CALL FOR STATE CONVENTION

TO THE REPUBLICAN ELECTORS OF PENNSYLVANIA.

I am directed by the Republican State Committee to announce that the Republicans of Pennsylvania, by their duly chosen Representatives, will meet in convention at the Opera House, in the city of Harrisburg, on Wednesday, May 27th, 1903 at 10.30 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices, to wit:

One person for the office of State Treasurer. One person for the office of Auditor General.

Two persons for the office of Judge of the Superior Court.

In accordance with the rules governing the organization, the representation in the State Convention will be based on the vote polled at the last Presidential election. Under the rules each legislative district is entitled to one delegate for every two thousand votes cast for the Presidential Electors in 1900, and an additional delegate for every fraction of two thousand votes polled in excess of one thousand.

By order of the Republican State Committee.

M. S. CHAYMAN, Chairman. W. R. ANDREWS, Secretary.

PREPARING FOR THE DEDICATION

Today will be given to the dedicatory ceremonies of what promises to be the greatest of all fairs, and at which a cardinal will offer the dedicatory prayer, and the President of the United States will deliver the opening address.

These services are but preparatory, for the fair—the Louisiana Purchase Exposition—will not open until this time next year, and there will be ample foretaste of what is in store for us.

St. Louis is fortunate in the favoring and distinguished circumstances under which its enterprise will have its official emergence. The country is looking towards the banks of the Mississippi. Thither many of its eyes are turned, and thither regular soldiers and general officers and ships of the navy have already gone. Strangers by the hundreds of thousands are expected to be at the fair grounds today. The picturesque and inevitably spectacular tour of the President through the Northwest may be considered as merely a prologue to the dedication. The public interest that followed him into the Yellowstone is trailing on behind him as he moves toward St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, April 29.—The final day before the dedication ceremonies shows the World's Fair city in a state of bustle and hurry. On every street decorators are working like mad. The streets are packed with visitors and special trains are drawing thousands more into the Union station every hour.

The World's Fair resembles a military camp. Miles upon miles of white tents stretched out over hills and down dales, glistening in the morning light. Men in blue, in khaki and in olive green, march here and there about their duties. Great siege guns stand grim and forbidding in the shadow of the industries building, their sentries like pygmies beneath their frowning muzzles. Special trains are unloading regiments of soldiers. At 10 o'clock this morning 14,000 soldiers were encamped and 10,000 more will have been added to the tented city before midnight.

St. Louis is filled with government officials. The arrivals began in earnest early this morning. All regular trains are literally packed and they are followed by express train after express train. Bunting of red, white and blue and yellow, the exposition colors, make the decorations.

Governors and their staffs and State boards of World's Fair commissioners are coming in every hour. President Roosevelt and party will arrive at 1:45 today on a special train. It will be driven to the Good Roads convention, where he will make a speech.

After the exercises at the university President Roosevelt will be driven to the home of President David Francis, and in the evening he will address the Franz Segel Monument Association. Tomorrow will be an equally strenuous day for the President. Mayor Wells will extend to him the freedom of the city at the St. Louis Club at 10 a. m. and at 1:30 he will lead the dedication parade for the fair grounds. There the parade will pass in review before him.

President Roosevelt and other distinguished visitors will then eat luncheon and at 2:15 p. m. the President will formally dedicate the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Then will come dinner in the Hall of Congress and the fire works display on the Exposition grounds. At 10:30 p. m. the Presidential special will depart for Kansas City.

The President will witness in the Liberal Arts building, where the dedication ceremonies are conducted, the largest audience ever assembled under one roof in the history of America.

Seventeen thousand chairs have been placed in the parquet sections and when the raised sections, or amphitheatre, on which there are several thousand benches, are filled, the exact seating capacity will be 58,660. Tests made of this building proved the acoustics to be perfect.

Gypsies Won't Be Affected.

The law passed by the legislature making it unlawful for gypsies to encamp on lands without first securing the written permission of the owners has been vetoed by Governor Pennypacker on a technicality. Consequently gypsies will be free to establish their camps wherever they want to.

AMUSEMENTS.

