MRS. KREBS IS STILL LIVING

Condition Unchanged May Mean Hopes for Recovery.

The condition of Mrs. Krebs, at the hospital, remains unchanged and she is making a game struggle in her battle for life.

Her condition remaining unchanged may mean some hope for her recovery unless serious complications should develop when the end would be but a matter of hours or perhaps minutes.

Hite is still in his cell at the Northumberland county prison and claims that he is in no condition to be taken to Northumberland, to have his hearing before Justice of the Peace Fertig.

If the attending physicians say that Hite is too sick to be taken to Northumberland Justice Fertig will either continue the hearing or may decide to summon the witnesses in the case and have the hearing at the jail.

While the physicians stated Wednesday afternoon that Hite was a sick man they would not say that they thought him too ill to be taken to Northumberland. Before the time arrives to go it will then be decided whether he is able to go through the ordeal at the justice's office.

Hite had a number of callers at the jail Wednesday, and to some he seemed free to talk about everything except his crime while to others he was somewhat indifferent.

There is a different story current in Bloomsburg, where Hite regularly visited, from that usually accepted in regard to Hite's alleged infatuation for Mrs. Krebs.

From all the circumstances now learned of the case Hite was evidently telling his supposed confiding friend a falsehood.

The same gentleman remarked that he has noticed that Hite was not himself for the last month and the train of events that have occurred in Bloomsburg well substantiate the story that during the last few weeks his career has been a fast one.

AN ACTION IN TRESPASS

Mr. Knight said that Mr. Westfall, Superintendent of that division of the Pennsylvania railroad, was informed of the action of the Borough in fixing a limit for speed and said that the Superintendent had replied, acknowledging the receipt of the communication and stating that it would be impossible for the railroad company to reduce the speed of their trains in passing through Watsonstown and yet make their connections, but that they would exercise all care possible and if anything happened they would stand by the consequences.

The letter itself is lost. At the expiration of his term of office Burgess Knight handed the letter along with other borough documents over to his successor, who is now deceased.

The remainder of the day was spent in argument, Mr. Hincley being opposed by E. S. Gearhart and James Scarlet. Each of the addresses were penetrating and exhaustive efforts being listened to with interest and deep attention by a large audience.

The action in trespass before court in which Mrs. Sarah C. Cromley is plaintiff came abruptly to a close yesterday morning when Judge R. R. Little ordered a compulsory nonsuit.

The case had been very ably argued on Tuesday, Mr. Hincley, the mover, arguing that the plaintiff's case had developed such contributory negligence as would prevent recovery, while E. S. Gearhart and James Scarlet argued against the non-suit.

Nearly the entire day was thus consumed. Judge Little upon adjournment Tuesday evening stated that he would hold the matter under advisement and announce his decision the next morning.

The case had created a vast amount of interest, and was one of the most important civil actions which has been tried in this county in many years.

Among the large number of witnesses subpoenaed were some twenty from Watsonstown and vicinity. They are expected to remain for some days.

The above company will appear at the opera house on Saturday afternoon and evening. This company, while coming to us for the first time, is strongly recommended by the press throughout the territory made by this organization.

DARING BURGLAR ESCAPED FROM JAIL

Climbed Out Through an Opening Only Six by Eighteen Inches.

LANCASTER, Pa., Nov. 11.—James Wilson, colored, escaped from an iron clad cell in the county jail last night. He removed the iron frame of his cell window, and one of a row of spikes on the outer side and an iron ventilator. This gave him an opening of not over six by eighteen inches.

He is a desperate burglar and was recently captured in a cave near Chiko's Rock, where he had a large amount of plunder.

He was awaiting trial at the next term of court.

The remarkable adaptability of the Young Men's Christian Association educational work is illustrated by the readiness with which new courses are furnished in special subjects as these are demanded by the public.

Another way in which the Association is attempting to adapt itself to certain large groups of men who could not well be brought within the classes, is by giving series of lectures and practical talks on topics which are more or less educational in their nature.

The classes at Dayton, Ohio, recently opened under the most auspicious circumstances, the building being packed from top to bottom with young men eager to pay their fees and be enrolled in the classes and fearful that these would be filled up before their applications would be made.

First—That true vaccination repeated until it no longer takes, always prevents smallpox. Nothing else does. If you do not wish to have smallpox get vaccinated.

Second—That pure vaccination—that is, vaccination done on a clean arm and with pure lymph and kept perfectly clean and unbroken afterwards—never did and never will make a serious sore.

Third—True vaccination leaves a scar different from any other scar. This scar is easily recognized and is the only conclusive evidence of a successful vaccination.

Fourth—No bad results ever follow a true vaccination.

Fifth—Smallpox is now possible only because people neglect vaccination. If all were successfully vaccinated in infancy, and again at fifteen years of age, smallpox would soon die out.

HORSE KICKS LAD IN HEAD

Rendered Unconscious Roy Carr, of Near Jerseytown, is Kematized After Great Effort.

Kicked on the side of the head by a horse which he was leading to water, Roy Carr, the thirteen-year-old son of Henry James Carr, residing on the Horse Supply farm near Jerseytown, lay in an unconscious condition for several hours.

Raymond Carr, the younger brother of the young man, who was with him at the time, ran into the house and notified the family.

When her head went down and she began to sob he slipped away. In his early days there had been a little girl. When she died that door of his life was softly closed.

R-I-P-A-N-S Tablets. Doctors find A good prescription For mankind.

When the doctor pushed back his breakfast with some irritation, Mrs. Byers' voice sounded as if it had been sharpened on the grindstone.

It's not that I want you to marry; it's that you've not had an opportunity to do so. All the girls goin' like hot cakes and you're hardly speakin' acquaintance with a man.

WHEN THE BUD UNFOLDED

By SARA LINDSAY COLEMAN

The doctor pushed back his breakfast with some irritation, Mrs. Byers' voice sounded as if it had been sharpened on the grindstone.

"The little girl who lives," said the doctor mournfully.

"You're an incomprehensible young person," sighed the doctor.

"Circulars advertising a cheap railway excursion."

"Would you, since you're so old—since you're going away tomorrow—oh, I don't know how I dare! I'll never take advantage. She's putting nothing against thirty, and it's awfully uncomfortable. I'll cross my heart to say 'No.' Will you—will you?"

When she looked at him, she saw that he was not looking at her, but at the picture on the wall.

At 4 o'clock Mrs. Byers went to a missionary meeting; at 5 o'clock the doctor, with his arms filled with flowers and candy boxes, passed by her very excited "help" and into the Byers hall.

The doctor handed her to the high seat of the cart, climbed up beside her, the groom stepped back from the horses' heads, and they swept down the long white road.

As they climbed the hill to Weaver-town an enormous blood red moon wavered on Craggy's violet crest and stared them.

"Don't," said the girl unsteadily. "It's a dear moon, I know. It makes old gentlemen and young ladies a bit mad."

When the doctor slipped into his old quarters quietly, half unconsciously he awaited Jane. Presently he saw her under a blooming cherry tree. A broad shouldered youth, not the kind a girl jumps away from, was with her.
