BURGLARS CRACK TWO SAFES.

A gang of burglars operating in the merchants and others there consider able uneasiness. Early Tuesday morning the office of the Bloomsburg Bott ling works was broken into and the safe cracked, some $25 being stolen Dynamite was used as an explosive. Manager John S. Gersting's desk con tained $300 in cash, which the burglars overlooked.

Vesterday morning another robbery was committed, the general store of J. W. Creasy at Mifflinville, a few others, founded upon II Timothy, 1st miles above Bloomsburg, being burglarized. Mr. Creasy is postmaster of the village and a large safe belonging store, was blown open. The safe was hadly wrecked indicating that nitroglycerine was used and that the gang looks unto God as the judge of man $280 were abstracted from the safe. SOY BEANS.

Widespread Interest In Them at the North-How to Grow Them. In view of the present widespread interest in soy beans a few words of explanation are pertinent at this time. Probably a hundred Ohio farmers have asked me if they can grow soys in their latitude. I answer yes. Why not? Located north of the forty-fourth parallel of north latitude, I have been growing, cross breeding and feeding soys for years and have yet to record the first failure. Given the early or medium early varieties, any Ohio farmer should do better than can possibly be done here. The principal causes of failure are too late varieties, too late planting

The best way to use soy beans for hog pasture is in what my friend, E. F. Diehl of Indiana, calls a "hog paradise." This is made by planting soy beans, cowpeas and corn in alternate rows, and at the last cultivation two pounds of rape are sown to the acre. It is not expensive, and it makes pork as nothing else will. As one farmer of my acquaintance said: "Make pork? Well, say, it's just like getting money

Soy beans will stand more cold than corn, cowpeas or potatoes. In fact, I have never seen them injured by frost between May 1 and Oct. 1, though, of course, these are extreme dates. Soys will withstand more wet weather at any stage of growth than any forage & Co., Binghamton or grain crop I know and, in common mention this paper. through the hot, dry weather when corn leaves dry up and rustle, says a Michigan correspondent in Ohio Farm-

Potatoes that have been kept by panking with earth should not be dis turbed in the spring until about the last of April. They may then be taken from the bank and may be stored in a cellar or a dark corner of the barn until about one week before planting time. Then they should be spread upon posed to the sunlight.
