Notwithstanding that turkeys are scarce and high in price the unfortunate inmates at the Hospital for the Insane as usual on Thanksgiving will have a turkey dinner today. There was extraordinary activity about the kitchens at the institution yesterday while preparing for the Thanksgiving feast. Nothing will be omitted from the patients' menu that goes with a well regulated Thanksgiving dinner.

It required just one hundred and ten turkeys to feed the big household. These were purchased from John C. Cooper, near Washingtonville. Th turkeys in the aggregate weighed 1400 pounds. In addition to the turkeys three hundred and fifty mince pies are required for the big dinner.
