THEIR BLUFF CALLED.

Republicans Are Eager to Meet the Democrats On State Issues.

State Finances Never in Better Condition and Every Department of the State Government is Managed With Signal Ability and Economy.

Special Correspondence.

Harrisburg, Sept. 29.—The Republican managers have called the bluff of the Democrats in the present campaign.

The Democratic state platform was built entirely upon what were termed "state issues."

Never in the history of the Democracy have their leaders been so much at sea as they are today.

They are floundering about afraid to attempt to land anywhere, and they see the young men of the country just on the verge of slipping into the hands of the Democrats.

With the presidential campaign to be waged next year, the "first voters" naturally have their minds directed to the fundamental principles of government.

While believing that the campaign this fall is actually a preliminary skirmish of the national contest next year, and that the returns of the election in November will have a positive influence in shaping the lines for the presidential struggle, the Republican campaign managers in Pennsylvania have expressed themselves as ready and eager to meet the Democrats at their own game.

Let State Issues Be Discussed.

PARTY MEN ACTIVE.

State Chairman Penrose Receives Many Cheering Reports.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS AROUSED.

They Are Lining Up Throughout Pennsylvania For Roosevelt and Determined to Pull a Great Vote in November.

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—During the last 24 hours Senator Penrose, as chairman of the Republican state committee, has been getting in touch with the situation in the state and he is very much gratified with what he has learned regarding the condition of the party organization and popular sentiment in the several counties.

Senator Penrose is entering into the spirit of the campaign with a view to preparing for the presidential election of next year.

They are all for Roosevelt, and they want it known that they are going to see to it that he receives the nomination to succeed himself in the White House.

After reaffirming their fealty and devotion to the principles of Republicanism, as set forth in the state and national platforms of the party and endorsing the state candidates, the clubmen declared:

"We give our most cordial indorsement to the splendid administration of President Theodore Roosevelt, who so fully exemplifies and reflects our ideal of American citizenship in both private and public life, and we commend his courageous, sound and patriotic administration. We congratulate him on the success he has already attained both at home and in his foreign policy, and pledge him our earnest support in his future labors in behalf of our great country."

"We also congratulate the people of Pennsylvania upon the safe and conservative administration of our state affairs, Governor Pennypacker having already proved himself a prudent, firm and conscientious executive."

"Believing in organization, we pledge ourselves to the service of our party and our country in the battle of 1904 for the maintenance of protection to American labor, a sound financial policy and the development of American influence for commerce and civilization."

That is where the Young Republicans of Pennsylvania stand in this contest.

Many members of the State League are farmers or business or professional men, who take but an occasional interest in politics, but that they are all now aroused to the importance of the campaign cannot be questioned.

The sentiments of the Republicans of Northampton were eloquently expressed a few days ago by their county convention, which among other things set forth:

"The general prosperity of the country, which has been realized from the Republican tariff laws based upon the cardinal principle of protection, must not be disturbed by vicious tariff tinkering, which is threatened by the Democratic party in its usual disposition to lead the country into the channels of free trade and commercial depression."

"That the administration of President Roosevelt, in its true Americanism, its great achievements, its advanced patriotism, is worthy of our highest admiration, and we earnestly desire its continuance."

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to find the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medicinal triumph of the nineteenth century, discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid, rheumatism, and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for anything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless poor, that it has proved to be successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

The regular fifty cent Home of Swamp-Root dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

Don't make no mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THEATRICAL.

The newest and surpassing melodrama that has been creating a perfect furor this season wherever presented, will be seen in this city at the Opera House tonight.

Mr. Charles Townsend, the noted dramatist, has woven together one of the most interesting and delightful pure stories of noteworthy scenes and incidents, before, during and after the great flood of 1889.

The play is a decided departure from anything that has ever been presented in this city. The story is consistently told, the comedy is irresistible, the pathos and sentiment blend well together, and a vein of strong, sensational and dramatic action is brought to the surface, that holds the auditor until the fall of the curtain.

The scenery and electrical effects, which are carried, complete, as magnificent, and the mechanical effects, particularly the great flood scene, is a perfect revelation in stage mechanism.

A large, capable company of players interpret the characters.

When a new production can achieve a continuous run outside of the metropolis it must possess more than ordinary merit.

Yet that is precisely what Willard Spenser's new comedy opera, "Miss Bob White" did in Philadelphia.

More than that: its run carried it far into the torrid spell and the audience at the closing performance was fully as large as at the opening. It is not at all improbable that it could have still been running smoothly along in the city of Brotherly Love if it had not been made.

"Miss Bob White" will be seen in this city at the Opera House on Saturday night and the same elaborate production that tickled the theatrical palates in Philadelphia will be on view during its local engagement.

No attempt at curtailment in any particular will be made. The gorgeously picturesque scenery, the beautiful kaleidoscopic dresses, the brilliant, sparkling electric and calcium effects, all will be seen here just the same as if "Miss Bob White" was to remain among us indefinitely.

