APPROVED BOXES FOR RURAL DELIVERY

A recent order of the Postmaster General regarding the use of boxes on Rural Free Delivery routes is of interest to all patrons. That part relating to the interference with boxes is based on the following act of Congress:

"Whoever shall hereafter willfully or maliciously injure, tear down or obstruct any letter box or other receptacle established by order of the Postmaster General or approved or designated by him for the receipt or delivery of mail matter on any rural free delivery route, or shall break open the same, or willfully or maliciously injure, deface or destroy any mail matter deposited therein, or shall willfully take or steal such matter from or out of such letter box or other receptacle or shall willfully aid or assist in any of the aforementioned offenses, shall for every such offense be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than three years."

Each box must be erected by the roadside, so that the carrier can readily obtain access to it without descending from his vehicle. The same box must not be used for more than one family, except in the case of near relatives or those residing in the same house.

Persons neglecting or refusing to comply with these conditions will be regarded as not desiring rural free delivery, and the rural carrier will be directed not to serve them.

Eastern Fruit Crops Failure Help West.
Owing to the practical failure of the fruit crop in Pennsylvania, particularly in this section, there will be heavy importations of California fruit this season.

The adverse conditions that prevail here will benefit California to the extent of millions of dollars. The shipments have already commenced. One hundred cars laden with all kinds of fruit are being sent eastward every day.

About the only product of which there will be more than an abundance in the east this year will be the pumpkin, the raising of which is made a specialty in New Jersey. Last year canners bought up all the pumpkins they could buy and paid good prices. Their expectations of a brisk market, however, did not materialize and much of the canned pumpkin is still in the hands of the dealers. Anticipating an equally great demand for pumpkins this year, the Jersey farmers devoted almost twice the average this spring in their cultivation than in 1902 with the result that the pumpkin market is now glutted. Prices will consequently be low this fall and there will be no scarcity of pumpkin pie.

Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is an old friend in a new form. It is prepared for the particular benefit of sufferers from nasal catarrh who are used to amoniase in spraying the diseased membranes. All the healing and soothing properties of Cream Balm are retained in the new preparation. It does not dry up the secretions. Price, including spraying tube, is 75 cents. At your druggist's or Ely Brothers 56 Warren Street, New York will mail it.

Taken to Penitentiary.
Jacob Gearhardt, the convicted wife murderer, entered the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia, yesterday afternoon, there to remain until released by death, the sentence so decided upon by the Board of Pardons which body commuted the sentence of death penalty.

Gearhardt was taken to Philadelphia over the Reading road from Sunbury yesterday morning, by Sheriff Dietrich, accompanied by the county commissioners. When told that he was to be taken to the penitentiary Gearhardt seemed to be in good spirits and remained cheerful until he arrived at the Shamokin station, where one of his sons and a number of his friends bid him good bye. At this parting the prisoner broke down and wept and it was not until the train left Shamokin that he again became cheerful and talkative.

Three Pairs of Fine Twins.
If President Roosevelt were to go to Columbia County on a short vacation he would see that which would make his heart glad for within a mile of each other, and all born within the last year, on the Rural Delivery Route No. 1 out of Benton, are three lively pairs of twins.

The eldest are those of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Ash; two handsome, healthy boys; the second pair are a fine boy and girl of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Shultz, born in February, with every promise of reaching manhood's and womanhood's estate; the third pair are those of Mr. and Mrs. George Koefor, two pretty girls, who were born last Saturday.

EXPLOSION KILLS MORE THAN SCORE

LOWELL, Mass., July 29.—An explosion destroyed the magazine of the United States Cartridge Company, located in Tuxbury, today, caused the death of probably twenty-five persons and injury to a number of buildings in the vicinity and caused a general wreck of houses within a radius of half a mile.

The concussion was felt in Boston, forty miles away, and at Exeter, New Hampshire, which is a greater distance from Lowell. At many points a score of miles distant, window glass was shattered and other damage done. The city was thrown into a panic and it became necessary to summon four companies of state militia. Alarming reports to the effect that over 100 persons had been killed and injured caused wide spread confusion.

