NATIONAL GUARD CAMP AT ST. LOUIS

Next summer's encampment of the entire division of the National Guard of Pennsylvania will, in all probability be held at St. Louis in connection with the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Plans are now being considered by the officers commanding the division looking towards that end, and it will certainly be pleasing news to the members of the Twelfth Regiment to know that there is a chance for them to camp at St. Louis, and at the same time have an opportunity of visiting the great fair. The National Guardsman, the official organ of the National Guard Association of the United States, in its last issue stated that these arrangements were under way, and that in all probability they would be eminently successful. The proposition is to have the Pennsylvania division, comprising as it does nearly 10,000 men, and a brigade or division of the regular army camp there at the same time and go through a series of maneuvers. These maneuvers would be on a larger scale than any yet attempted by the combined troops of the reserve and the regular forces, and the chances are that the camp would last for at least four or five days. Managers of the exposition have communicated with Governor Pennypacker, Major General Charles Miller and Brigadier General John A. Wiley, in connection with the proposition and have offered camp sites and special railroad rates and accommodation inducements and that the State government is taking an interest in the matter is borne on by the fact that Col. Dougherty, of the Ninth, on his return from the maneuvers at Fort Riley, Kan., stopped off at St. Louis and looked over the ground proposed to be used as a camp site. Col. Dougherty, in speaking of this land says that it is ideal for the purpose and that there is plenty of room to camp 20,000 men there and give them parade grounds and a place to work out the problems of attack and defense. The National Guard of this State will be the cynosure of thousands of people who will attend the fair. Resolutions will also have to stop some-what earlier this year than usual so that the ground taken in the command will have an opportunity of becoming familiar with the work before they are taken to camp. In fact recruiting will have to stop early of its own volition for the law allows sixty men to a company and there will no doubt be a rush among the young men not now identified with the guard to join before the command is taken to St. Louis. At present all of the companies are up to the minimum strength of fifty men, so it will be seen that there is not much chance for outside men to enlist unless they do it at once before the vacancies existing at present are filled.

INVESTIGATE THIS.

You Can Fully Corroborate This Danville Proof. We have all our peculiar ways of doing a good and bad turn to our neighbors, so that there is nothing odd about the manner employed by the gentleman who furnishes the information given below. His name may be ascertained if necessary and minister particulars can be gleaned by calling on G. S. Hunt, the druggist. Read this: "I want to pay Doan's Kidney Pills a compliment. Mr. Peter F. Eyerly, formerly of this city, now in the regular army Co. K, 10th U. S. Inf. while at home noticed Doan's Kidney Pills advertised in the "Gem." The claims made for the remedy seemed to fit his case—a lame back. He bought several boxes and the treatment stopped that particular attack. To show Mr. Eyerly's faith in the preparation, let me tell you that when in Matanzas, Cuba, he sent all the way to Danville for two boxes." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box. The game of football at DeWitt's Park on Thanksgiving Day between the High School team of this city and Catawissa was an exceedingly well played and interesting contest, although neither side scored. Our boys won the toss and kicked off to Catawissa. They seemed to have an advantage over their opponents and the greater part of the game was played in Catawissa's territory. In each half the ball changed hands, but Catawissa could not advance. The weather was clear and just cold enough to brace up the boys for a stiff game. There was a good sized crowd present. The line up: Catawissa Danville Fisher, Center Linker Brash, right guard Slattery Hamilton, left guard Gungorber Dense, right tackle Jenkins Young, left tackle Johnson Krebs, right end McClure Yeager, left end Edmondson C. The remarks without exception were quite laudatory, holding the deceased up as a Christian gentleman and a good and true friend. The grange it was felt had lost a good member, the State a good citizen and the church one of its pillars. The grange joined in singing "Nearer Home," after which the Committee offered the following resolutions relating to the death of J. K. Murray, which were unanimously adopted: Resolutions on the death of our worthy Overseer, Brother J. K. Murray: Whereas, Since our last meeting the hand of Divine Providence has removed our beloved Brother from the scene of his temporal labors and we, the members who profited by his counsel and example, are desirous of testifying our respect for his memory and of expressing our earnest and affectionate sympathy with the household deprived by this dispensation of its earthly head; therefore be it Resolved, That we tenderly condole with the family of our deceased Brother in their hour of trial and affliction and devoutly commend them to the keeping of Him who looks with pitying eyes upon the widowed and the fatherless. THE CLOSE OF THE MISSION

