WILL HOLD THE COMMISSIONERS

High Sheriff Samuel Dietrick of Northumberland county has resolved to fight the constables of the county in their efforts to secure additional mileage and costs in the serving of court subpoenas, the lord high executive claiming that he alone is entitled to the additional amounts under the provision of the act of 1901.

Hereafter the sheriff of Northumberland county will serve all subpoenas, and the matter of distributing them will be taken entirely out of the District Attorney's hands. Mr. Dietrick will depauper the constables from the various districts to serve the papers and he will issue orders for their payment.

The official served the following notice on the county commissioners. It is self explanatory.

To A. H. Cooner, John H. Beck and John Raudenbush, commissioners of Northumberland county.

You are hereby notified that under the laws of the State of Pennsylvania I have the sole and exclusive right to serve all subpoenas issued on the part of the Commonwealth upon the several courts of Northumberland county; that I alone am entitled to compensation for the service of such subpoenas. You are further notified that I have authorized no one to accept in my name compensation from you for the mileage and service accrued upon such subpoenas, and that I will hold you responsible for my legal fees, as set out under the act of 1901, for the services of all commonwealth court subpoenas issued and served from the beginning of my term, to wit, January 1, 1932. And you are further notified not to make any settlement with anyone for the service and mileage accrued upon any subpoena issued on the part of the Commonwealth commanding any witness or witnesses to appear in attendance upon any of the courts of Northumberland county except they have authority from me, otherwise I will hold you responsible.

SAMUEL DIETRICK, High Sheriff of North'd Co.

The readers of this paper will please to learn that there is at least one dread disease that science has been able to cure in all stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and driving out the poison by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing the work. The proprietors have much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

Sanitary shaves and hair cuts will be insured if the present bill on the regulation of the tonsorial profession shall be enacted into legislation. Barbers throughout the state are in sympathy with the proposed regulations, which provide that floors and wood-work in the shops shall be scrubbed at least once a week. A barber must sweep out every day. He cannot allow anyone to sleep in his shop or permit any employes to treat any customer for a skin disease unless the barber is a licensed practicing physician.

All barbers must keep their finger nails clean. He must clean his hands thoroughly immediately after waiting on a customer. He can not under any circumstances blow hairs from a person's neck after giving him a hair cut. Instead he must use a towel or a fine hair brush in removing the "ticklers." The brush, as well as razors, and combs, must be sterilized in hot water or a solution of formalin within five minutes after use. This is considered essential to kill stray microbes. The barbers are warned not to wipe their hands upon or blow their breath upon razor straight and those having claims or demands against the said estate, will make known the same without delay to

PENNELL DEAD, WIFE DYING

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 11.—Dr. Mead, house surgeon at the Sisters' hospital, said at 9 o'clock this morning that Mrs. Pennell was still unconscious and that it was impossible to state her exact condition, as she was too weak and her vitality too low to allow an examination. From a reliable source comes the information that Mrs. Pennell is dying and that the surgeons are doing everything within their power to prolong her life.

Medical examiner Dausner, who was called to the scene where Attorney Arthur Pennell was killed last night, received orders from the district attorney's office at 9:30 o'clock this morning that under no circumstances were the remains of Pennell to be shown to any one. In the order to Dr. Dausner, District Attorney Coatsworth said that not even the police captains or detectives were to be admitted to the dead house. When asked why these orders had been issued District Attorney Coatsworth refused to talk. Four days ago a newspaper man chatted with Pennell at his home. He paced up and down the confines of a small room and in the twenty minutes spent in the talk he stopped at a table four times, poured out and gulped down huge draughts of whiskey at each stop. He begged at the time that his palpable nervousness be not commented on in the papers on the following day.

Yesterday he was again seen by a reporter. His actions were indicative of a guilty mind.

Pennell was closely questioned and he was allowed to be persuaded that suspicion was diverted from him and towards another.

"Does it occur to you, Mr. Pennell," he was asked, "that the luncheon that was found on the table in Burdick's den on the morning after his murder was discovered was the sort of a luncheon that a man would set out if he expected a woman visitor?"

"Well, I should say that it was not," said Pennell, carefully.

"The papers said that tarts and cheese and some crackers were there. Truly, not the sort of a lunch that a man would select. I know that I should never put out such a collection of eatables and drinkables."

Pennell by this time was fairly at his ease.

"You know, do you not, Mr. Pennell, that the messenger boy, Martin, who nearly ran over a man in front of the Burdick house on the night of the murder says that he could identify the man if brought face to face with him?"

Pennell went white in an instant. Then he leaned over and said faintly, "No, do he say that? Are you sure that he said it? Do you believe that he could?" Then he stopped. He would not say any more. He would not discuss the case at any greater length. He closed the interview in an agitated manner and bowed the visitor out.

