W. R. ANDREWS, Secretary.

THE HISTORY OF ALL FOOL'S DAY

What was the origin of All Fool's Day? Authorities differ and no one can say positively. The beginning of the day is hid in the mist and dust of antiquity. The generally, although by no means unanimously, accepted theory, says the Baltimore Sun, is that which assigns the origin of the custom to France. March 25 used to be New Year's day. France took the lead in commencing the new year on January 1 instead of March 25. Before the change was made, the festivities of the season culminated on the octave of the feast, April 1, when visits were paid and gifts bestowed. With the adoption of the reformed calendar in 1564 New Year's day was carried back to January 1, and only pretended gifts and mock ceremonial visits were made on April 1, with the intention of making fools of those who had forgotten the change of date. The custom once started was kept up after its origin had been forgotten.

Some say that the English borrowed their April fooling from the French, but, where—as the English youngster and the American small boy exultingly cry out, "April fool!" when they have perpetrated the joke, the French call the person imposed on an April fish or a Poisson d'Avril—that is, an April fish by implication an April fool. The term April fool was, probably nothing more than an easy substitution of the opprobrious epithet for fish. In Germany they have the phrase, "Einen zum April schicken."

"April Gooks" is what they call those who were fooled on the 1st of April in the north of England. A gook or gook is properly a cuckoo and the word above means fool. For instance the joker sends his victim with a letter to a friend a mile away requesting the loan of some article but in reality containing the words:
This is the first of April.
Hunt the gook another mile.
In England the practice of sending those imposed on senseless errands had been a very popular feature. A victim is sent to a book store for a History of Eve's Grandmother or a girl sent to a young clerk for essence of tulips or small boys go to the cobbler's for strap oil.

A Distressing Accident.
One of the saddest and most distressing accidents that has happened in this vicinity for years, occurred at the Fourth street crossing of the Shamokin railroad in Sunbury at noon on Monday, when Cloyd, the fourteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Sensesbach, had both legs horribly crushed by being thrown under a freight train.

The boy was a pupil in the high school and was on his way home for dinner, having just left the school room. When he reached the Fourth street crossing he found the track blocked by an extra freight train east bound. The train was not in motion and as it was raining hard at the time and he was anxious to get home he attempted to crawl over between the cars. While he was standing on the end of one of the cars the train started with a violent jerk. Not expecting the sudden jerk he was unable to save himself and was thrown between the cars directly under the wheels, which passed over both legs. Chief of Police Waltz, who happened to be near at the time, carried him to a nearby house, where everything was done to relieve his suffering until the ambulance arrived to remove him to the hospital.

The most notable instance of the benefits of bank advertising of which we have any record, says an exchange, is furnished by the experience of the Pittsburg Bank for Savings. The amount of the deposits in this bank have increased about fourfold in the past four years, and during the past year 14,000 new deposit accounts were opened, which is regarded as almost wholly the result of advertising. The depositors now number 35,000, with about $12,000,000 of deposits. This bank, has an advertising manager on its staff and advertises regularly in over one hundred and fifty newspapers.

AMUSEMENTS.

One of the best and liveliest comedies of the season will be presented at the Opera House next Saturday evening. It is Dave Lewis' company of fun makers, supporting the famous little versatile favorite, Miss Kate Watson, in the latest laugh producer, entitled, "The Hoosier Girl." There are so many pleasing features in this gigantic production of side splitting complications that it would really be tedious to mention them. This we do guarantee, that if you are one of the audience and are not forced to laugh with joy because of mirth and laughter your past life has been one continuous bunch of dark clouds, trials and tribulations, and you are indeed in a serious condition. Go to see "The Hoosier Girl" and brighten up your existence, you can't keep from laughing.

George Whitman and Eloise Davis are the comedy features of "Man to Man" the thrilling comedy drama coming soon. Their melody of song is the talk of every city they play and whistled by all the small boys for months after their visit.

Marriage gives happiness only when there is a common aim; the man and the woman have met by the way and said: "Let us walk together." So he it. And they take each other hands. The marriage will not give happiness when both thus drawn toward each other have turned away from their proper course. All this to combat the false idea shared by many men that life is a vale of tears, and also that other fallacy equally shared by a large majority, that youth, health and riches prove to us that life is a pleasure ground. Life is a place of service, where one must often suffer much, but where often one may be very happy. This is one of the lessons taught in Tolstoy's "Resurrection," the wonderful, complete and lifelike story of the human emotions that has taken the literary world by storm, the original American production of which will soon be presented at the Opera House. The dramatization by Mr. Chas. W. Chase, is from the original Russian manuscript and is a remarkably strong literary production. The scenic environment, costumes and properties carried for the production are historically correct, and the dramatic act is a most efficient one.

