SQUIRRELS VERY PLENTIFUL

It is a familiar sight nowadays to see our townsmen who cherish a love for sport in little groups of four or six with gun on shoulder and followed by their dogs trudging their way into the country in quest of squirrels, quail and other game in season.

Squirrels are found to be plentiful and the hunter is a poor marksman indeed, who cannot bring down enough to make a respectable showing in his game bag. The little animals are found in good order also, which is hard to account for, as hickory nuts, acorns and chestnuts, food that squirrels thrive on, are found to be exceedingly scarce.

Quail are also quite plentiful and a good many are shot. Pheasants, which, have been growing scarcer and scarcer with each succeeding year of late are this year run across only at very long intervals and none so far as heard have as yet been bagged by local hunt-

Those who have been out seem not prepared to say what the outlook is have as vet been shot.

Rabbits are very numerous. Whethone or more cottontail in every field ness in his back and they gave him little to fear from hunters who respect the law, as he is not in season until

As To Hallowe'en.

The annual queries are being received as to the date of Hallowe'en and as usual some of the applicants for information are very insistent that the ancient festival comes on the thirtieth day of the present month, but if these people will think just a minute they will see that such a thing is impossible. All Hallows, or Hallow'en, is the vigil of All Saints' day, which is a fixed religious festival that falls upon the first day of November and is observed with special services in all of the Catholic churches in the world and that being the case it is impossible that Hallow'en should come on the thirtieth of October, though for convenience sake, if it falls upon Sunday, it is observed on Saturday or

Steward Straub Dead.

Steward Straub, formerly of Frosty Valley, who was operated upon for appendicitis, Thursday afternoon, died at his home on the Pursel farm, near Bloomsburg Friday night at eleven o'clock. His condition became much worse Friday morning and the physicians then considered his condition extremely grave. He was conscious antil within an hour before he died. The young man was first stricken with the disease about a month ago, but he recovered from that attack only to have a second attack while he was at tending the Lutheran church at Bloomsburg last Sunday evening. Upon his arrival home his condition was found to be so critical that it was deemed best that he undergo an opera-

He is survived by his parents and three brothers and three sisters: Harry H., George E., and Will E., and Belle, Mary and Lillian.

The third High school game of the season takes place between Danville and Berwick at Athletic Park on Saturday. Danville has a strong team, and as Berwick this year has also a strong one, there will be a hard strug gle. Like the Rangers, the High school virtually outplayed Plymouth on Saturday, but the conditions of the field made the issue only a matter of luck This Saturday it is hoped for a good day, and if so an interesting and bril liant game is expected. -Berwick Enterprise.

ANNIVERSARY

CELEBRATION

The committee having in charge the matter of celebrating the muster-out of the members of the Twelfth regiment, P. V. I., at a meeting held at City Treasurer Taylor's office, made further arrangements for the observance of the celebration. The affair 12.44 P. M. will be held here on Oct. 29, and special rates have been secured on all the railroads centering in Williamsport. Towns in which the different companies of the regiment were located have taken up the matter, and very encouraging reports have been receiv ed by the local committee. Word from Milton is to the effect that between thirty and fifty former members of the regiment that was on 6.04 P. M. the field during the Spanish-American war will be here, and at Danville a meeting was held several days ago and a goodly number will be present from that town and surrounding places. Sunbury will come up with a large its share toward making the first celebration a great success. Thus far nothing has been heard from Lewisburg, and it may be that the wedding of Miss Bucher, of Lewisburg, on the same day of the anniversary celebration will have some effect on the at tendance from Lewisburg, but it is understood that a number of the men of Co. A will be sure to be on hand .-Williamsport Sun.

The boys and girls seem to have aleady entered upon their hallow e'en pranks, although the first day of November is over a week distant.

There is already much complaint about town caused by the frolicsome idea of what is appropriate at the season of Hallow e'en. They keep up an ncessant ringing of door bells, which day time as at night. They seem plentifully supplied with chalk and the hieroglyphics they inscribe are seen everywhere often disfiguring newly ainted buildings.