The official report of Attorney Pennell's injuries, as made public by Medical Examiner Dausner, at 10 o'clock this morning, is as follows:

1.—The fracture of all of the facial and cranial bones.

2.—A compound comminuted fracture of the right thigh.

5.—Fractures of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth ribs, near the spinal articulations.

6.—A compound fracture and dislocation of the left knee.

8.—A deep cut, two inches long, running vertically down the back between the shoulder blades.

That Lawyer Pennell was a believer in life insurance is attested by the number of policies he held in different companies. In an interview shortly after the Burdick murder, Mr. Pennell had refused to discuss a published report, that he had taken out a large amount of life insurance during the past year.

"This is truly a personal affair," he said.

The truth of the matter is that most of the $300,000 insurance Pennell is said to have carried was placed during the past five years. The insurance is nearly all of the two kinds of twenty-year payment insurance and ordinary life insurance, each of which kind affords a cash settlement at the end of twenty years.

The insurance was placed as follows: Transvaal Insurance company, $75,000; Equitable Life Insurance Society, $65,000; New York Life Insurance company, $25,000; Mutual Life Insurance company, $25,000, and another company, $10,000, the name of which could not be ascertained.

STORY OF THE TRAGEDY.

BUFFALO, March 11.—Arthur R. Pennell, co-respondent in Edwin L. Burdick's divorce suit, was killed at 6:30 o'clock last evening, by plunging in his automobile over a twenty-foot precipice into a stone quarry.

Mrs. Pennell, who was in the vehicle with him, was so badly injured that it is not thought she can recover.

Just prior to starting out for the fatal ride Pennell had been informed that Harry Martin, a messenger boy, believed he could identify him as the man he had seen standing near the Burdick house the night Burdick was murdered.

The close connection between these events revived the police inquiry into Pennell's part in the Burdick mystery. It is felt here tonight that the case is now near a complete solution.

Pennell's death was most dramatic, and the nature of the tragedy leads the police to suspect suicide.

Kensington is a suburb of Buffalo, and Jamestown Quarry, where the tragedy occurred, is a bleak and barren spot. The edge of the cliff is ten feet from the curb of the driveway.

At the time Kensington avenue was nearly deserted. It was dark, and a heavy rain was falling. Only two persons, so far as known, saw the death plunge.

These witnesses say that in spite of the bad weather objects were discernible thirty feet or more ahead, and the road was clear.

They first saw the automobile when

The Inter-Scholastic debate between the Sunbury and Danville High Schools will be held in the Opera House tomorrow evening, March 13th. This debate promises to be interesting for many reasons—the question is up-to-date, it is the first entertainment of its kind in our city, and great rivalry exists between the two schools.

The question is, "Resolved, That the United States government should protect the Southern Negro in the exercise of the suffrage."

Danville will have the affirmative and Sunbury the negative. Danville's debaters are:—William Watkins, Howard Langer, and Bert McClure. Sunbury will be represented by Harry Hartzell, James Shipo and William Shipo. The judges are: J. E. Bassett, Esq., Mr. Carmel; Prof. G. E. Wilbur, of Bloomsburg Normal School and Rev. D. W. Ebberts, D. D., of Milton.

A special train bringing at least five hundred people will be run from Sunbury. A reception for both schools will be held in the Armory after the debate.

The price of admission to the Opera House will be 25 cents. No extra charge for reserved seats. Reserved seat board now open at Hunt's drug store.

Funeral of Mrs. Morgan. Margaret Bassett Morgan, wife of Elliott R. Morgan, of Kingston, whose death occurred in Danville, Tuesday morning, was consigned to her last resting place in Odd Fellows' cemetery here Friday afternoon.

The flowers, embracing lilies, roses, carnations, etc., wrought into a variety of designs, each of which was full of beauty and expression, were banked all about the casket, filling a large portion of the room and imparting its fragrance to nearly the entire dwelling. The beautiful offerings were the gifts not only of friends in Danville, but also of many of the most prominent people of Kingston, Wilkesbarre and neighboring localities.

Among those from out of town who attended the obsequies were the following: T. L. Newell and wife, G. M. Williams, General Manager of the Kingston Coal Company, L. C. Darte, W. L. Wakful Children. For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth St., Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by Paules & Co. Druggists.

Business Directory of Pennsylvania. A State Gazetteer or Business Directory is now being compiled and will be issued about June 1 which will fill a long felt want for a reference work covering the entire business interests of every city, village, hamlet and post office, their population, location, railway, express, telegraph and stage facilities, character of industries, banking institutions, newspapers, hotels, schools, churches, a complete list of corporations, their officers, manufacturers, merchants, lawyers, dentists, physicians, teachers, contractors, architects, justices of the peace, notary publics, etc., making it a work of great value and the only one open to the general public for reference purposes.

