CHILD BURNED WITH HIS HOME

The residence of Charles Tritt at Long Hollow, Beaver township, Columbia county, was burned to the ground Sunday night. A nine-year-old son of the family was unable to escape and was burned to death.

About half past eleven o'clock Mrs. Tritt was awakened by the crackling sound of flames. A moment later she became aware that the house was on fire and was burning rapidly. She quickly proceeded to arouse her husband and three sons, who had barely time to escape in their night clothes. No sooner were they on the outside of the building than they discovered that Nathan, the nine year old son, was missing. One of the brothers frantic at the discovery rushed back into the house to rescue the boy, but he himself was overcome and would have been burned to death had he not been dragged out by the others. A ladder was then placed against the house and by opening a window an effort was made to reach the bed on which little Nathan slept, but the fierce flames drove the rescuers back.

The house, it is said, was set on fire. After a long search and just as they were about to give up, H. C. Krapp and Joseph Singly, who had been searching for hours among the ruins for some bones of the lad's body came across them Tuesday. They were found in the corner of the building about eighteen feet away from the place where he slept, proving conclusively that the little fellow had made an effort to get out of the house and that he had suffocated before he was able to escape. The family have not even the consolation of believing that he slept away to his death for his bones were found directly underneath where the staircase had been, and horrible must have been the death that he met.

The hunters found a portion of the upper and lower jaw bones, five ribs and a part of the elbow and charred portions of the hip bones. All the bones found were placed on a pile plate.

The grief of the parents is yet something pitiable to behold, refusing to be comforted and calling for their dead son.

A contribution, made by neighbors, Tuesday, was $30 in money, a lot of clothes. Several citizens of the township are taking subscription papers around and many are contributing. A number of neighbors are aiding in the returning of the home. Altogether their plight is a sad one.

INTERESTING FACTS CONCERNING QUAIL

No birds on the farm are more valuable as seed-eaters and insect destroyers than the common quail or bobwhite. They are beset with great material hindrances to their propagation through the fact that they and their eggs are always edible and in favor with all creatures that seek such food. Since the quail nests on the ground, its eggs are readily destroyed by snakes, skunks, foxes and other animals. All of the carnivorous birds and animals take quail as food, when they can find them. Mankind considers them as chief and legitimate objects of sport. It is no wonder that these birds are becoming rare in our state.

But above the great destroyer of the bobwhite is that merciless element, the snow, which is here to remain this month and next. This is likely to kill the quail, then, in two ways. They spend the night in covers huddled together on the ground. In the evening the snow may commence to fall, and by morning it may be so deep that the birds decide to remain quiet during the day. That may prove fatal, for as the sun melts the surface of the snow, the freezing of the next night will form a crust, and the birds may be entombed forever. Hoops of their little bones have been found telling this fateful story.

The other way in which the snow kills our quail is by covering the ground for a prolonged period, and thus starving them. With the snow covering the ground, they cannot get weed seeds and insects, and if this condition be prolonged a great many will surely die of starvation. It is possible to prevent their death by feeding them, but this should not be done by sowing the grain broadcast upon the snow. It may soon be covered and lost and do but little good. The proper way to place food for these valuable birds is to hang upon brush or bushes the unthreshed straws containing the grain intended for them. Wheat, oats, barley and especially buckwheat may be used for this; there is no better food for the quail than unthreshed buckwheat. The results in using this, as was suggested at harvest time last fall, will more than repay the expenditure and effort.

It is to be hoped that these suggestions may aid a few of the farmers in saving the lives of their best allies and friends, if the demand should come for such service during this month and next.

DEFENSE IN BECHTEL CASE

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Jan. 20.—The prosecution today closed its case in the trial of Mrs. Catherine Bechtel, accused as an accessory after the fact to the murder of her daughter Mabel.

The last witness for the Commonwealth was Frank A. Hauck, who was in the Bechtel home on the day Mabel's body was found. His testimony was unimportant.

Counsel for the defendant asked that the bills of indictment be dismissed on the ground of lack of evidence.

In answer to this motion District Attorney Lichtenwalner stated that while the Commonwealth's case rested entirely upon circumstantial evidence it was of sufficient strength to warrant the placing of the indictments before a jury.

"The theory of the Commonwealth," said Mr. Lichtenwalner, "is that Thos. Bechtel was the principal felon. We believe that he committed the crime and after its commission was shielded by Mrs. Catherine Bechtel. In support of this theory the strongest evidence is the suicide of Thos. Bechtel in a prison cell and the testimony of Dr. Lear and the many other witnesses who have testified."

