ODD FELLOWS' DAY AT MILTON

Local Odd Fellows' lodges have received invitations to attend the Odd Fellows celebration at Milton on April 28.

The coming celebration promises to be one of the most successful in the history of the fraternity.

Two years ago the association met at Williamsport, and last year at Jersey Shore.

The annual session of the association will be held in the hall of Mutual Lodge, No. 81, at 11 o'clock a. m.

There will be a parade at 2 o'clock p. m., in which all Odd Fellows are invited and requested to participate.

Some of the Grand Lodge officers will be present to participate in the exercises, and there will be a special session of the Grand Lodge in the evening.

The Pennsylvania Odd Fellows' Anniversary association was organized in 1884, on the 26th day of April.

The officers of the association are: President, William H. Kiese; secretary, Henry B. Eberly; treasurer, Harry T. Kraemer.

NEW BOILER ASKED FOR

The extraordinary growth of Y. M. C. A. work which is general throughout the country, is manifested in Danville by the overcrowded condition of the Y. M. C. A. rooms, especially the gymnasium, where the work is considerably handicapped.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A., Tuesday night, General Secretary W. D. Lammaster presented a statement showing that by reason of increased patronage with larger classes in the gymnasium, an enlargement and betterment of the bathing facilities have become imperative.

It is true, he said, that notwithstanding the inconvenience to which they have been exposed, the patrons have proven very forbearing, nevertheless the fact is apparent that the facilities are wholly inadequate.

To meet the demand, he thought a new and larger boiler would have to be installed, with feed pipes and all connections so arranged that each separate shower will be supplied with water in sufficient quantity heated to the proper temperature.

The matter was fully discussed by the Board of Directors, after which it was referred to the Executive Committee who will report it back at the next monthly meeting.

The following motion which was read for the second time during the session and adopted, shows the high esteem in which the character of George Washington was held at a time when he was still living and in the midst of his activities.

Resolved, That in commemoration of the important and meritorious services rendered to his country by George Washington, whose character and conduct have triumphed in proportion to the difficulties they have encountered and have attracted the admiration and respect of all nations where valor and virtue are held in estimation, there be procured, at the public expense, a full length portrait painting and a marble bust, expressive of his person, and as far as possible, characteristic of his talents.

Resolved, That the said painting and bust be deposited wherever the Legislature shall deem expedient.

INTERESTING OLD JOURNAL

William M. Russell, of this city, in looking over some old books a day or so ago came across an interesting relic in the form of a journal of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the year 1791.

The old book has a deep local interest owing to the fact that General William Montgomery, the founder of Danville and great grandfather of Mr. Russell, was then a member of the State Senate and that his name in connection with the various votes taken is registered at intervals throughout the pages.

Thomas Mifflin was then Governor of Pennsylvania and the largest number of Senators whose names appear in connection with any vote is seventeen.

Upon adjournment of the Senate, orders were drawn in favor of the Speaker and members, by which it is noticed that the remuneration of Senators of that day was by no means princely. Samuel Powell, who had "sixty-six days at two dollars and thirty-one days at a speaker, at three dollars," received a total of three hundred and twenty-three dollars.

William Montgomery had one hundred and twenty-seven days at two dollars and he accordingly received two hundred and fifty-four dollars for his services during the term.

FRIENDSHIP OF SIOUX INDIANS

BISMARCK, N. D., April 8.—Standing in the private office of Governor White at the state capital yesterday afternoon, President Roosevelt received the assurance of the friendship and support of the great Sioux Indian tribes and similar assurances from the chiefs of the Mandan and Grosventres.

Twenty of the most distinguished chiefs of the tribes had come from their agencies to see the "Great Father," and to assure him of their support and good will.

These were many famous Indians in the assemblage. John Grass, the orator and chief justice of the Sioux, made the presentation of the tribes' good will in a translation of the address which had been agreed upon in council of the chiefs.

At the same time Grass presented the president a peace pipe of beautifully carved pipestone, in token of the good will and friendship of the Indians.

Among the chiefs present were Red Tomahawk, the Indian who killed Sitting Bull at the time of the uprising in the early nineties; Red Fish, one of the hereditary leaders of the Sioux; Black Bull, Standing Bear, Crow Ghost, Cross Bear and other Sioux chiefs.

"We have been treated well by the good Great Father," said Grass, "and we hope he will again be 'Great Father' when his time is over."

THE COMING TROUT SEASON

Disciples of Isaac Walton all over the State of Pennsylvania are watching the calendar closely, in anticipation of the opening of the trout season, in a few days. Thousands of sportsmen indulge in angling, considered the most delightful form of recreation to be had in any line.

Fishing, especially, thrills the souls of a great army of men, who are skilled in the art of casting the hook and line, not only on account of the gameness and cunning of the speckled beauties, but on account of the delicacy of this species of fish from the standpoint of the epicurean.

The streams of Schuylkill county and all the other counties in the mountains of the coal field, in the days of our grandfathers, abounded with countless thousands of brook and mountain trout, but the pollution of the streams has wrought sad havoc with these aquatic denizens, and nowadays they are found only in the streams located outside the coal measures. It must not be inferred, however, that the gamey trout has become extinct in this region.

Thanks to the interest manifested by many of the true sportsmen in fish propagation, many of the virgin streams are stocked yearly with fry furnished by the government and State hatcheries.

Twice a year the U. S. government fish commissioner sends thousands of yearlings into this territory, which are put into the trout streams. The State also furnishes many thousands of fry into the region yearly.