The explosion is thought to have been caused by the jarring of dynamite in the magazine by workmen who were laying a new floor. The dynamite set off the powder stored in one chamber and that explosion was followed by another in the second chamber.

The plant of the United States Cartridge Company is located in a district known as Riverside Park, in Tuxbury, just outside of Lowell. The building in which the explosion occurred was a stone structure about one and one-half miles distant from the works of the cartridge company. Within a distance of fifty yards are located half a dozen houses.

Within a hundred yards there are twenty houses more, and beyond that the buildings are very close together. The structures within a quarter of a mile were torn within and without. Men, women and children who were inside of the houses sustained cuts, bruises and broken bones, if they escaped with their lives.

Men who lived in streets not far away who were fortunate enough to escape serious injuries, immediately gave themselves over to the work of removing men and children to places of safety for almost simultaneous with the explosion came flashes from several buildings. Into the flames and debris scores of men were seen plunging in efforts to save life and property.

The wreck was so complete, however, that the work was harrowingly slow. The patrol wagons of the police and the teams of all descriptions were brought into use to supplement the hospital ambulances. It was nearly noon before anything like an accurate estimate of the number killed could be obtained. Previous reports had said that the dead would number 75 but a canvass of the hospitals and inquiry at the police station resulted in a conservative estimate of 25 killed and 55 injured.

Sixteen victims most seriously hurt were taken to St. John's Hospital, where at noon it was said that four would die and that as many more were desperately hurt.

The crowds increased momentarily, and it seemed as if all Lowell had suspended business and was at the scene of the catastrophe.

DEAFNESS NOT BE CURED
by local application as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by one of the earliest remedies. Deafness is caused by an unusual condition of the membrane of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or a perfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the tube is restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Sent by mail, enclosed in free trial package. Sold by Druggists, 73c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

The thirty-first Annual Session of the Pennsylvania State Grange will be held in the city of Wilkesbarre, on December 8th to 11th, 1903. This program to be one of the largest and best State Grange meetings ever held. Railroad and hotel arrangements are already well under way.

Rain Soaked Picnickers.
The Sunday School of Shiloh Reformed church held its annual picnic at DeWitt's Park yesterday. The occasion proved a most enjoyable one until evening when the heavy shower proved quite a dampener.

The large pavilion enabled the picnickers all to get under roof, but the dashing rain swept through the structure so that there were comparatively few who did not get more or less wet while a good many received a thorough ducking.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.
Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their duty. Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble. Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries. It is used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble. If you are as you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty cent and one-dollar size bottles. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Don't make no mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Consigned to a Soldier's Grave.

The remains of Joseph Henry Hale, whose death occurred on Saturday last were consigned to a soldier's grave in the G. A. R. plot, Old Fellows' cemetery, Tuesday forenoon. The services were held in Trinity M. E. church and conducted by the pastor, Rev. N. E. Cleaver. There was a fair representation of Goodrich Post present attending in a body. The pall bearers, who were chosen from among the members of the Post, were: Levi Miller, Captain George Lavett, Jacob Rockmiller, George W. Jackson, Robert Paugh and Thomas Jones.

The services were quite largely attended. Every effort, to locate Jeremiah Hale, brother of the deceased, however, proved unavailing and he was not at the funeral. Jeremiah was in this city about a year ago. Upon leaving he went South and when last heard from he was in Alabama.

A Word on the Subject of 1000 Mile Tickets.
"O all inventions the Alphabet and the Printing Press alone excepted, those inventions which abridge distance have done the most for civilization."—Macaulay.