In opening for the defense attorney Schacht said: "We will prove to you that the stains which two inexperienced doctors declared to be human blood stains were nothing more than stains produced by tobacco. We will show to you pillow cases, pieces of linen and other fabrics upon which within a day or two, tobacco stains have been made and we will ask you to compare them with the stains shown you in the boiler case by the Commonwealth."

"We will further prove to you that the father's hatcoat which the State produced as the weapon with which Mabel Bechtel was killed had been broken in a mill last summer, and more than that, we will prove to you beyond doubt that Mabel Bechtel was seen alive on Monday, the day before her death. The members of this afflicted family will go upon the witness stand and tell you frankly and freely of the occurrences in their home on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, from October 25 to 27."

"This old and gray-haired defendant will go upon that stand and tell you all that she knows about her daughter's violent death, and then gentlemen, you can judge for yourselves if this woman is the fiend she had been painted, or merely a kind, old motherly woman."

COMPANY SENDS EXPERTS ABROAD

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is sending three of its officers abroad to study the transportation business as conducted by the railroads in Germany, England and France. It is the intention to have a thorough examination made of the systems in vogue abroad and wherever it is thought an improvement over the system in use here is discovered it is to be gone into deeply and a report made. Such work as train despatching, running of the equipment is to be inspected as well as any other matter pertaining to the transportation business.

Friday night, Andrew Keiser, superintendent of telegraph, A. H. Roid, assistant engineer of signals, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and R. E. McCarty, assistant superintendent, Pittsburgh division of the Pan Handle Company, left for New York, where they sailed for Europe on the steamship New York. They expect to be away for about two months.

Although the plan so far mapped out covers only England, France and Germany, the representatives are in no way restricted, for they can visit any country where they believe something can be learned in regard to the transportation business. The trip is solely for the purpose of studying the transportation business abroad. This is the first delegation that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has ever sent abroad to make a study of the workings of the foreign railroads. At times officers have been sent to look into one branch but this time the whole transportation system is to be inspected.

It is recognized by the officers who start on the trip that conditions in Europe are different from what they are here, and it is much easier to get rid of the small cars than it is of the passenger coaches that are used on the railroads of the United States.

This is one of the great problems that is confronting the managers of the railroads in this country at the present time. Most of the great railroads, with all the large sums of money expended in laying extra tracks and enlarging terminals, have at times considerable difficulty in handling the business offered. The Pennsylvania Company has for some time past been having great trouble in handling its business, and it is thought if anything can be seen abroad that will help the situation it will be adopted.

All the officers who have been delegated to look into the transportation business have had years of experience in this department of the railroad, and they are versed in the practical workings of passenger and freight trains.

INSANE MOTHER BEHEADED CHILD

POMPTON, N. J., Jan. 20.—Mrs. Arthur Oswald, of Oakland, in a sudden fit of insanity, yesterday beheaded her oldest child and his pet dog, which had apparently defended him, with an axe. The boy was four years old. Mrs. Oswald had three other children, but she did not harm them. The woman is now a raving maniac.

Mrs. Oswald completely severed the head of her son from his body and carried it to another part of the house. The head of the dog was carried to the same spot and placed beside that of the boy. The assumption is that Mrs. Oswald attempted to punish her boy for some mischief that he had done and that the dog defended the child by springing at the mother.

The woman, probably frightened at the startling of the dog, got a wood axe and beheaded it. The shock, the sight of blood spouting from the dog's head, it is believed, crazed Mrs. Oswald. The inference is that she turned upon her child and killed him also with a blow of the axe. Then in her frenzy she beheaded away in fury until the child's head, completely severed, rolled away from its body. Then the woman turned upon the dog and beheaded its neck until the head also was severed. The two heads she then picked up and placed in the centre of the dining room.

Nothing was known of the tragedy until her husband, Arthur Oswald, employed as a fireman by the E. C. Potter company, at Pompton Lake, reached home last night. He cannot explain his wife's sudden insanity and is almost crazed as the result of the shock he received upon entering the house. He saw the heads where his wife had placed them, and upon going up stairs found his wife and the other children in bed, the woman murmuring incoherently to herself.

