A HEAVY SCENIC PRODUCTION. "Clear stage, we carry all our own cenery," is the notice received from the "Millionaire Tramp" company. Exchanges say that the setting of the Holy Cross Church in the second act is one of the most beautiful realistic stage pictures they ever witnessed. The third act contains a novel setting, he exterior of an Opera House, changing to the interior with the audience seated and the performance in progress. In this scene theatre-goers will have the unique experience of watching an other audience watch another play, or in other words, an audience that is to itself an audience will to the real audience become actors.