The Reading Railway interchangeable mileage ticket would no doubt be classed by the writer of the above as one of the greatest of THOSE INVENTIONS. It can be bought for $20.00 at all principal ticket offices of the Reading system, are good for anybody to use, for himself, family, neighbors, friends or whoever he cares to take along, and will be honored for one year from date on lines of the Reading system, Central R. R. of New Jersey, New York Central, West Shore & Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg Roads. They are of course good, through to New York from Philadelphia, where the Reading operates hourly fast express service, leaving each terminal on the hour, another very important invention to abridge distance which does away with the annoyance the average traveler usually feels towards time tables.

National Encampment, Grand Army of the Republic. San Francisco, Cal., August 17th to 22nd, 1903.

Final return limit will be up to and including October 15th. Stopovers on going trip will be allowed at any point or points, in and west of Colorado, Wyoming, Texas and Montana. For time of trains and further information, see small flyers at all Philadelphia and Reading ticket offices.

Boston has started to prosecute soda fountain owners who have fountains to be unclean, rusty or the copper interiors covered with verdigris, and also the one who use impure chemicals or flavors. Numerous cases of typhoid pneumonia and inflammations have been traced directly to these cheap, impure sodas and ill kept fountains. Many temporary places at beaches, parks and other resorts are using second hand fountains which have never been cleaned and use the goods which offer the greatest profit.

A good story is being told about a Bloomsburg young man who holds a humble position in a printing office. The young man is very fond of the daughter of a minister, but his devotion to her is comparatively new. The other Sunday he went to church to hear the father of his inamorata preach, and unfortunately, sat down where everybody could see him. The text was "My Daughter is Grievously Tormented by a Devil."

Twenty-five years ago Mrs. George Storck, of Tamaqua, and sister, Miss Annie Kimble, landed in New York from Germany. They lost trace of each other and all that time neither knew the other's whereabouts. Monday they met at Tamaqua for the first time since their separation.

Oppressive Heat.
A close, warm atmosphere with plenty of humidity made it seem exceedingly warm for awhile yesterday. The thermometer, however, did not go above 85 degrees, which was the mark attained at 3 p. m. At 5:20 a. m. it registered at 61. At noon it was only 82 degrees.

Little Sickness.
There is little sickness in town at present and the doctors are enjoying a breathing spell. The same conditions have prevailed since spring and physicians state they can not recall a season when the public health was better. All of which attests to good sanitary conditions and the healthfulness of the season.

R-I-P-A-N-S Tablets.
Doctors find A good prescription For mankind.
The seven tablets is enough for usual occasions. The family bottle (90 cents) contains a supply for a year. All druggists sell them.

Plenty to Talk About.

High up on the side of Cumberland mountain a traveler found a cabin in such a lonely place that he wondered how the old mountaineer and his wife subsisted each other. "Do you and your wife see any people here?" "Scarcely ever see anybody, sub." "Then you have to depend entirely upon yourselves for society?" "That's it, sub."

"And what do you find to talk about?" the visitor continued, having noticed that neither was inclined to conversation. "What do we find, Martha?" he appealed to her. "Heaps, I reckon," she said. "When breakfast is ready in the morning I says to you to set down to co'n coffee and hokeake?"

"When it's noon and you are hanging about I says that hokeake and co'n coffee is ready." "Yes." "And when it's candlelight I sort of jukes my head, and you litches up to scorghum and hokeake and wants to know why we don't have bacon. Ain't that talk enough, stranger?" "But there are the evenings," said the traveler.

"Yes, that's the evenings, of co'se, and I says reckon it will be a fine day tomorrow, and Deb he reckons the same thing, and we wind up the clock and go to bed. Oh, I don't reckon we are suffering to die for the want of somebody to gab to."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Case For Thanks.
When Colonel "Joe" Rickey was quite a young man he had occasion to employ a lawyer to look after a business man with whom he had had a quarrel. The lawyer had never before retained counsel he went to the lawyer his father had always employed and placed the claim in his hands. The lawyer collected the amount, $275, and notified young Rickey to call for his money. He was expecting one thing, and after waiting for some time, was shown into the private office.

