MARITIME EXPRESSIONS.

Used In a Metaphorical Sense, The

Are Quite Common. Maritime expressions, used metaphorically, are, in fact, very common We say a couple are "spliced," a young man is the "mainstay" of his family, an intruder "puts his oar in," the member from Wayback "steers through, a man is "hard up," sometimes "taken aback" or has "the wind taken out of his salls," a toper is "slewed," a loafer "There tac yarn" sometimes steers the ship of state" through troublesome times. This last metaphor is extremely ancient, by the way. Horace refers to Rome as a ship at sea, and Plutarch says the Delphic oracle referred to Athens in the same way. A Tamil saving embodies a like metaphor. "The soul is the ship, reason is the helm, the oars are the soul's thoughts, and truth is the port." An old collection of English proverbs contains this one: The tongue is the rudder of our ship." A Malay maxim says, "The boat which is swamped at sea may be bailed out, but the shipwreck of the affections is Aristophanes. Plautus and others use an expression which comes down to the as an English saw, "To row one way and look another." An old English proverb (1614) was, "It is not good to have an oar in every one's boat."-

Great Expectations. George has an automobile in view."

"Who, George? He couldn't buy the tire for one wheel." "It belongs to the girl he would like to marry."-Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ARTISTS' BLUNDERS.

Some Odd Mistakes That Have Been Perpetuated on Canvas.

In a letter from an artist and art writer of London he speaks of the absurd mistakes made by some of the old masters. In the very pretentious and also very large portrait of Queen Victoria executed by Benjamin Constant the well known French artist painted the ribbon of the Order of the Garter of a wrong color, and the artist was much chagrined by the evidence of his own carelessness. Queen Victoria told him he was using the wrong color, but he was not convinced.

There is a landscape by a famous English painter in which a rainbow is depicted behind the sun, and a picture of Eden is in the gallery of the Gesu, in Lisbon, where Adam and Eve are represented as watching a procession of monks.

In the famous galleries of Antwerp are certain pictures by old masters in which the jumble of ideas is as remarkable as the technique is fine. In one picture of heaven the archangels are armed with bows and arrows, and in a painting of the "Murder of the Innocents" the massacre is represented as taking place in a city of Holland. The parents of the children are stout burghers, the Roman soldiers are Dutch policemen armed with muskets, and the innocent infants are transformed into solid schoolboys in bulgy tronsers and jackets and hobnailed shoes. The effect is droll.

Fill the New Page With Good. The improvement to come in any life from the "turning of a new leaf" is not to be based upon the turning of the leaf so much as upon the constant and resolute filling of the new page by dint of unremitting and often strenuous effort. MAPLE SUGARING.

How They Do It In Vermont-From Sap Gathering to Sugaring Off.

Maple sugar and sirup are favorite sweets the country over, and this fact gives a general interest to some information about the maple sugar industry which has practical value also for the sections where this particular kind of sugar making prevails. An American Cultivator correspondent supplies the following details:

Some sugar places in this immediate vicinity number over 7,000 trees. The evaporator is the first and most important consideration. The point to be considered in an evaporator is the one that can make the best sugar the least possible time with the lea amount of fuel. Evaporators are made of galvanized iron or steel, copper of tin. They are usually supported on iro arches lined with brick, but sometime the arches are made entirely of bric Storage tanks, draw tanks, sirup tank buckets and pails are of galvanize steel, tin or wood. We consider galva nized steel the superior article because It will not rust. Bucket covers can b of wood or tin; spouts, steel or tin. Take a sugar place of 3,000 trees of rather, one that uses 3,000 bucket When the "boss" thinks it is time t "sugar," the men are set to tapping the trees. A three-eighths or one-half inbit is used, and in large trees the ho is bored about two inches deep, smaller trees only about one and a ha inches. Spouts are driven or screwe in, buckets hung to each spout an covers, if they have them.

Some trees are tapped in two or three and oftentimes four places, hanging a bucket to each spout of course. Then, the weather being right, the sap runs and the teams are started as soon as possible, for the quicker the sap is made into sugar the better the sugar is. Men with pails holding sixteen quarts go to each tree, collect the sap and empty it into the draw tank, which is being hauled about on a "sugar sled" by a pair of horses. These tanks hold anywhere from twenty-five to fifty pailfuls. When a load is secured, the team is driven to the sugar inch pipes, is drawn from the draw tank to the storage tank. The storage tanks are placed on a staging on the outside of the sugar house and connected with the evaporators by rubber hose or iron pipe, the flow of sap from storage tank to evaporators being regulated by auto matic valves. Thus the sap enters one end of the evaporator, working back and forth through partitions and corrugations till it reaches the other end of the evaporator, when it is drawn off as "sirup. The sap is not "handled" the time the men pour it into the draw tanks until it comes out a finished article-i. e., maple sirup at eleven