The "Resurrection," an Epic in Prose. The Rev. R. Keon-Ryan, author of "Resurrection," an epic in prose by Count Leo Tolstoy, the original American production of which will be at the Opera House on Tuesday evening, should be seen by every thoughtful person in America. It is the great Russian novelist's masterpiece, and in every respect is the greatest novel of the age in which we live.

By common consent Count Leo Tolstoy is one of the greatest thinkers and social reformers that the world has ever produced.

He was born at Yasnaya Polyana, in the Krasnovsk district of the Government of Tula, Russia, September 9, 1828. His father, Count Nikolai Ilyitch, served in the campaign of 1812. His mother was a Princess Volkonskaya, of a Montenegro family.

In youth he was given the advantage of a complete and finished education, graduating from the University of Kazan at the age of eighteen. He took part in the Crimean War, and was the author of the famous "Sevastopol," which gave him rank among the famous literary lights of St. Petersburg.

The dissipated life at the capital, however soon palled upon him, and was the primary cause of his becoming interested in education and social reforms not only in Russia, but in other countries. All through his novels are scattered the "idea germs," which finally developed into his elaborate system of life and reforms.

The keynote of all his books involves the abolition of courts, armies, navies and wars, as well as of prisoners and punishments.

Melodrama will hold the boards at the Opera House on Saturday night when Edward Wetzel's New York production of "The Tide of Life" will be given, with all its original effects and scenery. The production in this city will be exactly as it was in New York, not a detail being omitted. The critics of the metropolis all agreed that "The Tide of Life" was one of the most striking melodramas that has been seen in this city for years, and the public endorse the opinions of the critics by packing the house at every performance. The old fashioned "effects" in melodrama have been avoided in this one, and the audience sees something that has never been thought of before. At the end of the fourth act, for instance, a rascal jumps from the upper window of a big office building, and clutches at a wire in his descent. Instantly there bursts forth, from his hands, arms and apparently every other part of his body, blue flames and electric sparks. He is holding, in a death clutch, a heavily charged electric wire, which will not release him until the curtain has fallen. The sensation created by this scene is simply indescribable.

SEVERE ATTACK OF GRIP.

Cured by One Bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. When I had an attack of grip last winter (the second one) I actually cured myself with one bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says Frank W. Perry, Editor of the Enterprise, Shortsville, N. Y. "This is the honest truth. I at all times kept on coughing myself to pieces by taking a teaspoonful of this remedy and when the coughing spell would come on at night I would take a dose and it seemed that in the briefest interval the cough would pass off and I would go to sleep perfectly free from cough and its accompanying pains. To say that the remedy acted as a most agreeable surprise is putting it very mildly. I had no idea that it would or could knock out the grip, simply because I had never tried it for such a purpose, but it did, and it seemed with the second attack of coughing the remedy caused it to not only be of less duration, but the pains were far less severe, and I had not used the contents of one bottle before Mr. Grip had bid me adieu." Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How to Find Out. Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do. There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidney, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, water beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make no mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

AS TO YOUR EYES. They may need a little assistance when reading or sewing in the evening. The proper assistance is correct glasses but they must be right otherwise they may do more harm than good. I have had ten years of practical experience with over two thousand of our Danville people's that a good record? When I say I can give you glasses as good as science, skill and experience can make I tell you the truth, let me prove my claims. EYES TESTED FREE. HENRY REMPE. GRADUATE OPTICIAN.

MANY MINERS OWN THEIR OWN HOMES

Chief James M. Clark, of the Bureau of Industrial Statistics, Harrisburg, has completed some very interesting comparative statistics concerning the work of the anthracite and bituminous miners during the 173 days immediately preceding the great coal strike of last summer.

"Approximately twenty to twenty-five per cent of the anthracite miners own their own homes," says Captain Clark, "and homes are practically owned by one-eighth of the bituminous miners."

During the ten months ending June 30, 1902, the figures show that an average of 35,542 anthracite miners were employed with average earnings of $495.97, or $2.83 a day, less powder and other mine supplies.

Fifty eight thousand five hundred and ninety two other inside people, including miners' laborers, had 173 days of employment and average earnings of $303.47, or $2.10 a day.