The Female Headgear.
Just now the average woman's thought is given to her Easter hat or bonnet. How is it to be trimmed, is a question which should be considered. If Professor D. L. Sharp is a criterion or judge as to the future bliss or woe of woman in the life beyond, recently Professor Sharp, of the Boston university, in an address said no woman could enter heaven who wore the feathers or body of a song bird or sea gull on her bonnet or hat. Holy writ has not so expressed itself, as in the days of old the present style of headgear was not in vogue. As Professor Sharp designates only the feathers of "song birds and sea gulls," on a bonnet, as depriving the wearer from entrance to heaven, it leaves a wide range for the decorative fancy of the milliner.

There is the red-headed woodpecker, English sparrow, the rooster and demure hen and other birds.
But why slaughter any of the feathered tribe to adorn woman's headgear when the world is full of flowers and fruits and vegetables, asks the Chicago Record-Herald. Why should a woman yearn for the plumage of the sea gull when she can cover her Easter hat with flowers, with bunches of luscious looking grapes, or with yellow carrots and red-ripe tomatoes? Have the cherries ceased to shake on mother's bonnet? What could be more tempting than a pyramid of pink-yellow peaches and blue plums peeping from a bowler of dahlias and hollyhocks? Let the slaughter of the feathered innocents cease.

In the absence of any Biblical injunction against it the women appear inclined to go right along breaking into "heaven" with a new hat as often as the family exchequer or credit will permit. Indeed, some of them exhibit a reckless disposition to take their chances on heaven hereafter if they can linger in the paradise that comes from a feathered headgear that outdoes everything in the block.

It would please everybody now if April would get down to genuine spring business.
Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.
Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stinks your urine it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in the mind. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c and $1 sizes.
You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Home of Swamp-Root, Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make no mistake, but remember the name Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.
Paul Sweentek has sold out his stand, St. Elmo Hotel, Mill street, to M. C. Brindle of Altoona. The new owner will take possession on Friday, the 10th inst.

HENRY REMPE.
GRADUATE OPTICIAN.

FUNERAL OF LEWIS WRAY

The funeral of Lewis V. Wray, whose death occurred Monday night, will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday, from the family residence, Cooper street. Interment will take place in Fairview cemetery.

The deceased was a veteran of the Civil war, serving in the 15th regiment. He came from a family of brave soldiers, one of his brothers being Adam Wray, a member of the Columbia Guards, and a hero of the war with Mexico, who planted the American flag on Chapultepec.
The death of Lewis, has recalled many incidents connected with the career of his famous brother and incidentally with other members of the Columbia Guards who saw service in Mexico, all of whom after that war received a great deal of homage from the citizens of Danville.

It was in 1846 that the Columbia Guards then under the command of Captain Wilson, responded to the call made upon the citizen soldiery of the country. Rank and file ninety-four strong they were mustered into the service of the United States on the 28th day of December, 1846, and proceeded at once to Mexico.

The first engagement of the Guards was at the storming of Vera Cruz and there at the opening of their brilliant campaign, Captain Wilson died on the 10th of April 1847. From Vera Cruz the company under command of Dr. C. H. Erick proceeded in the victorious march of General Scott towards the city of Mexico. In the battle of Cerro Gordo they took a prominent part and lost one of their number, John Smith, who was killed by a musket ball in storming the heights. At the bloody battle of Chapultepec they lost two more of their comrades—William Dietrich and John Snyder. On the 13th day of September, 1847, the Columbia Guards were among the first in General Scott's triumphant march into the city of the Aztecs and the halls of the Montezumas. After an absence of nearly two years, when Mexico was conquered, the Guards returned to Danville on the 28th of July, 1849. They met with a royal reception. It was a gala day in Danville the whole community turning out to welcome and honor their arrival.

A little time developed the fact that the most of those who returned had contracted diseases peculiar to the tropical climate of Mexico and one by one they began to drop into premature graves. Among the first to go were Jesse G. Clark, Adam Wray and their noble-hearted commander, Dr. Clarence H. Erick.
Adam Wray, who planted the colors on Chapultepec, survived until about the time of the Civil war, when he was found dead in the street at Williamsport. There was no one to identify him and he was buried as unknown.

