watch should always hang by its ring May, A. D., 1902, at the meeting of in the same position as it is worn. As a rule, watches will run with a different rate when laid down. Only high common watches may be out several minutes in one night.

Ladies often complain that their watches do not run regularly. This may be on account of smaller size and more difficult regulating, but the main reason for the faulty rate is to be found in the fact that ladies do not always carry their watches and conse quently often forget to wind them. Never leave a hunting case watch open during a considerable length of time. A careful observer will find in the morning a layer of dust on the crystal of a watch that has been open

Why Wrinkles Come Some faces contract wrinkles at quite an early stage of youth. Little children, not in the least bad tempered often sleep with a frown upon their faces, and this habit leads to a wrinkled forehead. But the wrinkles thus formed are not the ugliest by any means. Those most to be dreaded are the little lines which appear round the eyes and mouth from the falling away or the bad condition of the skin of the face. In some cases this is due to an overdryness of the skin, and here facial massage does wonders, with the an plication of really proper skin foods and creams for its nourishment

Fashionable Veiling.

The shops are showing novel veiling in immense quantities. Veils ending just at the upper lip have been the mode in Paris all winter, and though received very coldly at first on this side the water will no doubt soon gain recognition. Something the same effect is given by a complexion veil of white malines overlaid by a fine black mesh to some three or four inches from the edge, at which point it finishes, leaving a broad border of the plain white mesh dotted with black chenfile. If properly adjusted, this gives much the ance of the Parisian veil itself .- Vogue