Forty seven thousand three hundred and forty-six outside people were employed 177 days with average earnings of $306.37, or $1.73 a day. Practically one-half of these outside people were slate-pickers, boys under 15, with a range of fifty cents to $1.10 a day.

The total employment in the anthracite field for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1902, was 141,730, exclusive of washeries.

The production for that time was 43,507,582 tons and the f. o. b. value $93,680,586, or an average of $2.11 per ton.

In the bituminous field 79,121 miners were employed for 232 days with average earnings of $503.57, or $2.16 a day; 18,853 other inside people were employed for 243 days with average earnings of $546.67, or $2.24 a day, and 13,223 outside people were employed for 243 days with average earnings of $453.93, or $1.87 a day, a total employment in the bituminous field of 11,229.

The production in this field was 93,174,295 tons, and the f. o. b. value $93,725,939, or $1.06 per ton. It will be observed that the bituminous miners averaged five tons a day, while the anthracite miners averaged seven tons per day.

The very marked difference in conditions surrounding these two fields is shown by the large increase of other employment than those classified under the head of miners in the anthracite field from that of the bituminous mines as against 35,542 miners, while in the bituminous field only 18,853 inside people were employed as against 79,121 miners. A more marked difference is found in the relative proportions of the outside people in the anthracite field, 47,346 being employed as relative to the 35,542 miners, while in the bituminous field there were only 13,223 outside people as relative to 79,121 miners.

Chaplains of the Pennsylvania legislature who pray for the members of that body at the opening of the daily sessions are to receive a salary of $8 a day, instead of $3 as heretofore. The chaplains earn their money.

Mrs. Rick's Monologue Play. Can you imagine one person playing an entire play, and a play containing seven acts at that? This is really what Mrs. Rick does, only that you will forget there is only one actor.

The acts are called tableaux, and play from ten to twenty minutes each. Tableau one, opens in the nursery of the Livingston family. Emily, the pet, the darling, is but 12 years of age and playing with her dolls. Several serious interruptions break the harmony and the act ends in a social catastrophe.

The second tableau, occurs five years later, and Emily Livingston is a student at Vassar. She has absorbed the whole "New Woman" idea; rides astride, golfs and explodes her radical fancies on all who come in contact with her, with all the gusto befitting a girl of the 20th century who imagines that wisdom will die with her. Through it all, however, one easily detects the real woman that underlies all these masculine follies and the audience is at last delighted when an accident causes the mask to drop.

Tableau three, a few years later, and the scene is a ball room. Emily is making her bow to society this evening, and wondrous is the change. The "New Woman" is no more, as she is understood. So, this is a creature, all smiles, daintily supercilious perhaps, but preferable—much preferable—to the Vassar girl. Alas! for the girl would not stoop to marry! She changes her mind that very night!

No one can afford to miss this beautiful pantomime play, for you will not see anything quite like it again. May 8th—Friday evening at the Opera House. Tickets 25 cents; can be secured at Hunt's, Wednesday morning, May 6th.

Danger of Colds and Grip. The greatest danger from cold and grip is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure a cold or an attack of the grip in less time and with less suffering than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Paulos & Co.

THE WHEAT LOOKS BAD

The wheat crop, which seemed so promising a month ago, has received quite a setback as a result of the cold and unfavorable weather of April and the indications are, speaking at least for this section, that at many places the crop will little more than half a one.

The fine growing weather of March hurried the wheat along at a rapid rate. During April there were at least three weeks when the cloudy weather, raw winds and occasionally freezing temperature held back vegetation in all forms.

The wheat was no exception; it stopped growing and except at spots where the land is exceedingly fertile and sheltered it assumed a sickly yellowish appearance which is not at all promising. No one can take a drive over the country without noticing this peculiarity of the wheat fields.

Several farmers were interviewed yesterday and none seemed very hopeful of a good crop. They all agree, however, that a warm rain followed by plenty of sunshine would be wonderfully efficacious in reviving the grain, although it can not be expected to fully recover from the setback it has received.

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach. For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach and excite the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucus instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. relieves all inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the stomach, protects the nerves, and cures bad breath, sour rising, a sense of fullness after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.
