A BIT OF

EARLY HISTORY

J. C. MILLER

We are indebted to V. A. Lotier for an old newspaper clipping containing some interesting facts of local history which center on the first court house obtained from J. Frazer of Cincinnati, O., who in his time was identified with the early history of this county. Probably all with exception of a very few of our readers are aware that from where it was removed by a that Montour county at one time formed a part of Columbia county, which was established in 1813. Danville was selected as the county seat. Later the townships of Turbot and Chillisquaque were cut off and annexed to Northumberland county This disseverence left Danville, considerably west of the center and furnished an excuse for those who from the first desired Blooms burg as the county seat to renew ar agitation looking to the removal of ly. No arrests have been made. the seat of justice to that place. In 1845 they accomplished their object much to the dissatisfaction of this part of the county. The result was the establishment of Montour county in evening, May 2, 1902. The following

The first court was held here in 1814, in the second story of a log ware house on the river bank a few doors east of Mill street. Seth Chapman of Fairy Song Northumberland was president judge Dialogue and William Montgomery and Leonard Irene Farley, Lloyd McCloughan and Rupert, the associate judges.

Among the members of the bar at that day were Alem Marr who graduated at Princeton in 1807 and was Three Fairy Gifts. admitted to pratice in 1813. Later Ebenezer Greenough came up from Recitation Sunbury and hung out his shingle George A. Frick was also among the Syncopation of early attorneys and practiced for

To defeat the movement on foot to remove the seat of justice to Blooms burg the weathiest citizens of Danville with commendable liberality undertook with the small aid of $1050 from the county to erect a new court house The building which was commenced April, 1815, and completed September, 1816, cost $2,980.80. The sum furnished by the county did not go very far, and the big residue of nearly $2,000 Tableau was raised by popular subscription Daniel and William Montgomery leading off with $1000 each and Joseph Maus, Thomas Woodside, Philip Goodman, Alexander Montgomery and James Longhead following with subscriptions of $100 each. There were many smaller subscriptions of various forget the date.

The new court house was built by O'Malley & Vastine. The bill of items found in the old clipping furnishes very interesting reading. One hundred that its representatives do not do as and four thousand brick were used at some showman do, dictate to the papers $7.50 per thousand; laying the brick what kind of a write-up the show and boarding the hands cost $382; 1030 bushels of lime were used at 15 cents that no reporters can truthfully say per bushel; hauling for eight months aught against his show, Mr. Wallace from "below Indiantown," $31.50 at the hands of the press. The carpenter work cost $700. Putting up scaffolds and tying wythes, $10. Boarding two carpenters for six months $96. Toward the foot of the column is an item as follows: "Sixty-four gallons of whiskey, $64."

This was considered a very mode rate cost for liquid refreshment neces sary to render complete the roof, walls and floors of the temple of justice. The old clipping quaintly adds: "In the erection of a building of the same size 20 years prior eleven barrels-in stead of two-of the indispensable liquid would have been consumed."

The present court house was built

Almost a Murder.

A murder was nearly committed on the Bastress farm about a mile and a half northeast of Paxinos, near the noon hour Sunday. Rowland Taylor, aged 14 years, shot William Bastress, aged 13 years, during a quarrel over Taylor's entrance to an abandon Bastress and Morton Price, aged 16 years, were playing in the house and the door was locked. Taylor went there between ten and eleven o'clock, and finding that the door was locked called Bastress and demanded that he be admitted. Bastress refused to let him in and a war of words followed, during which Taylor drew a revolver trigger. The bullet struck Bastres in the neck near the larynx and ploughed its way through the flesh, imbedding itself near the base of the left ear, physician later. Bastress was able to walk home with the assistance of his ompanion, but during the afternoon suffered a relapse and spent a bad night. Circus Entitled to Money.

The Great Wallace Show is thoroughly fortified with its great performance should have after it is gone. Knowing with one team cost $624; hauling stone is accorded genuine original motives

Tom Murphy, managing editor of the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, is original. quaint and explicit in his writings In a column and a half of favorable comment on the Great Wallace Show the Chronicle said:

"Wallace's Show may take money ut of the town.' If it does, the popu lar verdict is: Glad that Wallace got our money if a circus had to come and get it.

"The Wallace Circus is all right. It s better than when here before. It s by far the best attraction in the circus line that has ever been seen in Augusta. It is as thorough as a circus gets to be. "No matter whether a circus 'takes here vesterday was well worth in en tertainment the money given to it."

The Great Wallace Shows will ex hibit in Danville on Tuesday, May 20, when it is claimed that they will give more for the money and a better quality of entertainment than has ever yet been presented by a circus in this in a few days.