That Mr. Spenser's melodious musical score will receive just treatment enough cannot be doubted as Messrs. Nixon & Zimmerman with their accustomed liberal management have supplied the most important component parts of an orchestra which they carry with the company.

The entire band will be directed by Clarence Rogers, the well known musical director. The cast will be up to the standard of the other departments and will include among others Dorothy Hunting, Alice Dovey, Edith Blair, Marion Granger, Ethel Dovey, Anna McNabb, Mae Houston, Lillian Randolph, Neil McNeill, Frank Deshon, Nick Burnham, Bob Broderick, G. Harry Wilson, Lester Brown, Donald Archer and Jim McClure and a chorus of 60.

The story of "Miss Bob White" revolves around an election bet made by two young millionaires and the loss of which compels them to masquerade as tramps for two months and to earn their own living during that time by their wits.

MOYER BROS. DEAR SIR—

I think that every man that has a team of horses or any stock, ought to have a bottle of Moyer's White Liniment in the stable or his house.

I had a horse that stepped in a hole with his front foot, coming down the mountain with a trail of props, and fell forward and strained his shoulder blade.

That it swelled so fast that we could hardly get the collar off, and in two hours his neck was swollen to all the skin would hold. We used your White Liniment freely, and in a few days he was to work again, and does not show any signs of lameness. It worked like magic.

Respectfully Yours, J. A. BARTHAUS.

The Lake Superior Company's employees had a right to expect that wages honestly earned would be paid and to throw them out of employment without food or shelter was an inexcusable and inhuman act.

Responsibility for the rioting at the Soo rests upon the officials of the insolvent company who works ago saw that the crisis was inevitable yet made no provision to pay off the men.

Chims for wages being a first lien on all the property, the stockholders interests would have been best served by satisfying the workmen and avoiding destruction of property which was bound to ensue when the infuriated mob was let loose.

THE ELDEST BOY WILL LEAD THE WAY.

DANNEMORA, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Warden Duyo displayed his sympathy for the distracted foster mother of the condemned Van Wormer boys in a most practical manner, even though he could not grant her request for a final interview.

This denial she very reasonably conceded to be for the best, and her greatest distress appeared to be in the fact of her inability to convey the bodies to her home town of Kinderhook for burial.

She pitifully appealed to Warden Duyo to know if there were not some fund from which the State could meet the expenses. He assured her that there was none, but promptly added that he thought the matter could be arranged.

He thereupon produced his purse and handed her a generous contribution to which Rev. Father Belanger promptly added. They will undoubtedly see that the remains will be shipped to the bereaved mother's home.

Mrs. Van Wormer was anxious to know what kind of caskets would be provided and Warden Duyo told her that they would be the best the prison could afford, as there is no undertaking establishment here.

"Oh, I am so grateful to you for what you have done for me," the mother sobbed, "and I thank you from the bottom of my heart. I haven't much more to live for now and I do so want them to have a Christian burial."

The preparations for the electrocution are progressing in a satisfactory way. Each of them naturally wishes to be the first to meet death in the chair.

Burton, the second in age, has declared his willingness to submit to any arrangement which the other two may make. No definite arrangement as to who shall make the fatal march first has been made.

Present indications seem to point to Willis, the oldest, as the weakest in heart and nerve.

He alone has made no expression as to his preference in his future fate.

Fred, the youngest, has repeatedly said that he would rather go to the chair than end his life in prison.

Burton has emphatically declared his preference for the life term.

Since their conversion to the Roman Catholic faith Father Belanger has been with them a great deal of the time and in his ministry the boys have found the greatest comfort.

Their professions are sincere, Father Belanger, Warden Duyo and all who have listened to their interviews with the priests are convinced. He will attend them to the last moment and at their own request will administer their first and last communion during the morning hours before the execution.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Mrs. Estella Van Wormer, stepmother of the Van Wormer boys, returned from her fruitless visit to Dannemora at 3 o'clock this morning and went to the home of one of her nieces, who accompanied her to the prison.

She was completely worn out by her long journey and will remain here until after the day of the execution.

It was learned here today that Mrs. Van Wormer made a second appeal to Governor Odell Monday night through the kindness of a friend.

The friend, a woman, went to the Executive Mansion to plead for an interview, but the governor had gone to New York. She was to ask the governor to stay the execution of the boys for a rather peculiar reason.

Mrs. Van Wormer says that there is a possibility of the remains of Mrs. Hallenbeck, widow of Peter Hallenbeck, the murdered man, being exhumed and the contents of her stomach examined.

Just what she hopes to have proven by this is not known and has no bearing on the case of the boys, as the widow's death occurred after the boys had been tried, but in her desperation Mrs. Van Wormer thought it might be an excuse for another stay.

It is probable that additional funds will be raised here to help in defraying the expenses of shipping the bodies to Kinderhook.
