he was discharged and returned to Pleasantville, and in 1864 and 1865 held the office of justice of the peace in that place. He was treasurer of Venango county in 1868 and 1869 Later he was deputy internal revenue collector at Oil City and connected with the editing and publishing of a newspaper at that place. Afterwards he engaged in business and read law, and in 1875 was admitted to the bar. He practiced his profession at Pleasantville until 1879. when he removed to Smethport, where he was engaged in a successful prac tice until September, 1887, when he was appointed by Governor Beaver judge of the 48th district, composed of McKean and Potter counties. In Noember of the same year he was elected to the same judicial office for 10 years. So satisfactory was his all right. term of service that in 1897 he was accorded unanimous nomination by his party in both counties, and in Novem ber following was re-elected for an other term of ten years.

During Judge Morrison's second term Mc Kean county was made a sep-arate judicial district, and on Septem-1901, he was commissioned president judge of the 48th district composed of the county of McKean The judge served on the bench until December, 1902, when he was appoint od judge of the superior court by Governor Stone to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Judge John I. Mitchell. On December 30, 1902, he was commissioned as a judge of the superior court until the first Menday of January, 1904.

Judge Morrison is now one of the nominees of the Republican party for judge of the superior court for the full term of ten years from the last mentioned date.

During the 15 years of his service on the common pleas bench he establish ed a reputation for prompt, efficient and fearless discharge of duty. He enjoys the distinction of never having been compelled to adjourn court for a single day on account of sickness during nearly 16 years of service. He has never missed a session of the superior court since his appointment.

Judge Morrison has been an earnest Republican from his boyhood days, and never neglected voting for a Re publican candidate for president, nor for a governor or any other important candidate of his party except in the fall of 1862, while he was at the front. While the judge has not been an active partisan since he went upon the bench, yet he has been well known as an earnest supporter of the principles and policies of the Republican party.