The Mission at St. Hubert's Catholic church closed Sunday night. The building was packed to the doors. It is doubtful if in the history of St. Hubert's church a series of meetings was ever held which aroused greater religious interest than the Mission by the Redeemerist Fathers. The Mission sermon Saturday night was preached by Rev. Joseph Scholly. After the discourse a most beautiful and touching ceremony took place. To the right of the high altar a beautiful shrine had been erected in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary. On a high pedestal above the altar stood a statue representing the immaculate virgin, which was surrounded by numerous burning wax candles, cut flowers and potted plants. Kneeling about the altar were 20 little girls dressed in white wearing wreaths on their heads. They repeated in a loud and clear voice the words of consecration to the Blessed Mother and promised to remain pure and spotless by imitating her virtues, after which the entire party repeated the words of consecration in the Latin language. Then the choir sang the canticle of the Blessed Mother called the Magnificat during which Father Scholly invoked the statue and shrine. Benediction with most blessed Sacrament closed the beautiful ceremony, which will long be remembered by the devoted members of St. Hubert's parish as one of the most beautiful that was ever held in this church. The subject of Father Scholly's sermon was "Mary, the Mother of God, our most Merciful Mother." He said in part: "When we reflect on the danger that surrounds us in our struggle against passion, temptation and sin we are affrighted at the thought of God's justice. The eternal truths of death, judgment and hell of themselves fill us with fear and trembling. The soul in sin is thereby discouraged and brought to the brink of despair but the thought of the Redeemer who so loved the world as to lay down His life to save it should fill him with hope and confidence. Still the thought of his offended God, Redeemer, though He be, keeps the sinner at a distance and at times he refuses to see for pardon. Through the darkness that clouds his soul God, in His goodness and mercy sends another ray of light. It is the star of the Sea, Mary, the Mother of God, the Hope and the Refuge of sinners, our own most powerful and most Merciful Mother. The reverend speaker then traced the promise of a Redeemer, who was to come from the seed of the woman through whom sin entered the world. Later on in prophecy God made known that the Messiah was to be born of a virgin and when the fullness of time had come be sent a Prince among the angels to an humble virgin at Nazareth with the message for which the world had awaited for thousands of years. This virgin was Mary, who came without sin and destined by God to give birth to the Redeemer. At her that the Son of God, the only begotten of the Father, left His throne in Heaven and as St. John says, the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us. Mary, therefore, is the Mother of Christ, of God become man, hence the mother of God. As mother she has influence over the heart of God, who was her Son. At her request Christ would visit His first miracle at Canaan. Who will say that her influence as mother ends with her death on earth? Is she not in Heaven still the mother of God, made man? Is her power over the heart of God shortened? No. The history of the church the last nineteen hundred years proves that Mary is still our most powerful and merciful mother. Christ gave her to us as His last will and testament on Calvary when He said to St. John, "Son, behold thy mother." The Father of the Church teach that by these words and the words "Woman, behold thy Son!" Mary became the mother of all souls redeemed by Christ. She has proven herself our mother by the numerous miracles wrought in behalf of poor sinners. Her shrines in Europe and even here in America prove her power of intercession. As mother of the Redeemer who came to save, "not the just but sinners" she has always shown a mother's love and sympathy for poor sinners. So true is this that as St. Bernard says "Never was it heard that any one, even the most abandoned sinner, who cried to her for help went away unaided." The reverend speaker urged the people to have recourse to their mother Mary in all their necessities and needs. Any devotion no matter how small practiced in her honor would gain for them her powerful protection. The closing service of the Mission was held on Sunday morning. Sunday morning Father Scholly preached on the beautiful effects and the folly of human respect. He showed the cowardice of fearing man more than God and the shame that takes shame to offend man keep us from practicing our duty to God and our neighbors. At the closing service last evening the Rev. Father Parr preached an instructive sermon on the means of preserving the fruits of the Mission. He pointed out to his hearers that in order to remain fervent Christians they must avoid whatever has led them to sin. This they can do by fervent prayer and frequent reception of the sacrament of penance and Holy Communion. After the sermon Father Parr gave them the blessing of the Holy Father, Pope Pius X. This was followed by benediction of the most blessed Sacrament, after which the entire congregation joined in the hymn of Thanksgiving, "Holy God we Praise Thy Name" in the German. The musical service rendered during the Mission was of a high order and redounds credit upon the choir of St. Hubert's church.