HANNA WANTS MERCHANT MARINE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Senator Hanna made a characteristic off hand speech last night to the members of the national board of trade at their banquet at the New Willard, in which he discussed Ohio, Panama and the ship subsidy statement. Referring to the recent campaign in the "Huckeye" state, he said:

"I wasn't long in deciding that I should make the protection of property, whether private or corporate, the issue of a campaign. Ohio stands today as an exponent of proper protection of material interests, and I hope that interest may spread, and whenever it may come before the great jury of American people, that it may not be relegated to the rear."

Passing to the ship subsidy, he said: "In the interests of the working people, more than any other, we must have a merchant marine. There is one place where we, as a great party, have neglected our duty. It is enough to refer to the fact that in no harbor of the world is the American flag ever seen, except on the head of a man of war. We are spending millions for a navy, neglecting a very necessary attribute."

While declaring that the Panama canal was the greatest work ever undertaken in the world, he asked: "Is it for military purposes? For the people along the shore? It will be of little use unless we have a merchant marine. Gentlemen, we hold the ace. We must get behind any trees. Don't be swayed by sarcastic mention of the subsidy. Let us improve every opportunity to argue, and, if need be, to plead, that every state, irrespective of party, shall clamor for a merchant marine."

"When Johnny Comes Marching Home." The Whitney Opera Company will present its latest and by far, most successful comic opera, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" by Stage and Edwards, authors of "Dolly Varden" and other successful comic operas, at the Opera House in a few weeks. The story is of the period known as the wars of the Rebellion and the music is suggestive of the famous battle songs of that time, most of which have lived to the present. An exceptionally attractive feature of the production of the opera is the enormous crinoline hoop skirts worn by the young women. There is a military atmosphere permeating the opera from the first to the last act finding expression in story, music and scenic environment.

PLenty More Like This in Danville.

Scores of Danville people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsements?

Joe Hooker of 102 North Spruce St., says: "I was for a long time afflicted with lameness in my back, and pain over my kidneys. I had a great deal of nervousness, restlessness, did not sleep well, had bad dreams, and was continually tossing from side to side striving to get a comfortable position. The kidney secretions were not normal, was tired all the time, and often had a dull aching in the back of my neck. I read accounts of Doan's Kidney Pills curing people. The description of their symptoms tallied almost exactly with mine and induced me to try the remedy. On using them a short time the whole trouble disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

MONTHLY RECEPTION.

The regular monthly reception of the Thos. Beaver Boys' Bible class of the Y. M. C. A. was held in Association Hall last evening and a most delightful program rendered. These monthly programs are known as "Boys' Night," and the members of the Bible class look forward to them with great pleasure. They are always in charge of a member of the Ladies' Auxiliary, who also provides the talent for the occasion.

The entertainment last night was under the direction of Miss Gertrude Seidler, who presided throughout, and opened with Scripture reading, followed by prayer by Mrs. H. J. Herrington. After several hymns were sung by the boys of the class in their usual hearty manner, a piano solo was rendered by Miss Anna Divil. Miss Grata Udelhofen followed with a pleasing recitation. Then came little Louise Reynolds with a recitation rendered in a most delightful way. Miss Florence Henrie and Bertha Kessler delighted the boys with a piano duet. After this number Miss Laura Wintersteen recited in a way that brought forth hearty applause. Miss Pearl Vantine gave real pleasure to all present by her piano solo. The entertainment closed with a reading by Mr. Lanmaster.

SENTENCED SATURDAY MORNING.

Wm. F. Bell, Sarah Simms and Herman Schlitter, against whom true bills were found on Thursday in the Union county court were tried and convicted Friday. Judge McClure called them up for sentence Saturday morning and gave them each a salty one. Bell, the principal, got six years in the penitentiary, the Simms woman got six years and Schlitter three years. The judge told the latter he was sorry he couldn't give him the same sentence that was imposed on the others, for he was satisfied that he was concerned in the robbery of the Meyers residence at Lehighburg, but the evidence did not warrant his conviction on that charge. Maad Haupt, the white girl, was convicted of receiving stolen goods and was ordered to be sent to the house of correction until she was twenty-one years of age. She is now sixteen.

THAT TAX.

Quite considerable misapprehension exists about a recent opinion of the U. S. Supreme Court regarding the levying and collecting of a tax on poles and wires of telegraph, telephone and electric railway companies. It has been taken to mean that no such tax whatever can be imposed when in reality Court held that the case in point was where two boroughs had imposed a tax for revenue when only enough can be imposed to act as an emergency fund for proper policing of the system and elimination of danger to pedestrians.
