THE WAGES OF FARM LABOR

A most exhaustive study of the wages paid to farm labor in the United States has been prepared by the Agricultural Department, and bears eloquent testimony to the prosperous conditions that have prevailed in the farming communities during recent years. It is well known that during certain brief harvest seasons it has been impossible to secure sufficient labor, and occasionally newspaper despatches have told of fabuleus prices paid to men in the fields, while numerous devices are used to divert men from other industries or from the destinations originally sought. These exceptional instances are not significant, howver, and have no economic value. The official report deals with definite facts (and comparisons are made of permanent employment in the agricultural sections. As the returns embrace reports from over 23,000 correspondents, the resulting information is of service.

The total number of farm laborers is placed at 4,410,910, of whom more than half are actual farmers and members of their families. The remaining 2,044,-761 come properly under the head of farm laborers, and the statistics of wages deal with them alone. Of this number there are included 222,000 females, and the bulk of these are employed on cotton plantations. Of the members of farmers' families about twice as many female laborers are recorded, but here also it is mainly in the Southern States that the women and girls work in the field. The latest average for the entire country of farm wages, without board is $22.14 monthly against $20,23 in 1899, and still less in every earlier year since the period of scarcity just after the Civil War. The low point was $16.42 in 1879. Wages of farm labor, with board, averaged $16.40, against $14.07 in 1899 and $10.43 in 1879. These figures apply to cases of employment all the year round, and the long period of comparative inactivity in winter accounts in part for the apparent low wages as compared with other pursuits. The hours of labor range from about nine to thirteen, according to the season. In harvest time, when extra help is hired in great number, the average help is hired in great number, the average for the entire country is $1.53 per day, against $1.37 in 1899 and $1.14 in 1895. Best figures of day wages are reported for the spring wheat States where the average rose to $2.67.

Much that is of interest is brought out in some of the tables incidental to this subject. The percentage of farms deriving their principal income from hav and grain are shown in comparison with those depending on live stock, cotton or dairy products. Thus while North Dakota derives 88.4 per cent of its income from hav and grain and only 2.7 from dairy products, Vermont claims 50.5 per cent, from its dairies and only 7.6 per cent. from hay and grain. Mississippi is most dependent upon cotton, with 73.9 per cent., and Wyoming shows the highest percentage of live stock at 62.2 per cent. Nationality of farm laborers is cent. Nationality of farm laborers is Germans and Scandinavians showing up strongly as foreign home makers on the farms, while to some extent Italians and French Canadians are farming accessions, the latter coming over the border into New England. The ratio of negro to white labor is shown in detail for the Southern States, and the high altitudes are not occupied by negroes, even in that section. Thus, in Texas as a whole, the proportion is one negro to 3.9 white, but in Comanche county there are 23,000 whites and no negroes. In many Northern States the ratio is 1 to 1,000

SUSPENSE

(Continued from Page 1) Catawissa. At Bloomsburg the bridge moved fifteen inches on its pier, the heavy iron girders snapping asunder like so many matches under the enormous weight as the ice pressed upon them. At Catawissa the bridge was moved two feet but in its battle with the ice it was again set firmly back upon the piers. All the business portion of Catawissa is submerged, Water street presenting the appearance of a raging river. In both towns boats were plying backwards and forwards in many of the principal streets. Moving was in progress all day, here and there families being taken out of the second story windows. The river seems the great fact and reaches from mountain to mountain, hiding both the railroad and canal. The bridge over Catawissa creek at Catawissa was car-

Beginning at the canal lock above the Hospital for the Insane the bed of the river taking in the entire width of the stream is packed full of ice and extends in that condition not only to Catawissa and Bloomsburg but to ditor, receiving the unanimous support points further up the stream. At Roaring creek from either side of the river the scene is one of imposing grandeur. The ice in huge irregular masses frequently 30 inches thick and towering 5 feet high seems to rest upon the Sunday and Monday a strong current farms of Prothonotary Thomas G. of the Jesse Ammerman estate. On state of affairs existed, the water covering the S. H. & W. tracks to the depth of six feet and reaching as far as the barn of Colonel Eckman. Francis Hartman, Dallas Hummer, drove to Catawissa yesterday and the description which they give of the river at that point indicates that there is still much trouble in store for the people in the North Branch Valley. While the water has fallen four feet or more the entire river is full of ice forming a jam only a trifle less imposing and formidable than what is viewed at Roaring creek. The D. L. & W. track between Catawissa and Rupert along with the wagon road the canal and the trolley track are still under water and covered with huge masses of ice. Over all the farm land submerged even where the waters have receded one sees nothing but grey masses of ice which conceal every-

The description of the ice which is still to come down the river is not at all reassuring to Danville, especially in view of the ice jam which still exists below town.

Improbable That Fruit is Frozen

Reports from many Pennsylvania owns indicate that nearly all of the fruit buds were frozen during the re ent cold snaps. It is very unlikely that fruit of any kind has suffered lamage yet from the cold.

The fruit buds are encased by na ture in coverings that are intended to protect from cold and they seldom beome damaged by intense cold. When he buds are covered for a few days by a coating of ice, they suffer and often ose their vitality, but rather by sufocation than by freezing and yet the fruit grower speaks of the damage as naving been done by freezing. There has been no weather this winter that should have done serious damage to peach or cherry buds and they are the ones that suffer most readily.

Cured by Cal-cura Solvent, the Great New Medicine, After Other Treatment Had Falled. Your Money Back If It Does Not Cure.

Mr. Martin Montgomery, of Silvara, Pa., formerly of Roxbury, N. Y., writing to Dr. David Kennedy, of Kennedy Row, said:
"Your new medicine, Calcura Solvent, and the state of the said of s wonderful. It cured me of liver and kidney troubles, and rheumatism, after a lot of weary dosing with things that did no good. It is a record breaker and no mistake."

As in Mr. Montgomery's case, rheumatism is often, indeed almost always, complicated with kidney and liver trouble. It is because Cal-cura Solvent acts on the kidneys and liver and at the same time exels uric acid from the blood, that it is such a reliable remedy for rheumatism and the attendant disorders. It cures by removing the cause, therefore the cure is permanent, safe and sure.

BOROUGH AND DIS-TRICT CONVENTIONS

The Democratic Borough and Disrict Conventions were held in the Grand Jury room Court House, last night and were largely attended. The meeting was called to order by County Chairman Simon Hoffman. The district convention was held first the organization being effected by electing A. L. Brandt, Chairman, and Thomas Lee and Edward Sainsbury Secretaries.

P. M. Kerns, the present incumbent, unanimously supported at the primaries, Friday night, was nominated as candidate for Overseer of the Poor for Danville and Mahoning District.

The delegates from each ward were uninstructed for auditor and the convention had to cast about for a candidate. The honor finally fel on John Schuster, of the Third Ward who was nominated for Borough Auof the convention.
