JAPANESE LAND NEAR NEW CHWANG

LONDON, April 20.-2:02 p. m.--A despatch to the Central News from St. Petersburg, says it is reported that a Japanese force has landed near New Chwang.

The Japanese legation here is greatly interested in the announcement of Vicerov Alexieff's resignation. The opinion is expressed that if he had resigned six months there would have been no war but now that hostilities are in progress the Japanese would have preferred to see Alexieff retain control.

SKIRMISHING

ON THE YALU

SEOUL, April 20, -11:45 a. m. - The Japanese authorities here admit that constant skirmishing is occurring between the opposing armies on the Yalu river, but they claim that no decisive action has taken place up to date, though news of such an engagement is expected at any moment. It is estimated that the Russiaus now have 50,000 men on the Yalu river. The wildest rumors are afloat, largely from Korean sources, which are absolutely unreli-

The admiralty still lacks definite information as to the cause of the Petropavlovsk disaster. The authorities at Port Arthur evidently are not yet convinced that they have the true explanation. The general staff here is divided between two opinions, a mine or a boiler explosion, although a few still cling to the theory that the battleship was sunk by a submarine boat.

The boiler explosion theory is based on the knowledge that the Petropavlovsk had been steaming at full speed and that her sudden slow down may have caused an accumulation of pressare which burst her boilers. Those who accept the mine theory and they are in the majority believe that the explosion of the mine detonated the boilers. The main objection advanced against the mine idea is that the water where the catastrophe occurred is too deep for anchored mines.

"I can scarcely imagine that Vice Admiral Toga would dare to turn loose a lot of floating mines." said one of the highest naval authorities. "The tides are high and the currents strong at Port Arthur and floating mines might easily cut to sea and endanger his own shins.'

PHOTOGRAPH OF

PORT ARTHUR, April 20.-An instantaneous photograph taken of the Petropavlovsk disaster may subsequently prove to be of value in determining the controverted questions concerning it. Further details of the disaster show that the eye witnesses were surprised at the absence of a formidable report. An enormous column of fire burst from the middle of the battleship as the vessels sank. The minor detonations heard were presumably caused by the explosion of the magazines.

Grand Duke Cyril, who was on the upper bridge, was blown some distance by the force of the explosion. Owing to his skill as a swimmer the Grand Duke was able to remain a long time above water, refusing to be rescued until the weaker were saved. A majority of the survivors were burned.

Captain Jakovieff, the commander sustained a number of wounds and had several ribs broken. He has regained consciousness and there is hope that

The remains which were recovered were buried April 15 with full military honors. They included the bodies of Commander Vaslieff. Lieutenants Kronova, Bourchek and Akimoff, Dr.

EXPERIENCES

AT ATHENS

SMYRNA, April 1st., 1904. To the AMERICAN:-My last mmunication was mailed to you at Athens. I am now sending you some impressions, gathered from experiences in that city. Our ship anchored at Piraeus, five miles from Athens, where we remained for two days and a half, making frequent trips, in small sailboats, to the dock, from whence we proceeded by train to Athens, the capital and alargest city of Greece. This ancient city grew up around the Acropolis, and contains besides the Palace and Government Buildings, a university museum and foreign schools for classical studies. Among the many attractions of the city are, the Parthenon, the Erechtheum, the walls of Kimon, the Temple of Nike Anteros. Theatre of Dionysins. Temple of Zeus-Olympus, Gate of Hadrian, Mars Hill, Athenian House of Assembly and Stadium, which is being renewed and will eat 50,000 people.

Old Athens, where the Apostle Paul walked and talked and did his mighty works in the name of God, whom he loved and faithfully served is an interesting place. Here we are in the presence of ruins so vast and of such magnificence, that we are greatly impressed with the thought of the scholar ship, eloquence and heroism of the great statesmen, orators, poets, writers and men of brain and brawn who lived and thought and worked in days long since gone. The architectural beauty of the buildings, which stand in ruins, is something beyond description. Great marble columns, eight feet in diameter, with enough of the cornice left to suggest their original grandeur, symmetry, stand as silent respondents of leading French, Italian monuments of the conception of beauty, and British newspapers, of one Am- grace and refinement that was in the erican newspaper and of the Associat- minds of the Athenians of old. > things and places. The days spent in modern Athens were most delightful--the weather being warm and pleasant. The harbor at Piraeus, where our vessel anchored, is a beautiful place and was filled with sailing vessels, men of war, and boats work of masts and sails and flags of to the eye. As usual we were not long surrounded by the residents of Piraeus, who came in boats offering their wares for sale. They consisted of articles made in and about Athens, many of which were bought for souvenirs.

Modern Athens is a beautiful city and pleasantly located. Many of the streets are broad and the sidewalks of proper width; but, as a rule, the streets and sidewalks are narrow. Marble is used extensively, and there are some beautiful buildings, built entirely of marble. The stores, bazaars, hotels, and markets, are, in most respects like other places, except that the wares offered for sale in some cases are products of the place. There are telephones and electric lights and street cars, which are drawn by three horses hitched abreast. Horses and donkeys are the burden bearers. We did not see any oxen here. We were conveyed by rail from Pireaus to Athens and were given a drive of an entire day around the city to visit the many places of interest, which proved a most pleasant and profitable experience. Lunch at the best hotels was provided for our entire party, both days of the visit, at the expense of

Committee of Arrangements. The city is surrounded by high mountains and the valleys though not especially verdant, are beautiful for situation. Being the Capital city and PETROPAVLOVSK the residence of the King, there are a great many soldiers in Athens. There are also some Egyptians and many peasants, who come in from the surrounding country.

A visit to the King's Palace and the Royal Gardens, also to the Greek churches, market places, public squares National Museum and principal thoroughfares, gave us an idea of the people and their customs. In our rounds of sight-seeing we met a number of Americans, one of whom (a Greek) had served three years in the civil war, and is now receiving a pension from Uncle Sam. We witnessed a Greek funeral pass ng through the streets, which was a novel and sad sight. The body of a young girl, lying in a coffin, borne by men, followed by the priests and the mourners on foot. The hearse was mpty, as were also the carriages; these would be occupied by the mourn ers and friends returning from the grave. The corpse was arrayed in a ich gown and exposed to view, as the pall-bearers marched through the principal thoroughfares to the grave. A he grave the corpse would be dressed in a shroud and the gown taken off

It has been said that the great lesson homeopathy taught the world was this-that whereas physicians had been in the habit of giving the patient the largest dose he could stand, they have been led to see that their purpose was better subserved by giving him the smallest dose that would produce the desired effect. And so it is with food. Instead of eating, as most people unfortunately do, as much as they can, they should eat the smallest amount that will keep them in good bealth.-Roger S. Tracy in Century.
