not ready to purchase an apparatus on the spot but referred the matter with power to act to the Committee on Sanitation, composed of Drs. Barber, Curry and Harpel.

The borough Superintendent presented the following report for the month ending February 11.

Male pupils in attendance during the month, 579; female pupils, 580; total, 1159. Average daily attendance—males, 508; females, 510; total, 1018. Percentage of attendance—males, 90; females, 89; total, 90. There were 703 pupils absent during the month. There were 45 cases of tardiness, which is about three hundred less than during the same month last year. Two hundred and seven pupils were sick. There were sixty-two visits to the school.

The following bills were ordered paid: U. S. Express Co., $ 40
E. W. Peters, commission..... 30.00
Reading Iron Co..... .40
D. C. Williams..... 3.00
Emery Shultz..... .95
W. E. Young..... 5.00

Mrs. Bitler's Bad Accident.
Mrs. Daniel Bitler, of Ottawa, met with a bad accident in this city Monday forenoon. Accompanied by her son, Sherman E. Bitler, she drove into town to dispose of some farm produce. In front of William Seidel's store, Mill street, they encountered a large snow bank, which the son thought was soft enough to offer no resistance to the sled and accordingly drove up on it. The snow however was nearly that much ice and the result was that the sled upset.

Mrs. Bitler, who occupied a high spring seat falling out and striking her head upon the curb. She was picked up in sensible and carried into Mr. Seidel's store. Dr. J. R. Kimerer was called, under whose treatment the woman soon regained consciousness. The injuries about her head did not seem serious, but her left shoulder was found dislocated. The injury was reduced by Dr. Kimerer after which Mrs. Bitler was able to proceed home.