"Good morning, Joseph," said the lawyer. "I'm glad to see you are so prompt in attending to business. I have your money for you." "Then could you give me a general conversation for a few minutes, in which the lawyer said among other things: "Joseph, I knew your father well and for many years, and I knew your grandfather well and for almost as many years. Trust more than I can tell."

"Yes, sir," replied Rickey, "but as I am in a hurry, sir, I would like to get my money and go."

"All right, Joseph. I will charge you even money. I will take $200 for my fee, and give you the $75," said the lawyer, who then handed the money over. "Very well, sir," said Rickey, "and I am thankful you did not know my great-grandfather too."

The Gentleman.
The gentleman is a man of truth, lord of his own nature and expressing that lordship in his behavior, not in any manner dependent and servile either on persons or opinions or possessions. Beyond this fact of truth and real force the word denotes good nature and benevolence, manhood first and then gentleness. Emerson.

He Gave His Address.
Harry Furness told a good story of a distinguished but irritable Scotch lecturer. The gentleman had occasion to speak in a small town in one of the lowland counties, and he chanced that he was usually in luck, and in fact, the Scotch chairman. This genius actually spoke for a whole hour in "introductory" the lecturer. He wound up by saying, "It is unnecessary for me to say more, but call upon the talented gentlemen who will come so far to give us their address tonight."

The lecturer came forward. "You must my address? I'll give it to you; 322 Rob Roy Crescent, Edinburgh, and I'm just off there now. Good night!"

TOM JONES, COWBOY

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McBurne.

Tom Jones was a real Montana cowboy, the genuine stuff. By that I meant that he was no consumptive son who had been sent out from Boston to study of Yale or Harvard who was picking up $50 a month to help him speak through college. He was born to the business, knew all the ins and outs, and no one could beat him at turning a stampeding herd or throwing the lasso. It was said by all sides that there was only one thing out of kilter with Tom Jones—he had aspirations. If he had aspired to keep three guns shooting at once or to hold four news in every other hand of poker, he might have had the sympathy of his fellow workers, but his aspirations took a different line.

Tom Jones had read no less than six different accounts of eastern heroines coming out west on a visit and falling in love with and marrying cowboys. He was expecting one of these heroines to come along, and he was not a little disappointed when he met her in the end of the week and was always prepared to carry out his part of the contract.

Even an actress may come to him who waits, and in due time, when her engagements permitted, Miss Griscomb, from New York, paid a visit to relatives at Taylor's ranch. Tom had heard of her beauty and what a pile of money her old dad had in the bank within twenty-four hours after her arrival. He was anxious to try to bring in the heroes and start things going. He got out his Sunday fags and greased his hair as a beginning.

Nor was the labor thrown away. He had hardly set forth on a hunt for stray steers when far across the plains he saw the object of his aspirations. The broncho on whose back she was seated had stopped to graze in the woods, and Tom, seeing that he could hear her terror stricken shouts from the rider. It was all imagination, however. When he had reached her side after a furious burst of speed and begged the privilege of saving her life, she quietly replied:

"Please don't interfere. I rather enjoy the change."

Tom Jones was nonplused, but he waited. In the course of two or three days Dutch Pete, looking loose on one of his quarterly jaunts, Dutch Pete kept the doggery at Dead Man's Corners, and when he started out to clean up the state he kept his two guns red hot. Tom figured that it would be on the bills for Pete to hear Miss Griscomb away into the mountains, and he hovered along the Fort Wingate road as her protecting angel. His figures turned out to be way off. Miss Griscomb and Dutch Pete met one morning at the crossing of Lame Wolf creek, and when the cowboy came up the horse had his hands raised, and the girl had a gun on line with his eye. She thanked Mr. Jones very kindly for the interest he exhibited, but she really couldn't think of putting him to any particular trouble.