The work will be issued from the Pittsburgh offices of R. L. Polk & Co., publishers of Polk's Medical Directory of North America, ten other works of national scope, some twenty State Gazetteers, and over one hundred city directories, included in which are those of Pittsburgh, Allegheny, Altoona, Lancaster, York, Butler, McKeesport, etc.

A noticeable feature of their business system is their rule "not to accept money in advance of publication," thereby protecting the public against fake directory schemes.

TERRIFIC OIL TANK EXPLOSION

OLEAN, N. Y., March 10.—Fourteen persons are known to be dead as the result of the explosion of oil tank cars on the Erie railroad tracks near this city late last night. The death list will be added to when Olean creek is dragged. It is believed several whose clothing was burning plunged into the water and were drowned. Thirty persons, some of them fatally injured, are in the hospital. Seven of these it is expected, will die.

Thirteen of the dead have been identified, as follows: Martin V. Driscoll, aged 22; Willie Ross, 16; Harry Golden, 18; Richard Coughlin, 19; Herman Vollman, 15; John McMahon, 19; Walter Swift, 19; John Tobin, 16; John McReady, 13; John Stenlinger, 17; Norman Brown, 28.

There are eight other bodies at the morgue, burned almost beyond recognition. The victims were all young men who stood near one of the tanks watching the wreck burn.

The terrible disaster occurred at 9 o'clock last night. An Erie freight train, made up chiefly of oil tank cars broke in two north of the city. When the first section stopped a collision followed in which one of the oil tanks caught fire. The flames lighted up the whole city and a great crowd went out to watch the spectacle.

The people had lined the tracks on both sides of the burning wreck when a series of explosions occurred with remarkable rapidity. Tank after tank, spreading streams of burning oil, in every direction over the panic-stricken people. Several were overwhelmed and fell dead in their tracks. Others, with clothing burning fiercely, were able to run from the scene. They threw themselves into ditches and into the creek, but there was no help for many of them, who died miserably.

Word was sent to Olean and doctors, policemen, citizens all hurried to the scene and rendered what aid they could.

At midnight the first of the injured reached Thomas hospital here, and thereafter throughout the night a steady stream of dead and injured followed.

There were few who slept in Olean. News of the disaster spread and hundreds of men and women went to the scene to search for missing ones.

A great crowd remained at the morgue all night, and many heartrending scenes occurred as the dead were identified.

Sydney Fish, a business man, was an eye witness of the disaster. "I was about a quarter of a mile away," he said, "when the tanks began to explode. The sight would have been inspiring, but for its horror. A column of flame shot up hundreds of feet into the air, and it seemed to mushroom out into a fiery rain. I saw bodies lifted through the air by the force of the explosion. They disappeared into the fire and were burned to ashes.

"I saw others, their clothing saturated with the flaming oil, rushing around, looking like blazing torches. Some reached the railroad bridge and plunged into the creek. Others made for a ravine and rolled down the embankment, grovelling in the ditch to extinguish the flame. I was far off, but I could hear their screams above the shouts of the crowd which was flying for safety.

"When the first panic had subsided men turned back gallantly to the work of rescue, but it was useless to attempt to reach those who lay unconscious near the blazing wreck. The flames were at white heat, and it was impossible to go within fifty yards."

Well Again. The many friends of John Blount will be pleased to learn that he has entirely recovered from his attack of rheumatism. A Boom for Trevorton. Since the erection of the silk mill at Trevorton a year ago that municipality has been working to its utmost capacity and the owners find it impossible to meet more than half their many orders, and consequently an addition to the mill is in contemplation. Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood. All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out of the blood all the waste and impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work. Pain, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble. Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is overworked in pumping the impure, poisoned blood through veins and arteries. It is used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble. If you are sick you can make no mistake in getting your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. THE NEW BRIDGE BILL

The people who have been discommoded so many times in this county in the past years because of the fact that when bridges went out in floods the County Commissioners did not have the authority to build temporary structures, will hereafter have no such difficulties of that kind. Saturday Governor Pennypacker signed a bill designed to cover this point. It passed Senate and House, and gives the County Commissioners direct authority to build temporary structures, or to build and operate a ferry. The bill includes bridges that are carried on either after or before the passage of the act. The law reads as follows:

THE BRIDGE ACT. An act to authorize County Commissioners to provide ferries or temporary ways over streams where county bridges shall have temporary ways as hereafter be destroyed or rendered impassable by fire, storm, flood or other casualty, and legalizing prior expenditures therefore by County Commissioners.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in general assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That hereafter county commissioners of the several counties of this Commonwealth where county bridges within the respective counties shall have been heretofore and shall hereafter be destroyed or rendered impassable by fire, storm, flood or other casualty, may, in their discretion, provide at the expense of the proper county, ferries or other temporary ways as a substitute for such destroyed or impassable bridges until such county