EMPLOYEES REMEMBERED

F. Q. Hartman who last year as a Thanking offering presented each one of his hands with a bank book and one dollar in cash wherever to start a bank account, has this year again shown his generosity by presenting to each employe a sum sufficient to purchase a fine Thanking turkey. All three of the mills, at Berwick and Nanticoke as well as at this city, were treated alike. The employes were indeed, taken greatly by surprise. During the past week a notice was posted in the mills to the effect that the hands would receive their semi-monthly pay the day before Thanksgiving instead of on the regular pay day, which fell on Wednesday, December 2nd. On the day set Mr. Hartman very cordially wished all his employes a pleasant holiday and explained to them that each would find in his or her envelope an extra package containing enough money to purchase a Thanking turkey. Accordingly each boy and girl as they left the mill Wednesday night bore away with them in addition to their regular pay envelopes containing the gift and stamped with the picture of a fine turkey. The employes appreciated Mr. Hartman's kind treatment, goes without saying. Many were the expressions of gratitude, which was all the more marked because of the proprietor's thoughtful liberality last year. Some were heard to say that they would add this year's remembrance to their already meagre little bank account, which had its beginning with the dollar received from Mr. Hartman last year. Not only does Mr. Hartman make it a practice to pay his hands on the day before holidays of this kind, but he observes the holidays themselves by closing his mills. Mr. Hartman's employes realize that they have much to be thankful for. While mills about us are reducing time and closing down indefinitely in this city, Berwick and Nanticoke are running on full time and every assurance is given that they will continue in steady operation.

Theological Institutions. The students in the theological institutions throughout the United States and Canada have just closed their 37 theological colleges and seminaries, representing 24 different denominations, met for four days to consider their common problems. The convention was held under the auspices of the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations, the delegates being members of student associations located in the institutions represented. The speakers included many of the most brilliant and thoughtful of the leaders in the religious thought of today, and the topics discussed included social and industrial progress, as well as evangelistic, devotional and spiritual themes. The question as to what opportunity there is for the work of the Young Men's Christian Association in a theological institution, was discussed. The Association first of all seeks to deepen and to develop the personal spiritual life of the candidate for ministry, no matter what his denomination may be. This is done by emphasizing such broad lines as habits of prayer, the consideration of universal principles and the devotional study of the Bible. Further, the Association encourages a careful, up-to-date study of world-wide missions—their aims, their history, their problems and their needs. Methods of personal soul-winning and evangelistic efforts are also studied and used, and a large social and neighborhood work is undertaken. This department of the Young Men's Christian Association is now in its sixth year and has already spread to eighty-four institutions where young men are trained for the ministry of twenty-nine different denominations. This number includes almost every Protestant evangelistic theological institution in the United States as well as in Canada and is welcomed by Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Baptists, Lutherans, Congregationalists, the various Reformed bodies, Methodists, Moravians, United Brethren and all the churches of the Protestant Evangelical faith in all sections of the country. While this is an inter-denominational movement, it carefully seeks to honor and foster the special tenets of each denomination, feeling that its work should be to aid in securing a more efficient ministry for each body of Christian believers, if it is possible. In each institution, the work of the Association, while distinctly a student affair, is undertaken with the advice and co-operation of the faculty, which enables each denomination to safeguard and to strengthen it. REV. ARMSTRONG'S DISCOURSE