Then Tom Jones prayed for a cloud-burst. Lame Wolf creek had his rise up in the mountains. At 9 o'clock of a summer morning it might be a mere rivulet crossing the stage road. An hour later a flood wave six feet high might be booming down as the result of a cloud-burst among the peaks. The burst came as prayed for. Miss Griscomb was on the west side of the creek when caught by the flood, and all escape seemed cut off when the cowboy came tearing around Bull bend to rescue her. Three minutes later the girl was rescuing him. His broncho got tangled up with a mass of driftwood and was drowned, and poor Tom had to grab the tail of the girl's horse and take a tow to the bank.

"You had better so home and change your clothes, and I hope you will be more careful in future," was all the thanks he got as the heiress rode away and left him to hang himself up to dry.

Tom Jones felt that he had made a failure of it this far, but he hoped for a stampede to change things. In one of the stables he had read a cowboy had saved an heiress from a stampede and won her undying love in ten minutes. There were 5,000 steers covering the plain between Taylor's ranch and Lame Wolf creek. If they would only get a move on them at the right time, he would be there to do the hero's part. The steers were cheerfully willing. One morning soon after the heiress had passed down the road they lowered their heads, threw up their tails and stampeded. The movie was not expected of by the cowboy, but to great good. It seems the easiest thing in the world for a hero to cut across the front of a stampeding herd of steers and snatch an heiress from her saddle and bear her away to safety and with her eternal gratitude. But Tom Jones didn't find it so in practice. As a matter of fact, he was pulled in the dirt and washed.

ON ROTARY LINES.

It is of interest to note that nearly all the improvements made in farm machinery have been along rotary lines. There is the revolving cylinder of the threshing machine, the whirling disk of the cream separator, the circular saw, the rotary disk in place of the drag, the rolling cylinder, the disk plow, the windmill, the lay leader, the corn sheller, the corn sheller, the forage cutter, the motive power for harvesters and mowers applied in a rotary way. The application of this rotary principle has revolutionized the printing business, underlies all land and water transportation methods and seems to be in perfect harmony with the great natural law of rotation which regulates the motion of the earth and planetary system, the movement of storms and the recurrence of the seasons.

DIETETIC AND WESTERN PLACES.
The wettest place in the United States, the locality where falls the most rain, as shown by the weather bureau reports, is Clifton, Ore., where the average rainfall for ten years has been 135.84 inches, while the driest place, the locality where the rainfall is least, is the weather bureau station at Newman Tank, in California, where for twelve years the rainfall has been only 1.223 inches per annum. Other stations in the state of Washington report over 100 inches of rainfall per year, while all through the desert regions of California and Nevada the annual precipitation is less than four inches. The sections of the country where the great crops are produced show up with from twenty-five to fifty inches of rainfall.

Asia's Pendulum Lake.
Among the most interesting discoveries of Dr. Sven Hedin in central Asia is a singular oscillation in the position of the lake of Karakorum, or Lopnor. This lake seems as restless as some rivers that change their beds, but the cause of its movements is a secular change in the level of the desert, in the midst of which it lies, bordered by vegetation. At present the lake is retreating northward and the crevice which Prjevalsky found it and flowing toward its ancient bed, where it is known to have lain in the third century of the Christian era, and as it slowly moves the vegetation, the animals and the fishermen with their reed boats follow its shores northward. Dr. Hedin believes that after reaching the northern part of the desert the lake returns southward, the period of oscillation being 1,000 years or more.

How Water Freezes.
It used to puzzle all thinking people why ponds and rivers do not freeze below a certain depth. This depends on a most curious fact—namely, that water is at its heaviest when it reaches 40 degrees F.—that is, 8 degrees above freezing point. On a frosty night as each top layer of water falls to 40 degrees it sinks to the bottom; therefore the whole pond has to drop to 40 degrees before any of it can freeze. At last it is all cooled to this point, and then ice begins to form. But ice is a very bad conductor of heat; therefore it shuts off the freezing air from the body of comparatively warm water underneath. The thicker it gets the more perfectly does it act as a great coat, and that is why even the Arctic ocean never freezes beyond a few feet in thickness.—Marine Journal.