Many fishermen are skeptical, however, as to the success of the State's efforts at fish propagation. The fry sent out by the State of Pennsylvania are delivered at the age of about three months, when they are not over an inch in length.

These small fish, it is believed, in large numbers, become the prey of the larger trout and other fish native to these waters. The government fry range from four to five inches in length and are better able to defend themselves. The general opinion among sportsmen is that the money spent by the State in fish culture is practically wasted for the reason stated, and the question of growing the fry to yearlings is being seriously discussed in many quarters.

The most pleasing form of fishing is with the artificial fly, which is an art in which few become adept. The mountain streams are not adapted to fly fishing on account of the overabundant growths, and those who are skilled in this line seek larger streams or dams at distant places.

The old-fashioned way of fishing, with live bait, is the popular style heretofore, and no special degree of skill is required to land the fish by this means, if the trout be in a mood to take the bait offered him.

We have treated trout fishing as an art. It is more; it is a science. Many profound works have been written on the subject, the most noteworthy being "The Angler," the product of that philosophical genius, Isaac Walton.

There are a few good trout streams in Schuylkill county, the ones being those that have their source in the Blue Mountains—in West Penn, the Brunswicks, Washington and Pine-grove townships, Black Creek, Gold Mine Creek, Indian Run, Tumbling Run and dams afford good fishing on favorable days.

For first class mountain stream fishing, however, the angler should hike himself to Lycoming, Clinton, Snyder or Centre counties, where in the ravines of the Alleghenies, there are hundreds of streams in which trout are found in great numbers.

The opening day of the trout fishing season is Wednesday, April 15, and the closing day Wednesday, July 15.

THE GROUNDS RE-LEASED

The Committee on Grounds appointed by the Danville Base Ball Association at its meeting Tuesday night met with Dr. DeWitt Thursday afternoon and entered into an agreement whereby the club secures a lease of the grounds for the season of 1903, including all holidays.

The Committee consisted of Attorney Ralph Kiser, Frank G. Schoch and E. F. Williams. Dr. DeWitt did not object to installing the several improvements on the grounds outlined at the last meeting, which are considered indispensable both to the comfort of those who patronize the game and to the end that the club may reap a success during the season.

The agreement provides as follows: For the erection of a new grand stand with a seating capacity of at least six hundred.

For the erection of a guard fence from the grand stand to first and third bases, to prevent encroachment upon playing field.

For a private entrance to the grounds from the southern part in order to effect a severance of the base ball grounds from the park.

For the erection of a canvas fence along the lower half of the diamond to cut off a view from the park.

The grounds are to be ready by May 1st.

The agreement gives the grounds to the club on all holidays, which were fixed at four in number.

The committee was much pleased with the manner in which Dr. DeWitt acquiesced in their view as to needed improvements. His enterprise and public spirit was much commended and it was said that his grounds when completed will be one of the finest in this section.

For liver troubles and constipation There's nothing better in creation Than Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. They always effect a cure and save doctor bills.

Little Early Risers are different from all other pills. They do not weaken the system, but act as a tonic to the tissues by arousing the secretions and restoring the liver to the full performance of its functions naturally.

Rural Free Delivery Growing. The rural free delivery system is daily growing in favor with the patrons all over the country and in many sections the farmers are now enabled to get their morning paper even before some of the subscribers in the town are up and ready to read the news.

People along the routes have grown accustomed to writing their letters so as to catch the rural carriers, and know exactly when these letters will be delivered, and an answer had within a day.

The issuing and changing of money orders along the routes is now a plan which has been successfully inaugurated, and is another feature which has popularized the service with the rural population. The system is no longer an experiment, and has come to stay, and Congress by its liberal appropriations has shown itself thoroughly in sympathy with the work.

A Great Sensation. There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter effected a complete cure."

Similar cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Bronchitis and Grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c, and $1.00. Guaranteed by Paules & Co., Druggists. Trial bottles free.

Using Slag and Ashes. The supervisors of Gearhart township are repairing the road between the River bridge and Pennsylvania railroad crossing, South Danville. The roadway is being covered with a coat of coarsely broken slag hauled from the cinder tip above Church street in this city.

The slag, which is deposited a foot or more in thickness, is being covered with a coat of ashes prepared at the silk mill. The combination of slag and ashes is a sort of an experiment, but the Supervisors are of the opinion that it will make a very good road.

The stretch of road between the bridge and the Pennsylvania railroad crossing has been the source of a great deal of trouble to the Supervisors. There is no more frequently traveled thoroughfare to be found anywhere, as all the roads which approach Danville from the opposite side of the river converge just this side of the crossing. There is much heavy hauling over the road, too, with the result that with every rain the mud becomes something formidable and actually impedes travel.

Working anthracite coal into such forms is not exactly a new thing, but during the recent strike when coal became scarce and it was popular to regard it as possessing a fabulous value the manufacture of ornaments out of anthracite received a great boom.

Nowhere was the trade more active than at Lansford which is in the heart of the Schuylkill coal field. A factory was established there which has grown into a permanent industry. A demand for its unique product is constantly increasing and the factory has just increased its capacity.

Polished anthracite is not only utilized in the manufacture of clock-cases, which can be made very ornamental, but it has actually displaced many forms of jewelry, being used for breast pins, lodge badges and the like.

This fact is not confined to Lansford alone, but is known to take in a large portion of the coal region.

This use of anthracite has very nearly revolutionized the jewelry business in some of the coal towns. The protest of the jewelers, however, availed naught and many of them in order to cater to the popular taste have been obliged to handle the anthracite articles instead of those made of more valuable materials.