The members of Grove Presbyterian church turned out on mass Sunday morning to welcome their former pastor, the Rev. E. C. Armstrong of Williamsport, who had exchanged pulpits with the Rev. Dr. McCormack. Mr. Armstrong's sermon was one of his characteristic discourses, original in thought, philosophic and labored in beautiful lessons, which he aptly applied. The sermon, which was founded on four passages of Scripture, traced the ascent of the soul up the great staircase leading from its unconverted state to an inheritance of the joys of the redeemed. The ascent consists of four stages, marked in order by "Companionship," "Fellowship," or "Friendship," "Co-partnership," and "Proprietorship." He very effectively showed how one experience of the soul leads to another and how as a person forced to be alone craves a companion, so the soul on its journey upward comes to find solace in the companionship of God. Companionship by revealing a similarity of experiences, tastes, etc., leads to a closer relation, that of "Fellowship," which in turn leads to "Friendship." Mr. Armstrong used these circumstances to illustrate the closer relationship which is bound to spring up between a soul and its God whenever a companionship with that God is sought. In the affairs of the world a partnership in business, in which great investments are made and immense operations conducted. So the person in fellowship with God can only fulfill the mission of a Christian life by entering into a co-partnership with God. It was remarked by the way that many a person is unconsciously made a partner with God—made an instrument to carry out God's plans, as when an ungodly person is permitted to accumulate great wealth, which eventually may be made to redound to the good of humanity. It is the conscious co-partnership with God, however, that brings to man his greatest joy, divine guidance and help. "It is only in this relation that we can hope to overcome the inherent tendency to evil, the remnant of a savage ancestry which still lingers within us. In the conscious presence of God every inherent vice loses its power and dies. The last stage of the soul's ascent is "Proprietorship," which can not be well expressed in words, but is well understood by those tried Christians who possess the divine inheritance. The above is only an outline of Mr. Armstrong's sermon. It was truly a great treat and abounded in beautiful thoughts, which for many years will be treasured in the hearts of those who heard the discourse. TERRORIZED THE RESIDENTS

Nowadays the perpetrators of almost every crime enacted in this section takes especial pride in doing or saying something that smacks of the Clendenen case. The outrageous and brutal murder of the operator, in his lonely tower, was so tragic and unusual a thing that other criminals, seeking additional terror, ape the methods pursued by the Brown's tower assassin. At Excelsior, a small town on the Reading railroad near Shamokin, a party of thugs terrorized the people by announcing that they were the Clendenen murderers. The story of their doings is told by the Shamokin Dispatch as follows: "Four strangers with the stamp of professional criminals upon their general demeanor terrorized the residents of Excelsior last evening between 6 and 7 o'clock, and perchance their boast that they were the Clendenen murderers and robbers was true. The four fellows, who were the most desperate seen in this vicinity in many months, were loitering about Greenback yesterday afternoon. They were fairly well dressed, and were all attired alike, wearing black suits, black flannel shirts and slouch hats, which they wore down over their faces. They carried with them several satchels, which they guarded with religious care and which are thought to contain a kit of burglar's tools. It is the opinion of many that these men know something of the safe cracking at Phoenixville Sunday night. They arrived in Excelsior, and exposing threatening looking guns, proceeded to make the lives of the residents miserable. They called at a number of homes and demanded supper and a place to sleep. They were given something to eat in several places, but did not wait for their beds. In order to emphasize their remarks and strike terror to the hearts of their victims they said 'We are the Clendenen murderers and robbers, and unless our demands are complied with and silence maintained, there will be several more such mysteries.' The news of the desperate fellows' actions spread through the village like wild fire, and in a short time all over the place could be heard people nailing their windows and doors. A number of men armed themselves to give battle, but before they encountered the four desperados, they had made good their escape." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.