The fact of his death was finally discovered and a public-spirited citizen here, among them James L. Riehl of the Montour House, set on foot a project to disinter his body and bring it to Danville for the purpose of giving it a burial more in keeping with the brilliant service he rendered his country. The grave was finally located and the remains of Adam Wray were brought back to Danville. Thus it transpires that today in the south east corner of the Episcopal cemetery under a plain marble slab several feet in height rest the bones of the man who raised the American flag over the heights of Chapultepec.

April in American History.
The month of April has played an important part in American history, having settled a number of great problems with which this Republic has had to deal. The War of the Revolution began April 19, 1775, and ended April 11, 1783. Coming on down we find the Sabine disturbance, involving the Southwestern frontier, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas, and which began in April, 1836, running through to June of the next year. The Mexican war began April 1836, running through to June of the next year. The Mexican expedition into California ended in April, 1846, having begun in December the year previous. The Gila expedition into New Mexico was launched April 16, 1847. The Colorado river expedition in California ended April 25, 1859. The Pease expedition into Texas was launched April 16, 1859. There was the war of the rebellion, which started April 19, 1861. Hostilities actually began when Fort Sumter was fired upon April 12, 1861. Lee surrendered April 9, 1865; Lincoln died on April 15, 1865. The Ute expedition in Colorado began April 3, 1878. It is a rather curious coincidence that the late war with Spain began April 21, in the same month and but two days later, with respect to the day of the month, than the war of the rebellion, which began April 19. The Spanish-American war began April 21, 1898, and ended April 11, 1899. These are some of the more important things which have taken place in the month of April, and many of the events have been of deep import from the viewpoint of Americans.

Spring Arbor Days.
Governor Pennypacker has named April 3rd and 10th as spring arbor days, and all citizens are called upon to observe either one of the two by planting trees and encouraging their children to do likewise. The Governor says: "The lack of forest lands is a menace to the water supply of the country. Everyone is under obligation to render aid in this important work, which benefits not only the state but the entire country. Nature alone cannot repair the injury and it is necessary that we join with her in replacing the forests."

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.
For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach and excite the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete much instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

A Row After the Fight.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 1.—Despite the roars of the McGovern people and yells of "robbery," fight fans went to bed thoroughly convinced that "Young Corbett" won last night's feather-weight championship battle on his merits. None save a few disappointed bettors and the McGovern party objected to the decision.
McGovern is heartbroken and following his outburst of rage over the decision he went like a child.
Corbett took the decision as a matter of fact and did not allow his victory to disturb his usual calm demeanor.
The fight as it went, was one of the greatest ever seen in a California ring. Throughout the battle and up to the very moment that Terry went down in the eleventh round the boys fought as hard as it was possible for men of their weight and condition to fight. Brains won the battle for Corbett, but the once "Terrible Terry" was handicapped in not having the great head, the wonderful generalship of his opponent.
It developed this morning that Corbett and McGovern had a row in the dressing room after the fight. The police were called on to prevent trouble. McGovern approached Corbett, and told him heatedly that he had won on a take. Corbett denied it, and then replied coolly: "I don't like you and have no sympathy for you."
McGovern, white with rage, his fists clenched, said: "I'll fight you any time, winner take all."
Corbett, with a tantalizing smile on his face, declared that he would accept.
Friends and the police then interfered, the fighters dressing and left the pavilion, each going in a different direction.

Danger of Colds and Grip.
The greatest danger from cold and grip is these resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure a cold or an attack of the grip in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Pauls & Co.

POINTERS FOR HORSEMEN.

On Wednesday morning the 22nd inst. I found that one of my valuable mated bay horses had been kicked in the back by the other one, some time during the previous night. I found him in a most deplorable condition. His back was swollen as tight as the skin would hold. The joint was three or four times its normal size. The horse could not bear a single pound of weight on it.
I applied MOYER'S WHITE LINIMENT freely to the affected part at once. By evening the swelling was reduced one-half. I bathed it again, and on Thursday morning the swelling had entirely disappeared. He could now stand firmly on the injured leg again and by Thursday night no sign of lameness could be seen.

This Friday morning he is working in the team as well as ever.
The value of such an ointment on the farm and in the stable is incalculable. I think the knowledge of its merits should be spread broadcast as rapidly as possible, especially as printers' ink can make it known.
